It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

BOOK XI.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Christians make a folemn procession, and, with public prayers, implore the assistance of Heaven. The next morning a general assault is given to the city; and numbers are slain on both sides. A breach is made in the wall; Godfrey, preparing to enter first, is wounded by an arrow from Clorinda, and obliged to retire from the field. The day then seems to change in favour of the Pagans. Soliman and Argantes signalize themselves. In the mean time Godfrey, being conveyed to his tent, is miraculously healed by an Angel. He returns to the walls, and renews the attack, 'tilt night puts an end to the battle.

THE Christian Leader now, with care oppress'd,
The near assault revolv'd within his breast:
But while he hastes his vast machines to frame,
Before his presence rev'rend Peter came;
The hermit sage apart the Hero took,
And thus sedate with awful words bespoke.

JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XI.

You mighty Prince! terrestrial arms prepare, Bu first another duty claims your care. To Heav'n your thoughts be turn'd, your vows be paid. And call the Angels and the Saints to aid: With public pray'rs their fuccour feek to gain. So may your arms the wish'd success obtain. Then let the priesthood in procession move, And humbly supplicate the pow'rs above: And you, O Chiefs! the vulgar herd inspire, Iς And kindle in their fouls devotion's fire. Severely thus the holy hermit faid; Th' observant Leader his advice obey'd. O fervant, lov'd of Jesus! (he reply'd) Well pleas'd I follow where thy counsels guide, While I the chieftains of the camp invite, Call thou the people's pastors to the rite, William and Ademar, (a rev'rend pair) Thine be the facred pomp, and thine the care! Soon as th' ensuing morning's light arose, 25 The hermit, with the priests assembled, goes Where in a vale, to worship sacred made, The Christians oft their pure devotions paid, Robes, white as fnow, the priestly band enfold; The pastors shone in mantles rich with gold, That hung divided on their breafts before, And hallow'd wreaths around their brows they wore. First Peter leads, and waves aloft in air The fign which Saints in Paradise revere: Next in two ranks, with folemn steps and slow, 35 The tuneful choir in lengthen'd order go:

Then, fide by fide, the holy Chiefs appear, William and Ademar, and close the rear: Next Godfrey comes, like one of high command, Alone and foremost of his martial band. By two and two the field the leaders tread: Then, sheath'd in arms, the warrior-host succeed. Thus from the trenches move the pious train, Sedate and filent stretching o'er the plain; Nor clang of arms, nor trumpet's found is heard, But holy hymns from humble hearts preferr'd.

Thee FATHER! first, omnipotent, they fung, Thee, Son, coequal! from the FATHER fprung: Thee. Spirit! in whose influence both combine: Thee, Virgin-Mother of the Man-Divine! ς 🔸 And you, ye Leaders! who in Heav'n above Th' effulgent bands in triple circles move: And thee, whose hand baptiz'd th' incarnate God With the pure stream in Jordan's hallow'd flood. Thee, Peter! they invoke in fongs of praise, The rock on which Heav'n fix'd his church to raife; Where now thy great descendant holds the place, T' unclose the gates of pardon and of grace: And all the nunciates of th' ethereal reign, Who testify'd the glorious death to man: 60 With those, the martyrs for the truth, who stood To feal the precious doctrine with their blood: And those, whose words or writings taught the way To the lost regions of eternal day: And her the damfel true, of Christ belov'd, 65 Whose pious choice the better life ... rov'd: The

The virgins chafte, in lonely cells enclos'd, By mystic rites to Heav'n alone espous'd: With every other name in torments try'd, Whose zeal the nations and their Kings desy'd!

Thus chanting hymns devout, the num'rous train, In ample circuit, mov'd along the plain:
Their pensive march to Olivet they frame,
(Fruitful in olives whence it bears the name;
Eastward it rises from the facred town,
A mount by fame thro' ev'ry region known.)
So pass the tuneful bands with cadence sweet,
The hollow vales the lengthen'd notes repeat;
The winding caverns and the mountains high
A thousand echoes to the sounds reply.

Meantime, in wonder fix'd, the Pagan band All hush'd and silent on the ramparts stand;
Struck with their solemn pace, their humble tone,
'The pomp unusual, and the rites unknown.
But when their wonder ceas'd, th' ungodly crew 85 From impious tongues blaspheming curses threw:
With barb'rous shouts they shake the bulwarks round,
'The hills and vallies to the noise resound!
But not their course the Christian powr's restain,
Nor cease their ritual or melodious strain:
Fearless they move, nor heed the clamours more
Than cries of birds loquacious on the shore.

Then on the summit of the hill they rear'd

A splendid altar, for the priest prepar'd;

On either side, resulgent to behold,

A beamy lamp was plac'd of burnish'd gold!

There

95

There William now, in costlier robes array'd, His rev'rend homage at the altar paid: There, with low voice, his humble fuit prefers. And supplicates with vows and holy pray're. 100 Devoutly hush'd the near assistants stand; With eyes intent behold the distant band: But when compleat the mystic rites were ceas'd, The facred Sire th' attending train difmis'd, And with his priestly hand the squadrons bless'd 105 3

The pious troops return (this duty o'er) And tread the path their feet had trod before: 'Till, at the vale arriv'd, their ranks they broke, When to the tents his course the Hero took: With finiles he parted from the vulgar band, But there the captains of his hoft detain'd "To due repart; and full before him plac'd Thouloufe's valiant Earl with honours grac'd. The call of third and hunger now repress'd, The Chief of Chiefe his leaders thus addrefs'd.

Soon as the morn ascends her early throne, Rise all in arms t'assault Judwa's town: Be that the day t' invade our impious foe. The present hours to needful tasks bestow.

This said, the chiefs depart; with trumpet's found 120 Th' obedient heralds fend his mandates round; And bid each ardent warrior rife to fight, Array'd in armour, with the dawning light. In diff'rent works the tedious day they waste, And various thoughts revolve in ev'ry breaft,

Till welcome night, that irksome care relieves, A grateful truce to mortal labour gives.

Aurora still with doubtful lustre gleams, Scarce has the dawn display'd her orient beams; No stubborn ploughs the yielding furrows tear: 130 No watchful shepherds to the meads repair: Each bird secure his peaceful slumber takes : Nor hound nor horn the filent forest wakes: When now the trumpet's echoes rouze the morn. To arms! to arms! the vaulted skies return: 135 To arms! to arms! with univerfal cry A hundred legions to the notes reply. First Godfrey rose, but now neglects to bear His pond'rous cuirass, oft approv'd in war: A slight defence the fearless hero chose, 140 And o'er his limbs the lighter burthen throws; Arm'd like the meanest of the martial name: When aged Raymond to his presence came: Soon as he view'd the chief, his thoughts divin'd What deed the leader's secret soul design'd. 145 Where is thy cors'let's massy weight (he cry'd) Where all thy other arms of temper try'd? What do'ft thou feek? a private palm to gain, To scale the walls amongst the vulgar train? Think not this talk a Gen'ral's sword demands; 1;0 Such dangers leave to less important hands. Resume thy arms: regard thy safety most, And fave a life, the spirit of our host. He ceas'd. The gen'rous Leader thus reply'd;

When holy Urban girded to my fide 155

This

This sword in Clarimoni; when first 'twas giv'n To Godfrey's hand to wage the wars of Heav'n,
To God I vow'd my social arms to wield,
A private warrior in the dang'rous field.
Since I have ev'ry duty now display'd,
As fits a chief by whom the host is led;
It next remains (with justice shalt thou own)
To march in equal arms t' assault the town.
Thus shall I keep the faith to Heav'n I gave,
His hand shall lead me, and his pow'r shall save. 165

This faid; his brethren foon th' example took; Each knight of France his heavy arms forfook; The other chiefs less cumb'rous harness chose-And boldly march'd on foot t' invade the foes. Alike prepar'd the Pagan troops ascend 170 Where tow'rds the north the crooked ramparts bend; And where the west surveys the rising tow'rs. Of least defence against the hostile pow'rs: For well fecur'd on ev'ry part beside, The town th' attempts of all their hoft defy'd. 175 Nor here alone the Tyrant's watchful care Had plac'd the best and bravest of the war: But, summon'd in this utmost risque of state, Old age and childhood share the toils of fate: These to the brave supply (as time requires) 180 Sulphur, and stones, and darts, and missile fires. With vast machines and arms the walls they stow, Whose rising height commands the plain below; There from aloft, the Soldan strikes the eyes, In form a giant of stupendous size! 185

There

There on the ramparts, flaming from afar,
The fierce Argantes tow'rs with threat'ning air:
And where the highest fort its summit rears,
The fam'd Clorinda o'er the rest appears,
And stor'd with darts her deadly quiver bears.
Already in her hand the bow she tries,
Now strains the nerve, and now the shaft applies.
Eager to strike the lovely archer stands,
And waits, with longing eyes, the hostile bands.
So seign'd of old, from Heav'n's ethereal height,
195.
The Delian Virgin dealt a feather'd slight.

The hoary King, forgetful of his state,
Within the city moves from gate to gate;
Renews again his orders on the wall,
And breathes a hope and considence in all:
Here adds supplies of men, and there provides
Fresh store of arms, and o'er the whole presides.
But to the fanes the matrons sad repair,
And seek their sabled God with fruitless pray'r.

O! hear our vows! thy righteous arm advance, 203.

And sudden break the Christian robber's lance:

And him who dares thy hallow'd name offend,

Now prone beneath the losty gates extend!

While thus the city bends her diff'rent cares, The pious Chief his arms and troops prepares: And first he leads the foot, a num'rous train, In skillful order marshall'd on the plain: Then in two squadrons he divides his pow'rs T'attack, on either side, the hostile tow'rs.

200

The huge Balistæ in the midst appear,
And ev'ry dreadful implement of war;
Whence on the walls, like thunderbolts, are thrown
Enormous darts and crags of pond'rous stone.
The heavy arm'd the weaker foot sustain;
The lighter horse are sent to scour the plain.

220
At length the word is giv'n, the signals sound;
The bows are bent, the slings are whirl'd around:
Their deathful rage the mighty engines pour,
And gall the Pagans with a rocky show'r:
Some quit their posts, and others headlong fall, 225
And thinn'd appear the ranks that guard the wall.

The Franks impatient now to prove their force, More near the walls advance with eager course. Some, shield to shield in closest texture laid, Above their heads an ample cov'ring made: 230 And some, beneath machines, in safety move, A fure defence from falling stones above. And now the fosse th' advancing soldiers gain, And feek the depth to level with the plain. (The bottom firm a fafe foundation show'd) 235 This foon they fill'd, a late impervious road! Adrastus foremost of the troop appears, And 'gainst the walls a scaling-ladder rears: Boldly he mounts, while round his head they pour The stones and sulphur in a mingled show'r: 240 The fierce Helvætian wond'ring crowds furvey, Who now had finish'd half his airy way: When lo! with fury fent, a rugged flone, With rapid force, as from an engine thrown,

(Sent by the vigour of Circassia's knight)

245
Struck on his helm and hurl'd him from his height.

Nor wound ensu'd, nor mortal was the stroke,
Yet prone he tumbled senseless with the shock.

Then thus Argantes with a threat'ning cry:
Fall'n is the first, who dares the second try?

Behold, I searless stand before your sight,
Why, warriors! draw ye not to open sight?

Think not those sheds can fence your dastard train,
For you, like beasts, shall in your caves be slain!

He faid; yet not for this the Christians stay; But in their coverts still pursue their way ; While others on their fencing bucklers bear The storm of arrows, and the rattling war. Now to the walls the batt'ring rams drew nigh, Enormous engines, dreadful to the eye! 260 Strong iron plates their massy heads compose, The gates and ramparts fear th' approaching blows. 'Gainst these a hundred hands their aid supply, And roll vast beams and ruins from on high; The pond'rous fragments thunder on the fields; 265 At once they break the well-compacted shields, And the crush'd helmet to the fury yields! The plain is strewn with arms, and cover'd o'er With shatter'd bones, and brains, and mingled gore!

The fierce affailants now, for bolder fight, 270 Forth from their covert rush to open light:

Some place their ladders and the height ascend;

Against the ramparts some their engines bead.

The rams begin to shake the batter'd wall,
The nodding bulwarks threat a sudden fall.

275
But, watchful, from the town the soes prepare
Each various method of defensive war:
And where the forceful beams impetuous drove,
A mass of wool, suspended from above,
Whose yielding substance breaks the dreadful blows,
The wary Pagans' gainst the storm oppose.

281

While thus, with dauntless hearts, the warrior-train Against the walls the bold attack maintain;
Sev'n times her twanging bow Clorinda drew,
As oft her arrow from the bow-string slew:
And every shaft that to the plain she sped,
Its steel and seathers dy'd with blushing red.
The noblest warriors drench'd her weapons o'er,
She scorn'd to dip their points in vulgar gore.

The first who, 'midst the tumult of the war, 290 Felt her keen darts, was England's youngest care; Scarce from his sence his head appear'd in view, When wing'd with speed, the vengesul arrow slew: Swift thro' his better hand it held its course, Nor could the steely gauntlet stop the force. 295 Disabled thus, with grief he lest the plain, And deeper groan'd with anger than with pain. Then, near the fosse, the Earl of Amboise sell: Clothareus mounting sound the deadly steel. That, pierc'd from back to breast reluctant dy'd: 300 This headlong sell, transsix'd from side to side. The Flemise Chief the batt'ring engine heav'd, When his lest arm the sudden wound receiv'd:

He stay'd, and surious strove to draw the dart,
But lest the steel within the wounded part.

To rev'rend Ademar, who, plac'd afar,
Uncautious stood to view the raging war,
The fatal reed arriv'd, his front it found;
He try'd to wrench the weapon from the wound;
Another dart, with equal sury sent,

Transsix'd his hand and thro' his visage went.

He fell, and falling, pour'd a purple flood,
And stain'd the virgin-shaft with holy blood.

As Palamede to scale the bulwarks strove,
In his right eye the fatal arrow drove,
Thro' all the optic nerves its passage tore,
And issu'd at his nape besmear'd with gore:
At once he tumbles with a dreadful fall,
And dies beneath the well-contested wall!

While thus the virgin round her shafts bestows, 320 With new devices Godfrey press'd his soes:
Aside he brought against a portal near,
The largest of his huge machines of war;
A tow'r of wood, stupendous to the sight,
Whose top might mate the losty rampart's height: 325
Its ample womb could arms and men contain,
And roll'd on wheels, it mov'd along the plain.
Near and more near the bulk enormous drew,
While from within the darts and jav'lins slew.
But, from the threaten'd walls, the wary soes
330
With spears and stones th' advancing pile oppose:
Against the front and sides their strokes they bend,
And heavy fragments on the wheels they send.

B.XI. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

So thick, on either fide, the jav'lins pour. The air is darken'd with the missile show'r: 335 -Cloud meets with cloud; and clashing in the sky, Back to the fenders oft the weapons fly. As from the trees are torn the shatter'd leaves. What time the grove the stormy hail receives: As ripen'd fruit from loaded branches falls: 340 So fell the Pagans from the lofty walls: While others that furviv'd, with deep difmay. Fled from the huge machine's tremendous fwav. Not so the Soldan; fearless he remain'd. And with him many on the height detain'd. 145 Then fierce Argantes thither bent his course. And feiz'd a beam t' oppose the hostile force: Firm in his hand th' enormous weight he held, · By this his mighty strength the tow'r repell'd, And kept aloof. With these the martial * fair 250 Appear'd, their glory and their toils to share. Meanwhile, with feythes prepar'd, the Franks divide The cords to which the woolly fence is ty'd; No more sustain'd, at once on earth it falls, And undefended leaves the threaten'd walls. 335 Now from the Christian tow'r more fierce below. The thund'ring ram redoubles ev'ry blow. A breach is made: when, fir'd with martial fame. The mighty Godfrey to the bulwarks came: His body cover'd with his amplest shield, 360 (A weight his arm was feldom wont to wield)

. Where from the walls fierce Solyman withdrew, And swift to guard the dang'rous passage slew: While still Clorinda and Circassia's knight, Maintain'd their station on the rampart's height. He fees, and instant from Sigero's hands,

He faw, as round he cast his careful view,

Thro' yon' disjointed stones to force the way: Tis time to shew some act that merits praise,

That may to either host our glory raise.

Then, changing shields, he scarce the word had said, When from the wall a vengeful arrow fled: The destin'd passage in his leg it found, Where strong each nerve, and painful is the wound. The deadly shaft from thee, Clorinda! came, To thee alone the world ascribes the fame: This day, preserv'd by thy unerring bow, Thy Pagan friends to thee their fafety owe. But still his troops the dauntless Leader fires, Still o'er the works his daring foot aspires: 'Till now he feels the wound's increasing pains; No more the leg his finking bulk fustains: To noble Guelpho then a fign he made: Behold compell'd I leave the field (he faid) Thou, in my place, a leader's task sustain, And, in my absence, head my social train-Soon will I turn the combat to renew-He faid, and on a courfer thence withdrew,

Yet not unnoted by the Pagan crew.

Thus

380

385

Thus parts th' unwilling hero from his post,
And with him Fortune quits the Christian host:
While on the adverse side their force increas'd,
And hope, rekindling, dawn'd in ev'ry breast.

395
In ev'ry Christian heart new terrors rose,
And chilling sears their former ardor froze:
Already slew their weapons slow to wound,
And their weak trumpets breath'd a fainter sound.

Now on the ramparts height again appear 400 The bands, so late dispers'd with coward fear. Incited by Clerinda's glorious fires, Their country's love the female train infoires: Eager they run to prove the talks of war With vestments girded and dishevell'd hair: 405 They hurl the dart; nor fear, where danger calls, T' expose their bosoms for their native walls. But that which most the Franks with doubts oppress'd, And banish'd fear from ev'ry Pagan breast. The mighty Guelpho, 'midst the rage of fight, Fell by a wound, in either army's fight: Amongst a thousand fates, on earth o'erthrown, Sent from afar he felt the missile stone. Another stone alike on Raymond slew, And prone to earth the hoary warrior threw. While in the fosse the brave Eustatius stood, A weapon deeply drank his gen'rous blood. This hour (ill-fated for the Christian train) No Pagan weapon flies, which flies in vain. Fir'd with success, and swell'd to loftier pride, The fierce Circassian rais'd his voice and cry'd.

Not Antioch this; nor now the shades extend,
The shades of night that Christian frauds befriend!
A wakeful foe ye view, an open light,
Far other fosms, far other tasks of sight!
425
No sparks of glory now your soul enslame,
No more ye thirst for plunder or for same!
Do ye so soon from weak attacks refrain?
O! less than women in the shape of men!
He spoke, and scorn'd in narrow walls consin'd, 430
To hide the purpose of his daring mind:
With eager bounds he seeks the wall below,
Where gaping stones a dang'rous passage show.

To Solyman, who flood befide, he cries.

Lo! Solyman, the place, the deftin'd hour,
In danger's field to prove our martial pow'r:

Why this delay? O! rouze thy noble fire;
Who prizes fame must here to same aspire.

While dauntless there to guard the pass he flies,

He faid: and either warrior's ardor grows: 440 At once they issue where the combat glows,
And, unexpected, thunder on the foes.

Beneath their arms what numbers press the ground,
What broken shields and helms are scatter'd round!
What rams and ladders cleft in ruins fall,
And raise new ramparts for the shatter'd wall!

Now those, who lately hop'd the town to gain, Can scarce in arms the doubtful fight maintain. At length they yield, and to the furious pair Resign their engines and machines of war.

435

The Pagan chiefs, as native fury fway'd,
With dreadful shouts invoke the city's aid:
Now here, now there, they call for siery brands,
And arm with staming pines their dreadful hands;
Then on the tow'r with furious haste they bend: 455.
So from the black Tartarean gates ascend
Pluto's dire ministers, (tremendous names!)
With hissing serpents and infernal stames!

Tancred, no less with thirst of fame inspir'd,
In other parts his hardy Latians fir'd; ... 460
When now the spreading carnage he beheld,
And saw the torches blazing o'er the field,
He lest the walls and turn'd his rapid course
T'oppose the Saracens' impetuous force:
He comes, he turns the scale of victory;
The vanquish'd triumph and the victors sty!

Thus stood the war, while from the martial band His lofty tent the wounded Leader gain'd. Baldwin and good Sigero near him stood, And round of mourning friends a pensive crowd. 470 He strove to draw the shaft with eager speed, And broke within the sless the feather'd reed:

Then swift he bade explore the wounded part, And bare a passage for the barbed dart.

Restore me swift to arms (the hero cries) 475. Ere rising night th' unsinish'd strife surprize.

Now old Erotimus t' assist him stood,

Who drew his birth by Po's imperial stood;

Who well the pow'r of healing simples knew,

18 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XL

Dear to the Muse; but pleas'd with lowly fame, He gain'd by private arts an humbler name: His skill could mortals from the grave reprieve; His verse could bid their names for ever live! All unconcern'd the godlike Chief appears, While ev'ry pale affistant melts in tears. The fage physician for the task prepares, He girds his vesture and his arm he bares: With lenient med'eine bathes th' afflicted part, And with a gentle hand attempts the dart; 490 With pincers next the stubborn steel he strains, Yet fix'd it stands and mocks his utmost pains. What means shall next his baffled art devise. Since Fortune thus her fav'ring aid denies? Full foon the Chief th' increasing anguish found, 496 And fleeting life hung doubtful in the wound. But now the guardian Angel, touch'd with grief, From Ida's fummit brought the wish'd relief; A branch of Dittany, of wond'rous pow'r, Whose downy foliage bears a purple flow'r: $05 By nature taught (th' instructress of their kind) The mountain goats its fecret virtue find, What time they feel the winged dart from far, And in their wounded fedes the arrow bear, With this, tho' diffant thence the region lies, 506 The pitying Angel in a moment flies: Unseen, with this, the vase prepar'd he fills, And odorif'rous Panacy distills. The Leech anoints the part, and, (strange to tell!) Loos'd from the wound, the shaft spontaneous fell: 510 The

The blood forbore to flow, the anguish ceas'd, And strength, return'd, in ev'ry nerve increas'd. Then thus Erotimus with wonder cries:

No skill of mine thy sudden cure supplies;
A greater pow'r his timely aid extends,
Some guardian Angel from his Heav'n descends:
I see celestial hands!—To arms! to arms!
Return and rouze again the war's alarms!

He faid; and Godfrey, eager for the fight, Soon o'er his thighs dispos'd the cuishes bright; $20 He shook his pond'rous lance, his helmet lac'd, And his forfaken shield again embrac'd. He moves; a thousand on his steps attend; Thence to the town their rapid march they bend. With clouds of dust the face of Heav'n is spread, 525 Wide shakes the earth beneath the warrior's tread. The foes behold the foundron drawing near, And feel their blood congeal'd with chilling fear. Thrice on the field his voice the bero rear'd: Full well the welcome found his people heard; The found that oft was wont to chear the fight; Then, fir'd anew, they rouze their fainting might. Still at the walls, the haughty Pagan pair, Plac'd in the breach, support the dang'rous war; Firm in the pass a bold defence maintain, 535 'Gainst noble Tancred and his valiant train.

Now sheath'd in arms, the glorious Chief drew nigh, Disdain and anger stashing from his eye:
On sierce Argantes all his force he bends,
And 'gainst the soe his lance impatient sends.

Not

Not with more noise some stone enormous slies, Sent by an engine thro' th' affrighted skies! Thro' founding air its course the jav'lin held; Argantes, fearless, lifts th' opposing shield: The riven target to the force gives way, 545. Nor can the corflet's plates the fury stay: Thro' shatter'd armour flies the missile wood. And dips its thirsty point in Pagan blood: Swift from his fide the lance Argantes drew, And to its lord again the weapon threw: 550 Receive thy own, he cry'd-but, stooping lew, The wary Christian disappoints the foe: The deadly point the good Sigero found, Full in his throat he felt the piercing wound:

A craggy flint the raging Soldan threw;
Refiftless on the Norman chief it flew:
Stunn'd with the dreadful blow he reel'd around,
Then sudden tumbled headlong to the ground.
No longer Godfrey now his wrath repell'd,
Grasp'd in his hand the flaming sword he held;
And now to nearer sight his foes defy'd:
What deeds had soon been wrought on either side!
But night, to check their rage, her veil display'd, 565:
And wrapt the warring world in peaceful shade:
Then Godfrey, ceasing, left th' unsinish'd fray.
So clos'd the dreadful labours of the day!
But ere the Chief retir'd, with pious care,

He bade the wounded from the field to bear:

Pleas'd in his fov'reign's stead to yield his breath.

Yet with a fecret joy he funk in death,

Nor would he leave (a welcome prey) behind His warlike engines to the foes refign'd. Safe from the walls he drew the loftiest tow'r. Tho' broke and crush'd with many a horrid show'r. So feeths a thip from feas and tempests borne, 575 Her planks all shatter'd and her canvas torn. When 'scap'd from furious winds and roaring tides. Within the port she scarce securely rides, The broken wheels no more the tow'r fustain. Heavy and flow it drags along the plain, The weight supported by th' affishing train. And now the workmen hafte, with ready care. To fearch the pile, and ev'ry breach repair: So Godfrey bade, who will'd that morning light Should view the wond'rous tow'r renew'd for fight: 585 On ev'ry fide his watchful thoughts he cast, And guards around the lefty engine plac'd. But, from the walls, their speech the Pagans hear. And strokes of hammers breaking on the ear: A thousand torches gild the dusky air, 590 And all their purpose and their toils declare.

THE ARGUMENT.

Argantes and Clorinda undertake by night to burn the tower of the Christians. Arfetes, who had brought up Clorinda from her infancy, endeavours to dissuade her from the enterprize, but in vain: he then relates to her the story of her birth. The two adventurers fally from the town and set fire to the tower: the Christians take arms: Argantes retreats before them and gains the city in sufety; but the gates being suddenly closed. Clorinda is left amongst the Enemy. Tancred, not knowing her, pursues her as she is retiring towards the walls. They engage in a dreadful combat: Clorinda is slain, but before she dies, receives haptism from the hand of Tancred. His grief and lamentation.

MAS night; but either hoft, with cares oppress'd,

Reliev'd not yet their toils with balmy rest; Here, under covert of the gloomy hour, The busy Franks repair'd their batter'd tow'r;

B. XII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

And there the Pagans, press'd with equal care,
Review'd their bulwarks tott'ring from the war,
And propp'd the walls. Alike on either side,
The warriors' wounds each skilful leech employ'd.
Now deeper darkness brooded on the ground,
And many an eye was clos'd in sleep profound:
But not in slumber sunk the * martial dame,
Whose gen'rous bosom ever pants for same:
With her Argantes join'd the watch partook;
Then thus in secret to her soul she spoke.

What wond'rous praise has Solyman obtain'd, What, by his deeds to day, Argantes gain'd? Alone, amidst you num'rous host to go, And crush the engines of the Christian foe! While I (how poor the vaunted fame I share!) Here plac'd alost maintain'd a distant war: 'Tis true my shafts may boast successul aim: And is this all a woman's hand can claim? 'Twere better far in woods and wilds to chace, And pierce with darts remote the savage race, Than here, when manly valour braves the field, Appear a maid in feats of arms unskill'd.

She said; and soon revolving in her breast Heroic deeds, Argantes thus address'd.

Long has my foul unusual ardor prov'd, And various thoughts this restless bosom mov'd: I know not whether God th' attempt inspires, Or man can form a God of his desires.

24 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIL.

See! from yon vale the Christians' glimm'ring light—
My mind impels me, this auspicious night
To burn their tow'r; at least the deed be try'd,
And for th' event let Heaven alone provide.
But should it chance (the fate of war unknown)
The foes forbid me to regain the town;
I leave my damsel-train thy care to prove,
And one that loves me with a father's love:
Protect them, chies! and safe to Ægypt send
My mourning virgins, and my aged friend:
O grant my pray'r!—This duty from thy hands
Those claim by fex, and this by age demands.

With wonder fill'd Argantes heard the dame,
And caught the kindling sparks of gen'rous stame.
Then shalt thou go, and leave me here behind,
Despis'd (he cry'd) among th' ignoble kind?
Think'st thou I shall behold with joyful eyes,
Secur'd afar, the curling stames arise?
No—if in arms I ever grac'd thy side,
Still let me here thy doubtful chance divide,
I too can boast a heart despising death,
That prizes honour, cheaply bought with breath!

O gen'rous chief! (reply'd the fearless maid)
In such resolves thy virtue stands display'd:
Yet here permit me to depart alone,
A loss like mine shall ne'er distress the town:
But (Heav'n avert the omen!) should'st thou fall,
What hand shall longer guard Julea's wall?

In vain is each pretence (the knight rejoin'd)
For fix'd remains the purpose of my mind:

Behold

90

Behold I tread the path thy feet shall lead, But if refus'd, myself will dare the deed.

This said, they sought the careful King, who sate 65 In nightly council for the public state:
There 'midst the brave and wise (an awful train)
They came, and first Clorinda thus began.

Vouchsafe awhile, O King; to bend thy ear, And what we proffer with acceptance hear:

Argantes vows (nor vainly boasts the pow'r)

With vengeful slames to burn you hostile tow'r:

Myself will aid—our course alone we stay,

Till added toil the soes in slumber lay.

To Heav'n his trembling hands the Monarch rears,
His wrinkled cheeks are wet with joyful tears:
76
All praise to thee, O guardian Pow'r! (he cries)
Who still thy people view'st with gracious eyes!
Long wilt thou yet preserve my threaten'd reign,
When souls like these the town's defence maintain.
For you, ye pair! what praises can I find,
What gifts to equal your heroic mind?
Fame shall to distant times your worth proclaim,
And earth aloud repeat each glorious name.
Your deed be your reward — to this receive
Such recompense as fits a King to give.
Thus Aladines, and as he sooks, he press'd

Thus Aladine; and as he spoke, he pres'd,
Now this, now that, with transport to his breast.
No more the list'ning Soldan could controul
The gen'rous emulation in his soul:
Think not (he cry'd) in vain this sword I wear,
This hand with you shall ev'ry labour bear.

Vol. II. C Then

Then let us issue all (the maid rejoin'd)
Should'st thou depart, who dares remain behind?
And now, with envy sill'd and jealous pride,
Argantes his consent had here deny'd;
But strait the word Judæa's Monarch took,
And mildly thus the Chief of Nice bespoke.

Intrepid warrior! whom no dangers fright. Nor toil can weary in the day of fight: 108 Full well I deem that, issuing on the foe, Thy deeds would worthy of thy courage show: But much unmeet it feems, that, parting all, None, fam'd in arms, remain within the wall. Nor would I these permit th' attempt to dare, 125 (So high their fafety and their lives I bear) Were this a work of less important kind, Or meaner hands could act the part design'd. But fince, so well 'gainst ey'ry chance dispos'd, The lofty tow'r is round with guards enclos'd, 110 No little force can hope the pass to gain; Nor must we issue with a num'rous train: Let these who claim the task, this valiant pair, Oft prov'd before in ev'ry risk of war, Let these alone depart, in happy hour, 115 Whose strength is equal to a legion's pow'r; While thou, as best besits thy regal state, Here with the rest remain within the gate. And when (so fate succeed the glorious aim) These shall return and wide have spread the slame, If chance a hostile band pursue their course, Then haste and guard them from superior force.

Şa

So spoke the King; nor ought the Turk rejoin'd, Tho' discontent lay rankling in his mind.

Then thus Ismene: You who boldly dare 125 Th' advent'rous tak, awhile th' attempt forbear; 'Till various mixtures, cull'd with art, I frame, To burn the hostile tow'r with sudden slame : Perchance the guards, that now the pile furround, May then be lost in friendly slumbers drown'd.

To this they yield; and each apart retir'd, Expects the season for the deed desir'd. And now Clorinda threw her vest aside. With filver wrought; her helmet's crested pride: For these (ill omen!) sable arms she wore, 135 And fable casque that no plum'd honours bore. She deem'd it easier, thus disguis'd to go, And pierce the watchful squadrons of the soe. The Eunuch, old Arsetes, near her stay'd, Who from her childhood bred the warrior-maid; 143 Who all her steps with faithful age pursu'd, And near her now a trufty guardian stood. He faw the virgin change her wonted arms; Her rash design his anxious breast alarms: He weeps, adjures her oft with earnest pray'rs, 145 By his long service, by his filver hairs, By the dear mem'ry of his former pains, To cease th' attempt; but she unmov'd remains. To whom he said: Since, bent on future ill, Thou fland'st resolv'd thy purpose to fulfill; 150 Since neither helpless age, nor love like mine, Nor tears, nor pray'rs can change thy dire defign, Attend

C 2

Attend-my tongue shall wond rous things reveal, Nor longer now thy former state conceal. That done, no more I strive thy thoughts to shake; Resume thy purpose, or my counsel take. 156 He faid; with eyes intent the virgin stood, While thus the rev'rend fire his speech pursu'd. In Ethiopia once Senapus reign'd, (And still perchance he rules the happy land) 160 Who kept the precepts giv'n by Mary's Son, Where yet the fable race his doctrines own. There I, a Pagan liv'd, remov'd from man, The Queen's attendant 'midst the semale train: Tho' native gloom was o'er her features spread, 16; Her beauty triumph'd thro' the dusky shade. Her husband lov'd-but Ah! was doom'd to prove At once th' extremes of jealoufy and love: He kept her close, secluded from mankind, Within a lonely deep recess confin'd; 170 While the fage matron mild submission pay'd, And, what her lord decreed, with joy obey'd. 'Her pictur'd room a facred flory shows, Where, rich with life, each mimic figure glows: There, white as fnow, appears a beauteous maid, 175 And near a dragon's hideous form display'd. A champion thro' the beaft a javelin fends, And in his blood the monster's bulk extends.

Here oft the Queen her secret faults confes'd,
And prostrate here her humble vows address'd.

At length her womb disburthen'd gave to view
(Her offspring thou) a child of snowy hue.

Struck

Tor

Struck with th' unufual birth, with looks amaz'd, As on some strange portent, the matron gaz'd: She knew what fears possess'd her husband's mind, 18; And hence to hide thee from his fight defign'd, And, as her own, expose to public view A new-born infant like herself in hue: And fince the tow'r. in which she then remain'd. Alone her damsels and myself contain'd: cor To me, who lov'd her with a faithful mind. Her infant charge she unbaptiz'd confign'd, With tears and fighs she gave thee to my care. Remote from thence the precious pledge to bear. What tongue her forrows and her plaints can tell, 10% How oft the pres'd thee with a last farewell? With streaming tears each tender kise is drown'd, While frequent fighs her fault'ring words confound; At length with lifted eyes-O Gop! (she cry'd) By whom the fecrets of my break are try'd ; If still my thoughts have undeal'd remain'd, And still my heart its constancy maintain'd; (Not for myself I ask thy pitying grace, A thousand firs, alas! my foul deface!) O! keep this harmheis babe, to whom, diftrese'd A mother thus denies her kindly breast: Give her from me her spotless life to frame. But copy in her fate some happier name! Thou, Heav'nly Chief! whose arm the serpent brav'd, And from his rav'nous jaws the Virgin fav'd: 210 If e'er I tapers burn'd with rites divine, Or offer'd gold and incense at thy shrine;"

For her I pray, that she, thy faithful maid, On thee, in ev'ry chance, may call for aid.

She ceas'd; her heart convultive anguish wrung, 215

And on her face a mortal forrow hung.

With tears I took thee, and with care beflow'd Within a cheft, with leaves and flow'rs o'erstrow'd. And bore thee thence conceal'd, a pleafing load! At length remote, my lonely footkeps ftray'd Amidst a forest thick with horrid shade: When, lo! a tigress drawing near I view'd, Her threat'ning eyes suffus'd with rage and blood: Wild with affright I left thee on the ground, And climb'd a tree and thence my fafety found; The furious beaft now cast her eyes aside, And thee deferted on the herbage fpy'd: Intent she seem'd to gaze, and milder grew 'Till all the fierceness from her looks withdrew: Approaching nigh, she fawn'd in wanton play, And lick'd your infant members as you lay; While you secure the savage form cares'd, And stroak'd with barmless hand her dreadful crest; She offer'd then her teats, and (strange to view!) Thy willing lips the milky moisture drew. 235 With anxious fear and wonder I beheld A fight fo new that all belief excell'd. Soon as she found thee sated with the food, The beaft departed, and regain'd the wood. Then hast'ning down to where on earth you lay, 240 I with my charge refum'd my former way:

'Till 'midst a village my retreat I made,
In secret there thy infancy was bred:
And there I dwelt, 'till coursing round, the moon
Had sixteen changing months to mortals shewn; 245.
'Till thy young seet began their steps to frame,
And from thy tongue impersect accents came.

But finking now, as middle life declin'd, To hoary age, the winter of mankind; Enrich'd with gold, which with a bounteous hand 250. The Queen had giv'n me when I left the land, I loath'd this irksome life, with wand'ring tir'd, And to review my native foil defir'd; I here 'midst my friends to pass my latter days, And chear my ev'nings with a focial blaze. 255 To Egypt then I turn'd, my natal shore, And thee the partner of my journey bore. When, lo! a flood we gain -- there thieves enclose My doubtful país, and here the current flows. What should I do, reluctant to forego 263 My dearest charge, or trust the barb'rous foe? I take the flood; one hand the torrent braves; And one sustains thee while I plough the waves. Swift was the stream, and in its midmost course, A circling eddy whirl'd with rapid force: 265 There round and round, with giddy motion toft, Sudden I funk in depth of waters loft; Thee foon I miss'd; but thee the waters bore, And winds propitious wafted to the shore. Breathless and faint at length I reach'd the land, 270 And there, with joy, my dearest pledge regain'd.

82

But now what time to dusky shade confign'd, Night spreads her veil of silence o'er mankind. Behold a warrior in my dream appear'd, And o'er my head a naked faulchion rear'd. 275 Hear my command! (he cry'd with threat'ning air) What once a mother trusted to thy care; Thy infant charge with facred rites baptize Belov'd of Heav'n, with me her fafety lies: For her to ray'nous beafts I pity gave. 280 And breath'd a living spirit in the wave. Oh! wretched thou! if, such a warning giv'n, Thou dar'ft to flight the messenger of Heav'n! He ceas'd; I wak'd, and then refum'd my way, Soon as the morn reveal'd her early ray. 28¢ But, partial to my faith, I kept thee still, Nor would thy mother's last commands fulfill: I heeded not the visions of the night. But bred thy youth in ev'ry Pagan rite. Mature in years now shone thy dauntless mind Above thy fex, the rival of mankind! In many a fight thy deeds have glory won; Thy fortune fince full well to thee is known. In me thou still hast prov'd, in peace or war, A fervant's duty and a parent's care. 29; As yester-morn my mind, with thought oppress'd, Lay fenseless in a deep, a death-like rest, The phantom-warrior came with fiercer look, And dreadful with a louder accent spoke. Lo! wretch! th' appointed hour at hand (he cry'd) 300.

That must Clorinda from this life divide.

In

In thy despite the virgin shall be mine, And thee to tears and anguish I resign.

He faid; and vanish'd swift to sleeting air:
Then hear my best belov'd! my tend'rest care!

For thee these threat'ning visions Heav'n has sent;
To thee, alas! foretells some dire event;
Perchance displeas'd by me to see thee train'd
In rites unpractic'd in thy natal land;
Remote perhaps from truth.—O! yet forbear;
Consent, no longer now those arms to wear:
Suppress thy daring and relieve my care.

He ceas'd, and wept: In deep suspense she stay'd, A dream, like his, her troubled soul dismay'd: At length her looks she clear'd and thus reply'd: 315 That faith, which seems the truth, be still my guide; The faith I learn'd from thee in early years, Which now thou seek'st to shake with causeless sears: Nor will I (noble minds such thoughts disdain) Forego these arms or from th' attempt restain; 320 Tho' death, in ev'ry shape that mortals fear,

Should undifguis'd before my eyes appear.

So spoke the gen'rous maid, and gently strove.

To calm his anguish and his doubts remove.

Now came the season for the deed design'd, 325 When 'parting thence th' expecting "knight she join'd; Issue of the season of the season of the join'd; (But no incitement either breast requir'd) And to their hands two sulph'rous balls consign'd, With secret fire in hollow reeds consin'd.

ARGANTES.

34 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIL

Now thro' the night their filent march they bend, Now leave the city and the hill descend: Till near the place arriv'd, where tow'ring high, The hostile engine rises to the sky; No longer can their daring fouls restrain 335 The warmth that breathes in evry glowing vein. Too eager now, their quicken'd pace alarms The watchful guard, who call aloud to arms. No more conceal'd remain the gen'rous pair, But boldly rushing forth provoke the war. 340 As missile stones from batt'ring engines sly, As forky thunders rend the troubled sky: One instant sees them, with resistless hand, Attack, disperse, and penetrate the band. 'Midft clashing spears and hissing darts they slew, And unrepuls'd their glorious task purfue: Now, held in fight, the ready fires they raise: Now near the pile the threat ning vapours blaze; 'Till on the tow'r the dreadful pest they bend: On ev'ry fide the curling flames ascend: 350 Heavy and thick the smoky volumes rise, And shade with sable clouds the starry skies. Flash follows flash, the mingled blaze aspires, 'Till all the Æther glows with ruddy fires! Fann'd by the wind the flame more furious grows: Down falls the pile, the terror of the foes. And one short hour the wond'rous work o'erthrows!

Meanwhile with speed two Christian squadrons came, Who from the field had seen the rising stame:

B. XII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

To these the bold Argantes turn'd, and vow'd To quench the burning ruins with their blood: Yet, with Clorinda join'd, retreating still, By slow degrees he gain'd the neighb'ring hill; While, like a slood, by sounding rains increas'd, Behind their steps the eager Christians press'd.

Soon was the gate unbarr'd, where ready stands The King, furrounded with his num'rous bands, To welcome back (if fate th'attempt fucceed) The pair triumphant from the glorious deed. Now near the town the knight and virgin drew, And swift behind the troop of Franks pursue; These Salyman dispers'd: the portal clos'd, But left Clorinda to the foe expos'd; Alone expos'd; for while the hafty bands Shut fast the founding gate with ready hands, 375 She follow'd Arimon, by fury driv'n, T' avenge the wound his luckless arm had giv'n: His life the took: nor yet Argantes knew That she, ill-fated! from the walls withdrew. All cares were loft, the tumult of the fight 380 Amaz'd the senses 'midst the gloom of night. At length, her rage allay'd with hoftile blood, The maid at leifure all her peril view'd: The numbers round, and clos'd the friendly gate, She deem'd her life a prey to certain fate. 38ç But when the finds no Christian eye descries The hostile warrior in the dark disguise, New schemes of safety in her mind arise.

Herself securely 'midst the ranks she throws. And undiscover'd mingles with the foes. 390 Then, as the wolf retires befinear'd with blood, And feeks the shelter of the distant wood: So, favour'd by the tumult of the night. The dame, departing, shunn'd the prying fight. Tancred alone perceiv'd, with heedful view, 195 Some Pagan foe as near the place he drew. He came what time she Arimon had slain, Then mark'd her course and follow'd o'er the plain: Eager he burn'd to prove her force in fight, Efteem'd a warrior worthy of his might, 400 Her fex unknown. And now the virgin went A winding way along the hill's afcent: Impetuous he pursu'd, but ere he came, His clashing armour rouz'd th' unwary dame. Then turning swift-What bring'st thou here? (she cry'd) Lo! war and death I bring! - (the chief reply'd) 406 Then war and death (the virgin faid) I give; What thou to me would'st bring, from me receive! Intrepid then she stay'd; the knight drew near; But when he faw the foe on foot appear, He left his speed to meet in equal war.

Now with drawn swords they rush the fight to wage: With sury thus two jealous bulls engage.

What glorious deeds on either part were done,
That claim'd an open field and conscious sun! 415
Thou, night! whose envious veil with dark disguise,
Conceal'd the warrior's acts from human eves;

Permit me from thy gloom to fnatch their fame. And give to future times each mighty name: So shall they shine, from age to age display'd, For glories won beneath thy fable shade! All art in fight the dusky hour denies. And fury now the place of skill supplies. The meeting fwords with horrid clangor found; Each whirls the faulchion, each maintains the ground: Alternate furies either breast enflame. Alternate vengeance and alternate shame. No pause, no rest th' impatient warriors know, But rage to rage, and blow succeeds to blow: Still more and more the combat feems to rife. 430 That scarce the weapons can their wrath suffice: Till grappling fierce, in nearer strife thy close. And helm to helm, and shield to shield oppose. Thrice in his nervous arms he held the maid: And thrice elusive from his grasp she sled. 435 Again with threat'ning fwords resum'd they stood, And dy'd again the steel with mutual blood: 'Till, spent with labour, each awhile retir'd, And faint and breathless from the fight respir'd. Now shines the latest star with fainter ray, And ruddy fireaks proclaim the dawning day: Each views the foe; while, bending on the plain The fwords revers'd their finking bulk fuftain. Then Tancred marks the blood that drains his foe. But fees his own with lefs effusion flow. 445 He fees with joy: -- O! mortals blind to fate. Too foon with Fortune's fav'ring wind elate!

B. XII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Speechless and pale like her the warrior lay. And look'd a bloody corfe of lifeless clay! Then had his foul pursu'd the fleeting fair, 540 Whose gentle spirit hover'd vet in air: But here it chanc'd a band of Christians came In fearch of water from the crystal stream: Full foon their leader, with a distant view. Well by his arms the Latian hero knew: 545 With him the breathless virgin he beheld, And wept the fortune of so dire a field: Nor would he leave (tho' deem'd of Pagan kind) Her levely limbs to hungry welves confign'd: But either burthen, on their shoulders laid, 550 To Tancred's tent the mournful troop convey'd. Thus step by step their gentle march they took, Nor yet the warrior from his trance awoke: Yet oft he groan'd, and shew'd that fleeting life, Still in his breaft maintain'd a doubtful strife: While hush'd and motionless, the damfel shew'd Her spirit parted from its mortal load. Thus either body to the camp they bear, And there apart dispose with pious care. With ev'ry duteous rite, on either hand, 560 Around the wounded Prince th' affiftants fland. And now by flow degrees he lifts his fight, Before his eyes appears a glimm'ring light; He feels the helping hand, the speech perceives, Yet, scarce recoviring, doubts if yet he lives: 565 Amaz'd he gazes round: at length he knows The place, his friends, and thus laments his woes.

And.

And do I live !-- and do I yet furvey The hated beams of this unhappy day? Ah! coward hand! to righteous vengeance flow! 570 Tho' deeply vers'd in ev'ry murd'rous blow! Dar'st thou not, impious minister of death! Transfix this heart and stop this guilty breath? But haply us'd to deeds of horrid strain, Thou deem'st it mercy to conclude my pain, 575 Still, still 'tis mine with grief and shame to rove, A dire example of disast'rous love! While keen remorfe for ever breaks my rest. And raging furies haunt my conscious breast, The lonely shades with terror must I view. 580 The shades shall ev'ry dreadful thought renew: The rifing fun shall equal horrors yield, The fun that first the dire event reveal'd! Still must I view myself with hateful eye, And feek, tho' vainly, from myself to fly!-۶8 ډ But ah! unhappy wretch! what place contains Of that ill-fated fair the chafte remains? All that escap'd my rage, my brutal pow'r, Perhaps the natives of the woods devour! Ah! haples maid! 'gainst whom alike conspire The woodland savage and the hostile ire! O! let me join the dead on yonder plain, (If still her beauteous limbs untouch'd remain) Me too those greedy jaws alike shall tear, Me too the monster in his paunch shall bear. 595 O! happy envy'd hour! (if such my doom) That gives us both in death an equal tomb!. And And now he heard that near his tent was laid
The hifeless body of his much-lov'd maid.
At this awhile his mournful look he clears: 600
(So thro' the clouds a transient gleam appears)
And from the couch his wounded limbs he rears:
With falt'ring steps he thither bends his way,
Where plac'd apart the hapless virgin lay.
But when arriv'd he saw the wound impress'd, 605
With which his hand had pierc'd her tender breast:
And deadly pale, yet calm as evening's shade,
Beheld her face, with ev'ry rose decay'd:
His trembling knees had sunk beneath their load,
But here his circling friends their aid bestow'd, 610
'Till thus again he vents his plaints aloud.

O! fight! that e'en to death can sweetness give, But cannot now, alas! my gries relieve!
O! thou dear hand, that once to mine was press'd,
The pledge of amity and peace confess'd; 615
What art thou now? alas! how chang'd in death!
And what am I that still prolong my breath?
Behold those lovely limbs in ruin laid,
The dreadful work my impious rage has made!
This hand, these eyes alike are cruel found; 620
That gave the stroke, and these survey the wound!
Tearless survey!—since tears are here deny'd,
My guilty blood shall pour the vital tide!

He ceas'd; and groaning with his inmost breath,
Fix'd in despair and resolute on death,
625
Each bandage strait with frantic passion tore:
Forth gush'd from ev'ry wound the spouting gore:

But

But here excess of grief his will deceiv'd, His senses setter'd and his life repriev'd.

Then to his bed again the knight was bonne; 630. His spirits to their hated home return.

And soon around the tongues of same relate.

The hero's forrow, and his haples sate.

Now Godfrey sought his tent; and with him came.

Each noble chief, a friend to Tamered's name.

But nor reproof nor soothing yields relief.

And words are vain to calm his sage of grief.

So when some limb a mortal wound receives.

Each probing hand increasing anguish gives.

But rev'rend Peter's care the rest transcends.

(A shepherd thus his sickly charge attends)

With awful words the lover's breast he moves.

And wisely thus his wand'ring thought reproves.

Unhappy Prince! why thus indblee thy theme, Why thus forgetful of thy former fame? 645 Why thus obscure thy eye and deaf thy ear? ---View honour's charms and virtue's summons hear. Thy Lord recalls thee to thy former puft, And shews the path thy erring feet have loft! New tasks await thee in the field of fight, 650. The glorious station of a Christian knight! Which thou hast left, by fatal love betray'd, Lost in wild passion for a Pagan maid! To thee this chast'ning is in mercy giv'n, And thou, do'ft thou reject the grace of Heav'n? 655 Think where thy errors tend; thy state survey. To fenfeless forrow a regardless pray! Thy

Thy feet are tott'ring on the brink of death, Behold th' eternal gulph that gapes beneath! Think, Tancred, think! this impious grief controul, 660 That in a twofold death involves thy foul!

He ceas'd: nor here in vain the youth affail'd: The fear of second death o'er all prevail'd. His yielding heart confess'd the kind relief; Returning reason calm'd his raging grief: 66c Yet fill the frequent fighs his forrow speak: Still from his tongue the mournful accents break: With tender found his lips invoke the fair, Who lent perchance from Heav'n a pitying ear. On her, when fets the fun and when returns, 670 He calls incessant, and incessant mourns. So fares the nightingale, with anguish stung, When some rude swain purloins her callow young. Torn from the neft; all helpless and alone, Each night she fills the woods with plaintive moan. 675 At length one morn, as fleep his eyes oppress'd, And o'er his forrows shed the dews of rest; Lo! in a dream, with flarry robes array'd, With heav'nly charms appear'd the warrior-maid: She feem'd to view him with a pitying look, 680. And dry'd his tears and gently thus bespoke.

Behold what glories round my person shine!
Then weep no more, thy faithful grief resign:
Such as I am, to thee my state I owe,
Who freed me from the vale of sin below:
Who made me worthy, 'midst the saints above,
To dwell with God in realms of endless love.

There

46 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XII.

There wrapt in heav'nly blifs, and crown'd with grace, My hopes prepare for thee an equal place: Where thou shalt stand before th' Eternal throne, 690 Partake my glories and enjoy thy own! Unless thyself reject the mercy giv'n, Or sensual sollies spurn the grace of Heav'n: Then live!—and know thou hast Clorinda's love, As far as earthly thoughts can souls immortal move. 695

So speaking, from her eyes the lightning came, And all her features glow'd with holy flame: Then, loft in rays, the vanish'd from his fight, And breath'd new comfort in the mourning knight. Confol'd he wak'd; and with a temp'rate mind To skillful hands his wounded limbs confign'd. And next he bade t' inhume, with pious care, The last dear relicks of the breathless fair. Tho' for the tomb no costly marbles came. Nor hand Dedalean wrought the sculptur'd frame: 705 Yet, as the time allow'd, the stone they chose, And o'er the grave the figur'd structure rose. With fun'ral pomp the troops the corse convey'd, While torches round their folemn light difplay'd: High on the naked pine her arms were plac'd, 710 And ev'ry rite the martial virgin grac'd.

Now Tancred sought the tomb his vows to pay,
Where, cold in death, her precious relicks lay:
Soon as he reach'd the pile, in which enshrin'd,
Repos'd the treasure of his tortur'd mind;
All pale and speechless for a time he stood,
Awhile, with eyes unmov'd, the marble view'd:

At length releas'd the gushing torrents broke, He drew a length of sighs, and thus he spoke.

O tomb rever'd! where all my hopes are laid; 720 O'er which my eyes fuch copious forrows shed; Thou bear'st not in thy womb a lifeless frame. There love still dwells and lights his wonted slame! Still, still that form ador'd my breast inspires, With not less ardent, but more painful fires! 725 O give these kisses, give these mournful sighs To that lov'd form that in thy bosom lies. Should e'er her looks her blameless spirit turn, Where fleep these relicks in the silent urn; Would she thy pity or my tears reprove? 734 Nor fcorn nor anger touch the bleft above. Ah! may she then my hapless crime forgive, In that dear hope my foul confents to live: She knows my erring hand the deed has wrought, My heart was guiltless of so dire a thought; 735 . Nor will she scorn that he who owns his slame, Should still, 'till life shall cease, adore her name; 'Till death shall bid me here no longer rove, But join us both in mutual peace above. Then in one tomb our mortal parts may rest! 740 And in one Heav'n our spirits may be blest, So shall I dead enjoy what life deny'd, O happy change! if Fate such bliss provide! Thus he: but now the dreadful tidings flew, And spread in whispers thro' the hostile crew; 745 At length, the certain tale divulg'd around, With cries and female shrieks the walls resound,

As

48 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XII.

As if the foes had ev'ry fortress won, And one vast blaze involv'd the ruin'd town.

But chief Arses ev'ry eye demands, 750
He o'er the rest in grief superior stands;
No tears from him, like common sorrows slow,
Too deep his bosom seels the frantic woe.
With sordid dust he stains his hoary hairs,
He strikes his aged breast, his cheeks he tears.
While six'd on him the vulgar bend their look,
Thus in the 'midst the sierce Argantes spoke.

When first I heard the city gates were clos'd, And 'midst the foes the glorious dame expos'd, Fain would I then have iffu'd to her aid. 760 And shar'd one fortune with the hapless maid! In vain I pray'd!—the king's command restrain'd, And me reluctant in the town detain'd. O! had I iffu'd then, this faithful fword Had fafe the virgin to these walls restor'd: 765 Or, where her blood now stains the purple ground, My days had run their race with glory crown'd! What could I more? what means remain'd untry'd? But men and Gods alike my fuit deny'd! Pale lies she now in fatal conflict slain. 770 Then hear what duties for this arm remain! Hear all Jerusalem! my purpose hear! And confcious Heav'n be witness whilst I swear! I vow dire vengeance on the Christian's head: And if I fail, on me thy bolts be shed! 775 The task be mine the murd'rers life to take: Ne'er shall this trusty sword my side forsake,

Till

Till deep in Tancred's heart it finds a way,

And leaves his corfe to ravenous fowls a prey!

He spoke: well pleas'd his speech the Syrians hear,
And loud applauses rend the sounding air. 781
The hopes of vengeance all their pains relieve;
Each calms his forrow and forgets to grieve.
O empty words! O Heav'n in vain adjur'd!
Far other end disposing Fate ensur'd! 785
For soon subdu'd the Pagan boaster dies
By him who now in thought beneath his prowess lies!

The END of the TWELFTH BOOK.

BOOK XIII.

THE ARGUMENT.

Ismeno, by his enchantments, raises the Demons, and appoints them to guard the wood which supplied the Christians with timbers to carry on the siege. The workmen being sent to fell the trees, are terrised, and return to the camp. Several of the Chiefs successively attempt the adventure, but in vain. Tancred then undertakes it, and penetrates into the wood; but at length retires, deceived by new illusions. The Christian army is afflicted with a drought, by which it is reduced to the usmost extremity. A disaffection spreads amongst the troops, several of whom withdraw themselves under favour of the night. Godfrey invokes the affistance of Heaven, and the camp is relieved by a seasonable shower.

BUT scarce consum'd in smould'ring ashes falls
Th' enormous pile that shook the Pagan walls;
When other schemes Ismeno's arts compose,
To save the ramparts from th' invading soes:

He bends his thought to guard the woodland shade, 5 From which the Franks their mighty beams convey'd; That thus their engines they no more may rear, Nor Sion more the threat'ning fury fear.

Not far from where encamp'd the Christian bands. 'Midst lonely vales an aged forest stands: 10 Here, when the day with purest beams is bright. The branches fcarce admit a gloomy light; Such as we view from morning's doubtful ray, Or the faint glimm'rings of departing day. But when the fun beneath the earth descends. 15 Here mournful night her deeper veil extends: Infernal darkness seems the fight to fill! And fudden terrors ev'ry bosom chill! No shepherd here his flock to pasture drives: No village fwain, with lowing herd, arrives: No pilgrim dares approach; but struck with dread In distant prospect shews the dreary shade. Here, with their minions, midnight hags repair. Convey'd on flitting clouds thro' yielding air: While one a dragon's fiery image bears; And one a goat's mishapen likeness wears. And here they celebrate, with implous rite, The feasts profane and orgies of the night. Thus went the fame: untouch'd the forest stood; No hand prefum'd to violate the wood; 30 'Till now the fearless Franks the trees invade. From these alone their vast machines they made.

Here the magician came; the hour he chose, When night around her deepest silence throws:

Close

52 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIII.

Close to his loins he girt his flowing vest,
Then form'd his circle and his figns impress'd:
With one foot bare, within the magic round
He stood, and mutter'd many a potent found.
Thrice turning to the East his face was shewn;
Thrice to the regions of the setting sun;
And thrice he shook the wand, whose wond'rous force.
Could from the tomb recall the buried corfe:
As oft with naked foot the soil he struck,
Then thus aloud with dreadful accents spoke.

Hear you! who once by vengeful lightning driv'n, Fell headlong from the starry plains of Heav'n! Ye pow'rs who guide the storms and wintry war, The wand'ring rulers of the middle air! And you,, the ministers of endless woe To finful: spirits in the shades below! 50 Inhabitants of hell! your aid I claim, And thine, dire Monarch of the realms of flame! Attend my will; these woods in charge receive; To you confign'd each fatal plant I leave, As human bodies human fouls contain. 55 So you enshrin'd within these trees remain, Thus shall the Christian sly, at least forbear To fell this forest, and your anger fear.

He faid; and added many an impious spell,
Dreadful to hear, and horrible to tell.

While thus he murmur'd, from the face of night
Th' affrighted stars withdrew their glitt'ring light;
The moon, disturb'd, no more her beams reveal'd,
But, wrapt in clouds, her silver horns conceal'd.

Now,

Now, fill'd with wrath, he rais'd his voice again: 65
Why are you thus, ye fiends! invok'd in vain?
Why this delay? or do ye wait to hear
More potent words and accents more severe?
Tho' long disus'd my mem'ry yet retains
Each deeper art that ev'ry pow'r constrains:
70
These lips can sound that name with terror heard,
That awful name by ev'ry demon sear'd;
The name that startles hell's tremendous reign,
And calls forth Pluto from his own domain.
Hear! and attend!—no more th' Enchanter said, 75
The spell was ended and the stends obey'd.

Unnumbered spirits to the grove repair,
Of those that wander thro' the fields of air;
Of those that deep in earth's foundations lie,
In seats far distant from the chearful sky.
So Still in their mind they bear the high command
That late, from fields of fight, their host restrain'd:
Yet each compell'd the direful charge receives,
Invades the trunk, or lurks beneath the leaves.

The Sorc'rer now, his impious purpose wrought, 85 Without delay the Monarch's presence sought.

O King! dismiss thy doubts (he thus begun)
Behold secur'd thy walls and regal throne!

No more the Christians, as their thoughts intend,
Can bid their tow'rs against the town ascend.

He said; and to the list'ning Prince disclos'd
The various spells by magic pow'r compos'd.

Then thus pursu'd—To what my lips have told,
As grateful tidings let me now unfold.

 \mathbf{D}_{-1}

Know Mars and Sol will foon their force combine, Q5 To dart their mutual beams from Leo's fign: No fav'ring winds shall cool the burning ray, No show'rs or dews refresh the sultry day. Yet we may here the parching feason bear, Reliev'd with pleasing shade and gentle air; TO This town fuch shelter yields and plenteous streams, And gentle gales to check the scorching beams: While on the barren earth the Franks shall lie, And feel the fury of th' inclement sky. Thus, first subdu'd by Heav'n, th' Egyptian train 105 Shall o'er their hoft an easy conquest gain. So shall the foes, without thy labour, yield: Then tempt no more the fortune of the field. But if too high Argantes' courage grows, To bear, what prudence wills, a short repose: 110 If still, as wont, he urge thee to the fight, The care be thine to curb th' impetuous knight: For foon will Heav'n on thee its peace bestow. And whelm, in ruin, you flagitious foe!

With joy the King these welcome tidings heard, 115. The engines of the soes no longer sear'd:
But not for this he ceas'd his watchful care,
The walls to view, and ev'ry breach repair:
Alike the citizens the toils divide,
And various throngs the work incessant ply'd. 120

Meanwhile the pious Chief, their labours known, Refolv'd no more t' attempt the facred town, 'Till once again his lofty tow'r he rear'd, And ev'ry engine for th' attack prepar'd.

Where

Where 'midst the wood the living timbers grew, 125 The workmen swift he sent the trees to hew; These reach'd, at early dawn, the gloomy shade, But sudden sears their trembling souls dismay'd.

As fimple children dread the hours of night When fabled spectres fill their minds with fright: So these were seiz'd with dread; yet scarce they knew From what new cause th' unwonted terrors grew. But fancy form'd perhaps a num'rous tráin Of empty Sphinxes and chimeras vain! Back from the wood with speed the camp they fought, And wild reports, and tales uncertain brought. The Christian warriors scorn'd their dastard fears, And heard their words with unbelieving ears. Then Gudfrey next dispatch'd a squadron try'd, A valiant troop that ev'ry chance defy'd, . 140 To fuccour those, and urge their fainting hands To act with courage what their Chief commands. Now near they came, where 'midst the horrid shade The fiends conceal'd their impious dwelling made. Soon as their eyes the dreary feats behold, 145 Each beating heart is numb'd with freezing cold. Yet on they move, while looks of boldness hide Th' ignoble thoughts that ev'ry breast divide. Arriv'd at length within the vale they stood, And reach'd the entrance of th' enchanted wood. 150 When sudden issu'd forth a rumbling found, As when an earthquake rocks the trembling ground: A hollow noise, like murm'ring winds, they hear, Or dashing billows breaking on their ear:

56 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIIE.

There serpents seem to his, and lions roar,
To how the wolf, to grunt the tusky boar:
The trumpet's clangor sounds, the thunders roll,
And mingled clamours echo to the pole!
At once their bloodless cheeks their thoughts display'd;
A thousand signs their tim'rous hearts betray'd:
No more could discipline their ranks sustain,
A secret pow'r dismay'd the routed train:
At length they sied: when one with looks confus'd,
To pious Godfrey thus their slight excus'd.

No more we boast, @ Chief! those woods to fell, 165 Impervious woods secur'd by hidden spell! Infernal furies 'midst the gloom resort,
And Pluto there has fix'd his horrid court!
Of triple adamant his heart is made,
Who unappall'd beholds the fatal shade:
And more than mortal he, who free from fear,
Can the dire howlings and the thunders hear.

Aman of courage rath, whose daring mind 275
Scorn'd ev'ry monter dreadful to mankind;
Nor florms nor earthquakes could his fear excite,
Nor ought that fills the world with pale affright.

He shook his head, and smiling thus reply'd:

By me this arduous task shall soon be try'd!

Alone I go you dreaded woods to fell,

Where visionary shapes and terrors dwell!

No ghastly spectres shall this hand restrain,

And sends shall howl, and thunders roar in vain:

Behold

Behold my foul each threat ning pow'r defies, Tho' Hell's dire passage gape before my eyes!

Boafful he spoke: the leader gave consent: From thence with daring steps the warrior went. At length the forest to his fight appear'd, And from within the mingled noise was heard. 100 But still the knight pursu'd his course unmov'd; No terrors yet his dauntless besom prov'd. Now had his feet the foil forbidden trad. When lo! a rifing fire his steps withstood! Wide and more wide it spread, and seem'd to frame 195 Huge lofty walls and battlements of flame! The wond'rous fence around the wood extends. And from the founding axe its trees defends. What monfters arm'd upon the ramparts stand, What horrid forms compose the griefly band! With threat'ning eyes some view him from afar, And some, with clashing arms, the champion dare. At length he flies, but with a tardy flight, So parts a lion, yielding in the fight. Surpriz'd his conscious heart the doubts consuss'd, 203 And own'd the fears that struggled in his breast. Then, to the camp return'd, with humbled pride, From ev'ry eye he fought the shame to hide: Nor longer dorst, his face with grief o'erspread, Among the warriors lift his haughty head. 210

By Godfrey summon'd now, awhile he stay'd, And with excuses vain the time delay'd: Slowly at length he came, unwilling spoke, And from his lips impersed accents broke.

Full

58 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIII.

Full well the Leader saw his troubled mind, 215
And, by his looks, the boaster's slight divin'd.

What may (he cries) these strange events portend? What tales are these that nature's laws transcend? Is there a man who, sill'd with glorious heat,.

Dares yet explore the forest's dark retreat? 2200. Now let his courage yonder seats invade,

Or bring more certain tidings from the shade.

So spoke the Chief: and three succeeding days. The boldest warriors, urg'd by thirst of praise,
Assay'd the dreary wood: but, struck with dread, 225.
Each knight by turns the threat'ning terrors sled.

Now in her tomb has noble Tancred laid The honour'd relicks of his much-lov'd maid: Pale are his looks, his languid limbs appear Too weak the cuirass or the shield to bear. 230 But fince the Christian cause his sword requires, Nor toil nor danger damps his gen'rous fires; Heroic ardors all his foul enflame, And give new vigour to his feeble frame. With native firmness arm'd, he hastes to prove 239 The fecret perils of the magic grove. Unmov'd his eyes the gloomy shade behold: In vain the earthquakes rock'd, the thunders roll'd: At first a transient doubt assail'd his breast, But each unworthy thought was foon repress'd. 240 Still on he pass'd, till full before his eyes The burning walls and flaming ramparts rife. At this awhile his hafty course he flay'd: What here can arms avail? (the warrior faid).

Shall

Shall I, where you devouring furies wait, 245 Amidst the flames attempt a desp'rate fate? Ne'er would I fly from death in glory's strife, When fame, when public good demands my life. From useless perils yet the brave refrain; The warrior's courage here were spent in vain: Yet how will yonder camp my flight receive? What other forest can their want relieve? By Godfrey then the task will sure be try'd: These fires perhaps may vanish when defy'd. But be it as it may! Th' attempt I claim!-He faid : and fearless rush'd amidst the flame : At once he leapt and press'd unhurt the ground, Nor fire nor heat th' intrepid hero found: At once the visionary flames were fled, And all around a dismal darkness spread: - 260 Tempests and clouds arose: but soon anew The storms were vanish'd and the clouds withdrew! Surpriz'd, but dauntless noble Tancred stood. And when the skies thus clear'd the warrior view'd. With steps secure he pierc'd th' unhallow'd glade, 265 And trac'd each secret winding of the shade. No wond'rous phantoms now his course oppos'd, No burning tow'rs the guarded wood enclos'd: But oft the trees, with tangled boughs entwin'd, Perplex'd his passage and his sight confin'd. 270 At length a fylvan theatre he found; Nor plant, nor tree within the verdant round; Save in the midst a stately cypress rose, And high in air advanc'd its spreading boughs.

To this the Knight his wand'ring steps addres'd, 275
And saw the trunk with various marks impres'd:
Like those (e'er men were vers'd in scriptur'd lore)
Mysterious Egypt us'd in days of yore.
Amidst the signs unknown he chanc'd to find
These words engrav'd conspicuous on the rind.

O! valiant Knight! whose feet have dar'd to tread
These mansions sacred to the silent dead:
If pity e'er thy danntless breast could move,
Forbear to violate this fatal grove.
Revere the souls depriv'd of vital air,
Nor with the dead an impious war declare.

These lines the Knight perus'd, and lost in thought, He long in vain the secret meaning sought.

Now thro' the leaves a whisp'ring breeze he hears,
And human voices murm'ring in his ears;

296

That various passions in his heart instill;

Soft pity, grief and awe his bosom fill!

At length, refolv'd, his shining steel he drew,
And struck the tree, when (dreadful to his view!)
The wounded back a sanguine current shed,
295
And stain'd the grassy turf with streaming red.
With horsor sill'd, yet six'd th' event to know,
Again his arm renew'd the forceful blow:
When from the trunk was heard a human groan,
And plaintive accents in a semale tone.

Too much on me thy rage before was bent,
O! cruel Tancred! cease—at last relent!
By thee from life's delightful feat I fell,
Driv'n from the breast where once I us'd to dwell.

Why

310.

Why do'ft thou still pursue with ruthless hate, This trunk, to which I now am fix'd by fate? Ah! cruel!-fall not death th' unhappy fave? And would'ft thou reach thy foes within the grave? Clorinda once was I!-- nor here confin'd, My foul alone informs a rugged rind: The like mysterious fortune waits on all Who fink in fight beneath you lofty wall: By firange enchantment here (relentiefs doom !) They find in fylvan forms a living tomb: These trunks and branches kuman sense endows, 316 Nor canft thou, guiltless, lop the vital boughs. As one, diffemper'd, to whose fleeping eyes

A dragon or chimera feems to rife. Attempts to fly, while yet he fcarce believes The monstrous phantom that his sense deceives: So far'd the lover, doubting what he heard, Yet, 'midst his doubts, he yielded and he fear'd. A thousand tender thoughts his fancy struck; And foon the fword his trembling hand forfook. Now in his mind he views th' offended Fair With all the fighs and tumults of despair: Nor longer can he bear, with pitying eyes, To view the fireaming bank, or hear the mournful cries! Thus he, whose courage ev'ry deed had try'd, And all the various forms of death defy'd; Submits his reason to delusive charms.

And Love's all-pow'rful name his breaft difarms. A whirlwind now arose with sudden roar, Which from the wood his fallen faulchion bore.

And

And thus subdu'd, the Knight no longer strove, 335 But left th' attempt, and issu'd from the grove: His sword regaining to the Chief he came, And thus at length began his tale to frame.

Unthought-of truths, O Prince! I shall reveal. Wond'rous to know, incredible to tell! 340 I heard the dreadful founds, the fire I view'd That, sudden rising, in my passage stood; Like walls and battlements the flames were rear'd. Where armed monsters for defence appear'd. Yet free from heat I pass'd the burning tow'rs, 345 Nor found my path oppos'd by hostile pow'rs: To this succeeded clouds, and storms, and night, But foon again return'd the chearful light. More shall I speak? --- A human spirit lives In ev'ry tree, and fense and reason gives 350 To ev'ry plant-deep groans affail'd my ear, And fill I feem the mournful founds to hear. Each parted trunk pours forth a purple stream. Like sanguine currents from a wounded limb! I own myfelf fubdu'd-no more I dare 355 A branch diffever or a fapling tear.

While Tancred thus his wond'rous tidings brought,
The Leader waver'd, lost in anxious thought;
Uncertain if himself th' attempt to prove,
And try the dangers of th' enchanted grove;
Or seek what other distant wood might yield
'The planks to frame his engines for the field;
But from his doubts the Hermit soon relieves
The pensive Chief, and thus his counsel gives.

Forego

380

. 28 5

Forego thy schemes, nor think the wood t' invade, Another hand must pierce the fatal shade. 366 Now, now, the vessel gains the desart strand, She furls her fails, the cuts the yielding fand! See! where at length th' expected hero breaks His shameful bondage, and the shore forsakes! 370 Full foon will Heav'n you tow'ring walls o'erthrow, And quell the numbers of th' Egyptian foe! While thus he spoke, enslam'd his looks appear'd; With more than mortal found his voice was heard.

The pious Godfrey, still with cares oppress'd, 275 New plans revolv'd within his thoughtful breaft. But now, receiv'd in Cancer's fiery fign, The sun, with scorching rays, began to shine: A direful drought fucceeds: the martial train No more the labours of the field fustain. Each gentle star has quench'd its kindly beam; From fullen skies malignant planets gleam; Their baneful influence on the earth they shed, And wide thro' air infectious vapours spread. To dreadful day more dreadful night succeeds, And each new morn increasing terror breeds. The fun ne'er rises chearful to the fight, But fanguine spots distain his facred light: Pale hov'ring mists around his sorehead play, The fad forerunners of a fatal day! His fetting orb in crimfon feems to mourn, Denouncing greater woes at his return; And adds new horrors to the present doom. By certain fear of evils yet to come!

64 JERUSALEM DELIVERED: B. XIII.

All nature pants beneath the burning sky: 395 The earth is cleft, the less'ning streams are dry: The barren clouds, like streaky slames, divide, Dispers'd and broken thro' the fultry void. No chearful object for the fight remains: Each gentle gale its grateful breath retains; 400 Alone the wind from Lybia's fands respires, And burns each warrior's breast with secret fires. Nocturnal meteors blaze in dusky air, Thick lightnings flash and livid comets glare! No pleasing moisture nature's face renews: 405 The moon no longer fieds her pearly dews To chear the mourning earth: the plants and flow'rs In vain require the foft and vital show'rs! Sweet flumber flies from ev'ry reftless night. In vain would men his balmy pow'r invite; Sleepless they lie: but far above the rest, The rage of thirst their fainting fouls oppress'd. For, vers'd in guile, Judaa's impious King With pois'nous juice had tinctur'd ev'ry spring; Whose currents now with dire pollution slow, Like Styx and Acheron in realms below! The flender ffream where Siloa's gentle wave Once to the Christians draughts untainted gave: Now scarcely murmurs, in his channels dry, And yield their fainting hoft a small supply. 420 But not the Po, when most his waters swell, Would feem too vast their raging thirst to quell; Nor mighty Ganges, nor the fev'n-mouth'd Nile, That, with his deluge, glads th' Egyptian foil.

B. XIII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

If e'er their eyes, in happier times, have view'd, 425
Begirt with graffy turf, some crystal slood:
Or living waters foam from Alpine hills,
Or thro' soft herbage purl the limpid rills:
Such flatt'ring scenes again their fancies frame,
And add new sewel to increase their slame.
Still in the mind the wish'd idea reigns:
But still the fervor rages in the veins!
Then might you see on earth the warriors lie,
Whose limbs robust could ev'ny clime defy;
And the weight of pond'rous arms to bear,
Inur'd in fields the hostile steel to dare:
Deep in thir veins the hidden suries prey,
And eat, by slow degrees, their lives away.
The courser, late with con'rous pride infinish.

The courser, late with gon'nous pride infinid, 440 down loaths' the grafs his once delightful food:
With fathle steps he scarcely froms to read,
And prone to earth is hung his languid head.
No mem'ry now of ancient fame remains,
No thirst of glory on the dusty plains:
The conquer'dispoils and trappings once bestow'd, 445
His joy so late, are now a paintful load!

Now pines the faithful dog, nor heeds the hoard,

Nor heeds the fervice of his theorer lord!

Out-firetch'd he lies, and as he pants for breath,

Receives at ev'ry gafp new draughts of death.

In vain has nature's law the air affign'd T' allay the inward heat of human kind: What here, alas! can air mankind avail, When fevers float on every burning gale!

Thus

66 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIII.

Thus droop'd the earth, and ev'ry glory loft, 455 Dire prospects terrify'd the faithful host: Complaints aloud resound from ev'ry band, And words, like these, are heard on either hand.

What next can Godfrey hope? Why longer stay 'Till one fad fate sweep all our camp away? 460 Still can he think you lofty walls to gain, What force is left, what engines now remain? And fees not he, of all the hoft alone. The wrath of God by ev'ry fignal shewn? A thousand figns and prodigies declare 465 His will oppos'd against this fatal war. What scorching rays the fick'ning land invade ! Nor Ind nor Lybia asks a cooler shade! Then thinks our Leader no regard we claim, And views us as a vile, a worthless name! That fouls like ours to death must tamely yield, So he may still th' imperial sceptre wield! Behold the boafted Chief, the pious nam'd, For acts of mercy and for goodness fam'd, Forgets his people's weal, his pow'r to raife, And on their ruin builds destructive praise! While thus we mourn each spring and fountain dry'd, From Jordan's stream his thirst is well supply'd; Amidst his festive friends the prince reclines, And mixes cooling draughts with Cretan wines.

Thus faid the Franks; but louder far complain'd The Grecian chief, who Godfrey's fway difdain'd: Who with reluctance long his rule obey'd; Why should I tamely perish here? (he said)

And

And why with me on mine should ruin wait? If Godfrey blindly rush on certain fate, On him and on his Franks th' event be thrown, Nor let us fall for follies not our own.

Thus said the Chief; nor bade the host adieu, But, with his train, at ev'ning's close, withdrew. 49® Soon as the morn beheld his squadron sled, On other troops the quick contagion spread. Those that in battle Ademar obey'd, And brave Clothareus, now in silence laid, (Since death, which all dissolves, had burst the bands That held them subject to their lord's commands) 496 Already meditate their secret slight, And some depart beneath the fav'ring night.

All this full well observant Godfrey knew,
Nor yet his soul would rig'rous means pursue
T' oppose the ill; resolv'd the faith to prove,
That rapid streams can stay, and rocks remove;
The Ruler of the world with pray'rs t' implore
The sacred sountains of his grace to pour.
With hands conjoin'd, and eyes with zeal on stame, 505
He thus aloud invok'd th' Eternal name.

O King! and Father! if thy pitying hand
E'er shed thy manna in the desart land;
If e'er thy will to man such virtue gave,
From veins of rock to draw the gushing wave;
Be now for these thy wond'rous pow'r display'd:
But if their merits less can claim thy aid,
O! let thy grace, to veil their faults, be giv'n,
Still may thy warriors feel the care of Heav'n!

68 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIII.

These righteous pray'rs, in humble words express'd, On eagle-wings to Heav'n their slight address'd; 5 16 There sull before the throne of God appear'd: 'Th' Eternal Father with complacence heard; His awful eyes he beat on Syria's lands, And view'd the labours of his faithful bands: 520 He saw their suff'rings with a gracious look, Then thus, with mild benevolence, he spoke.

Lo! to this hour, on earth my camp belov'd!

Has various woes and dreadful perils prov'd!

The world, in arms, refifts their gloribus toils,

And hell obstructs their course with all its wises.

Now, chang'd the scene, a happier sate attends:

From sav'ring clouds the friendly show'r descends:

Their matchless hero cames t' exalt their name,

And Egypt's host arrives to crown their same.

Th' Almighty ceas'd: Heav'n trembled as he spoke; The stars and ev'ry wand'ring planet shook; The air was hush'd, the sea was calm'd to rest. And ev'ry hill and cave their awe confess'd. Swift to the left the lightning's blaze appear'd; 535 At once aloft the thunder's noise was heard. The troops transported view the low'ring kies, And hail the rolling found with joyful cries. Now thick'ning clouds their gloomy veil extend; Not these in vapours from the earth ascend 540 By Phabus' warmth; but Heav'n the deluge pours, And opens all the fluices of its stores. The tortents fall impetuous from the skies; Above their banks the foamy rivers rife.

B. XIII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED,

As on the shore, when heats have parch'd the plain, The cackling breed expect the kindly rain; 546 Then greet the moisture with expanded wings, And sport and plunge beneath the cooling springs: The Christians thus falute with joyful cry. The grateful deluge from the pitying sky. 550 These on their locks or vests the stream receive; From helms or vafes those their thirst relieve: Some hold their hands beneath the cooling wave: Their faces some, and some their temples lave: While Earth, that late her gaping rifts disclos'd, 555 And fainting lay to parching heat expos'd; Receives and ministers the vital show'rs To fading herbs, to plants, to trees and flow'rs: Her fever thus allay'd, new health returns, No more the flame within her bosom burns: 960 Again new beauties grace her gladden'd foil, Again renew'd her hills and valleys smile.

Now ceas'd the rain; the sun restor'd the day,
And shed with grateful warmth a temper'd ray:
As when his beams benign their influence bring 565
T' unlock, with genial pow'r, the welcome spring.
O wond'rous faith! that, trusting Heav'n above,
Can purge the air and ev'ry ill remove:
Can change the seasons, and reverse their state,
And quench the sury of impending Fate!

THE ARGUMENT.

Godfrey is admonified in a dream to recall Rinaldo to the camp. Guelpho pleads for his nephew's return, and Godfrey consents to it. Uhald and Charles the Dane are appointed the messengers for that purpose these, by the directions of Peter, proceed to Ascalon, where they are entertained by a Christian Magician, who shows them many wonders. He gives them a particular relation of the manner in which Rinaldo was ensured by Armida, and then instructs them fully how to deliver him from the power of the Enchantress

Now from her mother's antient lap arose Indulgent Night, befriending sweet repose: Soft breezes in her train attendant slew, While from her robe she shook the pearly dew: The slutt'ring Zephyrs breath'd a grateful wind, And sooth'd the balmy slumbers of mankind.

Now, ev'ry thought forgot, the peaceful host Their cares and labours in oblivion lost:

But ever watchful o'er his creatures' state, In light eternal Heav'n's Almighty fate: His looks he turn'd, and view'd, from upper skies. The Christian Leader with benignant eyes: To him, with speed, he sent a mystic dream. To speak the purpose of the will supreme. Not far from where the fun, with eastern ray, Iς Thro' golden portals pours the beamy day, A crystal gate there stands, whose valves unfold Ere yet the skies the dawning light behold. From thence the dreams arise, which Heav'nly pow'r To pious mortals fends in gracious hour. 20 From thence to Gadfrey's tent the Vision fled, And o'er the Chief his radiant pinions spread. No slumber e'er such pleasing scenes display'd, As now the hero, in a trance, furvey'd: That brought the starry mansions to his eyes, . 25 And open'd all the secrets of the skies: Then full reflected to his sense was shown The happy state, by righteous spirits known.

He feem'd aloft to realms of glory rais'd, Where beams on beams with mingled luftre blaz'd. 30 There while he, wond'ring, view'd the feats around, And heard the facred choir their hymns refound; Begirt with rays, and cloath'd with lambent flame, Full in his fight a graceful warrior came. His tuneful voice no founds can reach below. 35 And from his lips these gentle accents flow: Then will not Gedfrey own this face again, And is thy friend, thy Huge seen in vain?

То	whom the Chief reply'd	That form divin	ıe,

Where circling beams of dazzling glory shine, So far my feeble mortal fense obseur'd, That scarcely yet my mem'ry flands affur'd. He faid: and thrive with eager arms affay'd With pious love to class the friendly shade:

And thrice the phantom mock! d his fruitless care, 45 And fled like empty dreams or fleeting air.

Think not (the Vision cry'd) thy eyes behold A mortal subflance of terrestrial mould: A naked spirit stands before thy sight, A citizen of this celetial light. Behold Goo's temple! here his warriors reft. With these shalt thou reside for ever blest. When comes that happy hour? (the Chief replies)

Ah! now release my soul from earthly ties!

Soon shalt thou (Hugo thus return'd again) Partake the triumphs of the immortal train: But first thy warfare claims new toils below: In fields of fight thy courage yet must glow. 'Tis thine to free from impious Pagan bands The faceod empire of Judea's lands; And, firmly fixed, the Christian throne to place The feat thy brother is decreed to grace. But that thy breast may feel a holier fire. And purer pleasures purer thoughts inspire: Contemplate well this place, these starry rays, 65 Where Heav'n's Almighty pours the boundless blaze! Hark! how th' Angelic Choir their hymns prolong,

And warble to the lyre celestial fong!

Tis thine the foremost duties to sustain,
To him the second honours must remain:
To him alone, 'tis giv'n the woods to fell,
So deeply guarded by the stends of hell:

Their numbers weaken'd and their courage lost;
That inly meditate a shameful slight,

So shall they teach yon haughty walls to yield,

78 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIV.

Since all (for thus the public fame was blown)
Had fix'd the knight's retreat in Autioch's town: 220
But here the word the rev'rend hermit took,
And interpos'd and thus their converse broke.

Ye warriors brave! attend my words (he faid)

Nor be by voice of vulgar fame missed;

But haste to Ascalon, and seek the shores

225

Where to the sea a stream its tribute pours:

There shall a sage, the Christians' friend, appear;

Attend his dictates and his counsel hear:

Full well he knows, long since foretold by me,

Qf this your journey, six'd by God's decree;

230

'Tis his your steps to guide; from him receive

Such welcome as a faithful heart can give.

The hermit said: and as his words requir'd, The ready knights obey'd what Heav'n inspir'd. Direct to Ascalon they bent their way. Where breaks against the land the neighb'ring sea. Their ears perceiv'd not yet the hollow roar Of dashing billows sounding on the shore: When now the chiefs a rapid stream beheld, With fudden rains and rushing torrents swell'd: The banks no more confine its headlong course: Swift as a shaft it drives with furious force. While in suspense they stand, a sage appears Of rev'rend aspect and experienc'd years. An oaken wreath furrounds his aged brows; In lengthen'd folds his snowy vesture flows; A wandine shakes: secure he treads the waves, And with his feet unbath'd the forrent braves.

So near the freezing pole, the village-swains
(When winter binds the floods in key chains)

Oft o'er the Rhine in searless numbers glide

With hissing sound, and skim the solid tide.

Now came the fage to where in deep surprize,
On him the silent warriors fix'd their eyes;
Then thus: O friends! you'tempt an arduous task, 255
Your high designs uncommon guidance ask.
What toils, what dangers still attend your way,
What seas to pass, what regions to survey!
Far must your search, where other suns ascend,
Beyond the limits of our world extend!

260
But sirst vouchfase to view my lonely cell,
The hidden mansion where retir'd I dwell:
There shall my lips such wond'rous truths declare,
As well besits your purpose now to hear.

He ceas'd; and bade the stream a passage yield; 265
Th' obedient stream a sudden path reveal'd;
Full in the midst the parting waves divide,
A liquid mountain rose on either side.
Then by the hand he seiz'd the knights, and led
Within the winding river's secret bed.

There doubtful day scarce glimmers to their sight,
As when pale Cynthia, thro' the groves by night,
Sheds from her slender horns a trembling light.
There caverns huge they view; from these arise
The watry stores that yield the earth supplies,
To run in rills, in gushing springs ascend,
To flow in rivers, or in lakes extend.

There might they fee whence Po and Ifter came, Hydafpes, Ganges, and Euphrases' fiream ? Whence mighty Tancis first derives his course: And Nilus there reveals his fecret fource. Deep underneath they next a flood behold. Where fulphur, mix'd with living filver, roll'd; Till these by Sol's enlighing rays refin'd, In folid gold or lucid cryftal fhin'd ! 285 Along the banks they faw, on either fide, Unnumber'd jewels deck the wealthy tide: From these by fits, a flathing splendor play'd, And chac'd the horrors of the dufky shade. There shines the sapphise gay with szure bright, And there the jacyath eives a pleasing light: There sames the ruby; there the di'mond beams; And milder there the vendant entrant gleans!

The warriors field purfied their revised guide;
These wond'rous seener in deep amazement ty'd 295 Each various seese; 'rill prudent Usel'd broke.
The silence first, and then the sage bespoke.
Say Father! what the place we now behold;
Where do'st thou lead? and what thy state; unfold?
Scarce can I tells bewilden'd with surprize,
If truth I view, or dreams deceive my eyes!

Then he: Lo! here the spacious womh of earth,
Where all productions sight receive their birth:
Nor could you thus her entrails dark explore,
Without my guidance and superior pow'r:
Now to my palace I your steps convey:

Full well you know that these, in bonds restrain'd, Th' insidious dame within her tow'r detain'd; And sent them guarded thence to Gaza's land, When fortune, in the way, releas'd their band.

375 It now remains for me, th' events to tell (As yet unknown) which since that time befel.

Soon as th' Enchantress saw her pris'ners lost, Her schemes deseated and her labours crost; Oppress'd with sudden grief her hands she wrung, 386 And thus exclaim'd with raging fury stung.

Then shall he live to boast th' audacious deed,
My guards defeated and my captives freed!
No—if his arms to others freedom give,
Let him in pains and shameful bondage live:
385
Nor he alone my just revenge shall claim,
My rage shall burst on all the Christian name!

Furious she spoke, and as she spoke design'd A new device within her fraudful mind: She sought the plain, where late Ringldo's might Her warriors vanquish'd and dispers'd in sight. The battle o'er, his mail the chief unbrac'd, And on his limbs a Pagan's armour lac'd.: Perchance he sought to veil his glorious name, Conceal'd in humbler dress unknown to same. His arms th' Enchantress took, in these enclos'd A headless trunk, and near a stream expos'd:

84 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIV.

Here well she knew that, charg'd with daily care. A band of Franks would from the camp repair. And fast beside the flation'd in the shade 400 A crafty flave in shepherd's garb array'd. Instructed well suspicion's bane to spread: He first amongst your troops th' infection shed; That, wide diffusing, scatter'd discord far, And threaten'd direful rage and civil war. 405 Thus, as her arts defign'd, the Christian train Believ'd by Godfrey brave Rinaldo flain. 'Till foon to all confess'd the truth appear'd, And jealous doubts from ev'ry breast were clear'd. Rehold the first device Armida try'd; 410 Now, mark what next her wily thoughts employ'd. The Sorc'ress Ray'd by fam'd Oventes' stream, 'Till near the banks the young Rinalds came; Where from the main a parting riv'let glides, And forms an island in the limpid tides, 415 There by the shore a little bark appear'd; A marble pillar close beside was rear'd; On this, as in suspense, awhile he stood, Engrav'd in gold these words the here view'd. O thou! whoe'er thou art, whose steps are led, 420 By choice or fate, these lonely shores to tread; No greater wonders East or West can boast, Than you small Island on its pleasing coast. If e'er thy fight would blifsful scenes explore, This current pass and seek the further shore. 425 Th' uncautious warrior with th' advice comply'd, And curious turn'd, refelv'd to crofe the tide;

But.

But, for the bark could only one contain,
Alone he pass'd, and bade his squires remain.
Now, to the land th' impatient hero brought,
430
With eager looks, the promis'd wonders sought;
Yet nought beheld but meadows deck'd with show'rs,
Clear waters, cooling cares, and shady bow'rs.
Th' enticing scenes awhile the youth delay'd;
He stretch'd his weary himbs beneath the shade;
Then from the massy helm his brows reliev'd,
And in his face the fresh'ning breeze receiv'd.

But foon he heard the fiream, with bubbling noise. Remurm'ring foft, and thither turn'd his eyes: When 'midft the flood the circling waves he fpy'd 440 That form'd an eddy in the whirling tide: Whence, rising flow, dishevell'd locks appear'd, And female features o'er the water rear'd: The fnowy neck, and gently fwelling breatt: A crystal veil beneath conceal'd the rest. 445 So from the parting stage is seen to sife A nymph or goddess to the gazer's eves. This, the' her form a Syren's charms display'd, Was but a femblance and delutive made: Yet one of those she serm'd, who wont of yore, In faithless seas t' infest the Fyerbene ftore. Sweet as her looks, so sweet her tuneful voice; And thus she sings while winds and skies rejoice.

O happy man! when youth reigns o'er your hours, And strews the paths of life with smiling flow'rs; 455 Ah! let not virtue with fallacious ray, Or glory lead your tender mind astray.

Who

Who learns the fruit, each season yields, to prize. Who follows pleasure, he alone is wife. Know, this is Naure's voice! - Will you withfland Her facred laws, and flight her high command? Infensate he who wastes his bloomy prime. Nor takes the transient gifts of fleeting time. Whate'er the world may worth or valour deem, Is but a phantom, and delusive dream! 465 Sav. what is fame, that idol of the brave. Whose charms can thus deceiv'd mankind enslave? An echo - or a shade - to none confin'd: A shifting cloud dispers'd with ev'ry wind! Then rest secure; in ev'ry offer'd joy Indulge your fenses, and your foul employ. Past woes forget; nor antedate your doom, By vain prefage of evils yet to come. Let thunders roll, and nimble light'nings fly; Yet heed not you the threat'nings of the sky. This, this is wisdom; hence each blessing flows: This Nature bids, and this the path she shows.

Thus impious she: The soothing accents creep, And lull the list'ning knight to balmy sleep: In vain the thunder's noise had rent the skies. 480 So deep entranc'd in death-like rest he lies.

Now fir'd with vengeance, issuing from the wood. The false Enchantress o'er the warrior stood: But when she view'd intent his manly face, His features glowing with celestial grace, 485 Rapt in suspense, beside the youth she sate, And, as she view'd, forgot her former hate.

Soon

Low-bending o'er his charms, fhe hangs amaz'd; So once Narcissis in the fountain gaz'd. Now from his cheeks she wipes the dews away; Now bids the fanning breeze around him play: Now thro' the meads, that fmil'd with various flow'rs, She stray'd, and wanton cropt the fragrant stores; The rose and lily, with her artful hands ... Together join'd, she forms in pleasing bands; With these the warrior's arms and legs enfolds. And gently thus in flow'ry fetters holds! Then, while in foft repose he senseless lies, She lays him on her car and cuts the skies. Nor feeks the to regain Damascus' lands, 500 Or where, with waves enclos'd, her castle stands: But jealous of her prize, and fill'd with shame. In ocean's vast profound she hides her flame: Where from our coast no bark the billow ploughs, There midst circumfluent tides an isle she chose: Then to a mountain's lofty summit flies, Forlorn and wild, expos'd to flormy skies: She cloaths the foot and fides with dreary fnows. While on the Brow eternal verdure grows. There rear'd by spells and more than mortal hands, 510 Beside a lake her spacious palace stands; Where in unfailing spring, and shameful ease, Th' imprison'd champion leads his am'rous days. 'Tis yours the jealous Sorc'ress' guards to quell, That watch th' ascent and near the palace dwell. 515 Nor shall you want a guide your course to lead; Nor arms t' assist you in th' advent'rous deed.

Soon as you quit my fiream, your eyes finall view A dame, tho' old in years, of youthful hue; Known by the locks that o'er her forehead play, And changeful robes with various colours gay. 'Tis hers to guide you to the talk decreed, With more than eagle's wings or lightning's speed. 'Tis hers to waft you o'er the watry plain, And fafe return you from the waring main. ₹2₹ The mount afcending, on whose tow'ring height Th' Enchantress dwells, remote from human sight; Then shall you numerous savage forms behold: There Pythone his in dreadful volumes rolled; With horrid briftles fands the foaming boas; 530 With gaining jaws the bear and lion rear! Then sudden hake this potent wand around, And all with fear shall fly the histing found. But when your secrethe steepy summit gain,. Yet greater pends in your way remain: 535 A fountain rifes there, whose streams invite Th'admiring firanger, and the thirft excite; But, deep within, th' alluming errelat hides A fecret venom in its treach roug tides: One fatal dranglet can firange effectie difrente, 940 And fill with dire delight the madding ferrie: Unbidden laughten fueble the panting breath, 'Till lo! the dread convulsion embrin death! But far, ale! far from thence with freed remove, Nor lest your hips the deadly waters prove: 545 Nor let the banks, with taibuful viands grac'd, Invite your senses to the rich repast: Nor Nor heed th' enticing dames, whose voice decove. Whose beauty poisons, and whose smile destroys: O! fly their looks, their guileful words despise; 550 And enter where the lofty gates arise. Within, high walls with winding paths furround The fecret dwelling, and the fearch confound: Maze within maze distracts the doubtful fight: A map shall guide your wand'ring steps aright. 555 Amidst the lab'rynth lies the magic grove. Where ev'ry leaf impregnate seems with love, There shall you view, beneath th' embow'ring shade. Th' enamour'd champion and the damfel laid. But when awhile th' Enchantress shall depart. 560 And leave behind the partner of her heart: Then sudden issee forth, to light reveal d. And shew the knight my adamantine shield: There shall he see, reslected to his eyes, His own resemblance, and obscure disguise: 565 Th' ignoble fight his gen'rous wrath shall move, And banish from his breast inglorious love. No more remains to tell; 'tis yours alone, To take secure the path my words have shown; Safe thro' the winding maze to bend your course, 570 Nor fear th' opposing spells of magic force: Not ev'n Armida (such is Heav'n's decree) Can your arrival, by her arts, foresee. Nor less, returning from th' enchanted seat, Propitious pow'rs shall favour your retreat. 575 But now the wasting hours to sleep invite, The morn must see you rise with dawning light. Thus

90 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIV.

Thus spoke the rev'rend Sage; and speaking led The knights to slumber on a downy bed: There, sill'd with joy and wonder either guest 580 He lest; and thence himself retir'd to rest.

THE ARGUMENT.

The two Knights take their leave of the Hermit, and embark on a wessel steered by a semale pilot. Their woyage along the Mediterranean described. They pass the streights and proceed to the fortunate Islands. Their conversation weigh the pilot during the woyage. They arrive at the Island of Assuida, where the Knights land, who oversome all the obstacles they meet with in ascending the mountain, and afterwards with stand all the various allurements of pleasure offered to their senses.

OW rose the raddy morn with gladsome ray,
And waken'd anostals to the toils of day;
When to the Knights the Sage the buckler bore,
The map and golden wand of wond'rous pow'r:
Prepare t' attempt your arduous way (he cries)
Ere yonder sun advances o'er the skies.
These are my promis'd gifts, and these your arms,
To quell th' Enchantress and dissolve her charms.

92 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XV.

At once the warriors rose, and eager round Their limbs robust the shining armour bound: Thence, as the Hermit led, they bent their way Thro' paths ne'er lighted by the chearful day; Again their former stens returning tread: But when they reach'd the river's fecres bed; I now difmifs you from my care (he cry'd) Farewell! and prosp'rous fortune be your guide! Soon as they came where still the parted flood On either fide 4 crystal monatain stood, 11 12 The waters clos'd, and from the depth upbore The knights, and left them on the flowing from six So, from the branch by winds sutumeal tom, Light on the tide the featter'd leaves are borne. New from the beak their eyes around they throw, And foon behold the premit diguide in view Amide the firebin a little best appeared and in 1 25 A virgin, at the flern, the vellet fiber'd. Her vefture gay a thousand colling faints. Now flanies with red, and new with azare glows: At ev'ny tarn it thists the transfeat light, And cheats with momentacy hoes the fight! Such various grace the hilling dove assumes, Whose gentle neck is clouth'd with glossy plumes; For ever new the vary! d feathers play, Reflecting ev'ry tist of ev'ry ray; While,

B. KV. JERUSALEM DELIVERED,

While, as they move, successive beauties rise, And fill with strange delight the ganer's eves!

Favour'd of Heav'n! ascend this bank (she cry'd) In which secure I plough the suchling tide: The stormy winds their womed rage restrain, While safe in this cach freight may pass the main: From him, whose sov'reign mercies wide extend,

I come, at once your pilot and your friend!

So spoke the dame, and hast ning to the land. The crooked keel divides the yielding firand. Soon as her bark the nobler pair receives. She quits the shore and fruift the water cleaves: Then gives the spreading cannot to the wind, And guides the welfel from the helm bekind. So wide, fordeep the river swells its tide. That lofty this might there fecurely ride; Tho' now a shallow fiream could well fuffice. 55 So light the pinnage o'ernho farface flies! Now, rifing from the land, th' infpiring gales With prosp'rous breath distend the bellying fails: The feathing feream is white with froth before. Behind the stern the parted waters rout. At length they came where middit its mightier waves, The feate was gulph the river's flore receives.

Soon as the vessel gains the bring tides,
The winds are hash'd, the angry surge subsides to
The clouds disperse, the fourth forgets to blow,
That threaten'd tempests to the world below:
Light Zephyro only brush along the main,
And scarcely curl the smooth cerulean plain.

By Afcalon they pass'd; to left they veer'd, And tow'rd the west the rapid vessel steer'd. Then gliding swift, to Gasa next they came, (An antient harbour not unknown to fame) But now, from many a neighb'ring ruin great, An ample city, and a potent state! The warriors, from the bark, beheld the shore With tents of various nations cover'd o'er: There horse and foot along the crowded way Swarm thick between the city and the fea. There loaded camels move in folemn state. And the huge elephant's unweildy weight. 80 Safe in the port they fee the veffels ride, Or floating loofe, or at their anchors ty'd. Some hoift their spreading fails, while others sweep, With level strokes, the surface of the deop. Then thus the guiding maid-Tho here we view The thronging numbers of this impious crew; Yet these that fill the seas and line the shore. Compose not all the mighty Tyrant's pow'r. These Egypt and the neighb'ring lands supply: But other aids he waits; that distant lie: Far to the east extinds his ample five, it To realms that hurn beneath the fouthern ray; And hence I truff our fwift return to make. So 'midst the ships the bark its passage cleaves, And far behind the less'ning navy leaves. TOO Now, quick as thought, by Pashia's tow'rs they fail. (The town that first Egyptian pilots hail On Syria's land) then near the shore they fly. And Rhinocera's barren sands espy. Not far from thence a mountain, crown'd with wood, Casts a brown shadow o'er the subject flood; 106 Around its rocky foot the billows rave. There haples Pompey's bones obtain'd a grave. Fair Damiata next the eye furveys, Where antient Nile his facred tribute pays 110 Thro' seven wide mouths, and many a stream beside, His waters mingling with the briny tide. They pass the city rais'd by him *, whose name To latest times shall bear the Grecian same. By Pharos then they glide, an isle no more. An ishmus now projecting from the shore. Nor Rhodes, nor Crete they to the north survey. But near the climes of Afric speed their way. Fruitful her coast: but more remote her lands Are fill'd with monsters dire and burning fands. By Marmarique they steer'd, and now they pass'd Where five fair cities fam'd Cyrene grac'd. Here Ptolemais stands, and here they view Whence his flow stream the fabled Letbe drew. The greater Syrtes next (the failor's fear) 125. They leave aloof, and far to seaward veer: And now Judeea's cape behind them stood ? And now they left the mouth of Magra's flood; Now

B. KV. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

'Tis feign'd that first Alcides forc'd a way,
And gave this passage to th' indignant sea.
And here perchance a lengthen'd tract of land,
With one continu'd mound the flood restrain'd;
But now the surious main, with rushing tides,
From tow'ring Calpe Abyla divides:
A streight 'twixt Lybia now and Spain appears,

A streight twist Lybia now and Spain appears, Such is the force of time and change of years!

Four times the east had feen the rising sun,
Since first its wond'rous course the bark begun:
Nor shelt'ring bays, nor ports its speed delay,
It shoots the streight, and leaves the midland sea. 170
But what are seas to ocean's vast prosound,
Whose circling arms the spacious earth surround?

Soon from the fight amid the waves are lost. The fertile Gades and each neighb'ring coast. Behind, the less'ning shores retreating fly; Sky bounds the ocean, ocean bounds the sky.

Then Ubald thus began: Say thou! whese pow'r Gives us these endless waters to explore;
Did.ever prow before these seas divide,
Do mortals here in distant worlds reside?
He ceas'd; the wirgin-pilot thus reply'd.

When great Alcides had the monsters slain
That wasted Lybia and the realms of Spain;
Your lands subdu'd, at yonder streight he stay'd;
Nor durst old ocean's surgy gulph invade.
He six'd his pillars there, in vain design'd
To curb the searching spirit of mankind;

164

165

175

Urg'd by defire new regions to explore, Ulysses scorn'd the confines of the shore: He pass'd the bound'ry, loos'ning to the gales, 190 Amidst the wider flood, his daring sails: But all his skill in naval arts was vain, He sunk entomb'd beneath the roaring main. And those, by tempests forc'd amidst the waves. Have ne'er return'd, or found untimely graves. 195 Hence undiscover'd still the seas remain. That num'rous isles and mighty states contain. Inhabitants abound on many a coast; The lands, like yours, their fertile produce boaft; Where, not ungrateful to the lab'rers toil, 200 The fun prolific warms the pregnant foil.

Then Ubald—Of those climes, remov'd afar,
The manners and religious rites declare.
Various their lives (the virgin thus rejoin'd)
Their speech, their customs, are of various kind: 205
Some worship beasts, the stars, or solar pow'r;
And earth, the common parent, some adore.
There are who stain their seasts with human blood,
And load their dreadful board with horrid food:
And ev'ry land, from Calpe's tow'ring heights, 210
Is nurs'd in impious faith and cruel rites!

Will then that pitying God (the knight reply'd)
Who came with heav'nly truths mankind to guide,
Leave, far excluded from the facred light,
So large a portion of the world in night?

215

O no! the faith of CHRIST shall there be spread, (She cry'd) and science rear her laurell'd head.

Think

Think not this length of ocean's whelming tide Shall from your future search those climes divide: The time shall come, when failors, yet unborn, 220 Shall name Alcides' narrow bounds in fcorn: Lands now unknown, and seas without a name. Shall then thro' all your realms extend their fame: Perils untry'd some future ship shall brave, And cut, with daring course, the distant wave; 225 Thro' all the flood's unfathom'd currents run. Gird the vast globe, and emulate the sun. From fair Liguria fee th' advent'rer rise, Whose courage first the threat'ning passage tries. Nor raging feas, by furious whirlwinds toft, 230 Nor doubtful prospects of th' uncertain coast, Shall, in the streights of Abyla confin'd. Detain the ardor of his dauntless mind! 'Tis thou, Columbus! to another pole Shalt rear the mast, and o'er the surges roll; 235 While, with a thousand wings, and thousand eyes, Fame scarce pursues thy vessel as it slies! Let Bacchus or Alcides claim her praise, Thy worth, in future time, her trump shall raise: Thy deeds shall last in storied annals long, 244 The copious subject of some poet's song.

She said, and westward steer'd before the wind,
Then gently tow'rds the south her sails inclin'd.
Now in their front they see the sun descend,
And now the morn behind her beams extend.
But when Aurora, from her radiant head,
Had all around her pearly moisture shed;

F 2

Before

Before their eyes a mountain huge appear'd,
That 'midft the clouds its lofty fummit rear'd.
Near as they came, the fleeting clouds withdrew, 250
And like a pyramid it fhew'd to view:
From whence black curling fmoke was feen to rife;
As where 'tis feign'd th' * Æinean giant lies
Transfix'd, and breathes eruptions to the skies.
By day thick vapours from the mouth aspire,

255
By night terrific flames of ruddy fire.

Then other islands 'midst the main they 'spy'd, And lands less sleepy rising o'er the tide. Delightful isles, renown'd of ancient date, And stil'd by tuneful bards, the fortunate: 260 'Twas faid that Heav'n to these such grace allow'd, No shining share th' unlabour'd furrows plough'd. The lands untill'd could plenteous crops produce; And vines, unprun'd, supply'd nectareous juice. Here olives bloom'd with never-fading green; 265 From hollow oaks was liquid honey feen. The rivers murm'ring from the hills above, With crystal streams renew'd the vernal grove. No fultry heat oppress'd the grateful day; Soft dews and Zepbyrs cool'd the folar ray. 270 And here were feign'd the mansions of the bleft, Th' Elysian seats of everlasting rest.

To these the damsel steer'd and thus begun:
Behold, O chiess! our destin'd course is run:
The isles of fortune to your sight appear,
Whose same, tho' doubtful, yet has reach'd your ear;

^{*} Enceladus,

Fair is their foil; but fame each wonder swells,
And ev'ry truth, with added siction, tells.
While thus she spoke, along the main they slew,
'Till near the foremost isle their vessel drew.
Then Charles began—O ever sacred dame!
If this the cause permits for which we came:
Grant that our feet awhile may tread the shore,
To view a race and land unknown before;
T' observe their rites, and mark with curious eyes 285
Whate'er may claim th' attention of the wise:
So may our hips declare, in suture time,
The wonders witness'd in this foreign clime.

Your fuit demands my praise (the maid replies)
But Heav'n's decree the bold request denies.

The time arrives not yet, by God design'd
To give the great discov'ry to mankind:
Nor must you, back from ocean's bosom borne,
With certain tidings to your world return.
To you, beyond the failor's art, 'tis giv'n
295
To pass these billows, by the will of Heav'n;
To rouze your champion from his fatal sleep,
And safe convey him o'er the watry deep:
Let this suffice—with prouder thoughts elate,
'Twere impious folly to contend with fate.
300
Thus while she spoke; the foremost isse withdrew,

Thus while she spoke; the foremost isse withdrew, And soon the second gain'd upon the view:
She shew'd the warriors how the islands lay,
In order rang'd against the rising day.
The lands with equal space the sea divides,
And rolls between the shores its beating tides.

In

In fev'n are feen the marks of human care, Where cultur'd fields and rural cots appear: But three a barren defart foil reveal,

Where savage beasts in woods and mountains dwell 310

Amidst these isses a lone recess they found,
Where circling shores the subject slood surround,
And, far within, a spacious bay enclose;
Sharp rocks, without, the rushing surge oppose;
Two losty cliss before the entrance rise,
A welcome sign to suture sailors' eyes:
Within, the waves repose in peace serene;

Black forests nod above, a Sylvan scene!

A grotto opens in the living stone,

With verdant moss and ivy leaves o'er-grown: The grateful shade a gentle murmur fills,

While o'er the pavement glide the lucid rills.

No cables need the floating ships secure, No bearded anchors here the vessels moor.

To this retreat her course the pilot bore,

To this retreat her course the pilot bore,

And, ent'ring, furl'd her fails, and reach'd the shore.

Behold (she cry'd) where yonder structure stands
Rais'd on the mountain, and the isle commands?
There lost in festive sloth, in folly lost,
Slumbers the champion of the Christian host.

'Tis yours, when next the sun forsakes the deep,
With lab'ring feet t' ascend the threat'ning steep:
Meanwhile this short delay with ease be borne;
All times are luckless save the hour of morn:
But to the mountain's foot pursue your way,
While yet remains the light of parting day.

Thus

B. XV. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 103

Thus she; the word th' impatient warriors took, And leaping from the bark, the strand forfook. With ready steps a pleasing road they cross'd, And all their toils in fweet delufion loft. At length th' expected hill's broad base they gain. (The fun yet hov'ring o'er the western main) From hence their eyes the arduous height furvey, The pendent ruins and the rocky way. Inclement frost the mountain's sides deforms. 345 And all around is white with wintry storms. The lofty summit yields a milder scene, With budding flow'rs and groves for ever green! There ends the frozen clime: there lilies blow. There roses blush upon the bord'ring fnow. 350 There youthful spring, and hoary winter bere; Such pow'r has magic o'er the changing year! Now at the mountain's foot the heroes stay'd, And flept secure beneath a cavern's shade. But when the fun (eternal fount of day!) 355 Spread o'er the laughing skies his golden ray; At once they rose, at once their course renew'd, And up the steep ascent the way pursu'd. When lo! a serpent, rushing from his cell, Oppos'd their passage, horrible and fell! 360 Aloft his head and fourlid crest he held Bestreak'd with gold; his neck with anger swell'd; Fire fill'd his eyes; he hid the path beneath; And smoke and poison issu'd with his breath. Now in thick curls his scaly length he wound; 365 Now trail'd his op'ning folds along the ground. F 4 Such

Such was the dreadful guardian of the place,
Yet on the heroes pres'd with fearless pace.
The Dans his faulchion draws, and eager slies
T' assail the snake, when sudden Ubald cries:
370
Forbear! can arms like these our soes repel?
And think'st thou thus the monster's rage to quell?

He faid; and shook the golden wand around;
The serpent sted, astonish'd at the sound.
The knights proceed; a lion sterce descends,
And, roaring loud, the dang'rous past desends;
He rolls his stery eyes, his mane he rears,
Wide as a gulph his gaping mouth appears;
His lashing tail his slumb'ring wrath awakes:
But when his potent rod the warrior shakes,
Unusual sears the dreadful beast surprize,
Sunk is his rage, he trembles, and he slies!

Still on they pass'd; but soon a num'rous host Of monsters dire their daring passage crost. In various shapes the ghastly troops appear, . 385 With various yells they rend the startled ear. Each savage form that roves the burning sands, From distant Nilus to the Lybian lands, Here seem'd to dwell, with all the beasts that roam Hircania's woods, or deep Hircinia's gloom! 390 But not their numbers could the chiefs detain: The pow'rful wand made all their fury vain. These dangers past; the conqu'ring pair ascend; Now near the brow their eager steps they bend; Yet, as they tread the cliffs, the finking fnows 305 And slipp'ry ice awhile their course oppose.

But

B. XV. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

But when at length they reach the rocky height, A spacious level opens to their fight. There youthful spring salutes th' enraptur'd eye, Unfading verdure, and a gladfome fky! 400 Eternal Zephyrs thro' the groves prevail, And incense breathes in ev'ry balmy gale! No irksome change th' unvary'd climate knows Of heat alternate, and alternate snows: A genial pow'r the tender herbage feeds, 405 And decks with ev'ry fweet the smiling meads; Diffuses soft perfumes from ev'ry flow'r, And cloaths with lasting shade each rural bow'r: There rear'd aloft a flately palace flands, Whose prospect wide the hills and seas commands. 410

The warriors, weary'd with the steep ascent, More flowly o'er th' enamell'd meadow went; Oft looking back, their former toils review'd, Now paus'd awhile, and now their course pursu'd. When fudden, falling from the rocky heights, A copious stream the trav'ller's thirst excites; From hence a thousand rills dispersing flow, And trickle thro' the graffy vale below: At length, uniting all their diff'rent tides, In verdant banks a gentle river glides, 420 With murm'ring found a bow'ry gloom pervades, And rolls its fable waves thro' pendent shades: A cool retreat! the flow'ry border shows A pleasing couch inviting soft repose, Behold the fatal spring where laughter dwells, 425 Dire poison lurking in its secret cells!

Here

Here let us guard our thoughts, our passions rein, And ev'ry loose desire in bonds detain; A deasen'd ear to dulcet music lend, Nor dare the Syren's impious lays attend.

The knights advanc'd till, from their narrow bed, Wide in a lake the running waters spread.

There on the banks a sumptuous banquet plac'd, With costly viands seem'd t' allure the taste.

Two blooming damsels in the water lave,
And laugh and plunge beneath the lucid wave.

Now round in sport they dash the sprinkling tide;
And now with nimble strokes the stream divide:

Now, sunk at once, they vanish from the eyes;
And now again above the surface rise!

The naked wantons with enticing charms,
Each warrior's bosom fill'd with soft alarms:
As those their passime unconcern'd pursu'd,
Awhile they stay'd their steps and silent view'd,
'Till one erect in open light appear'd,
And o'er the stream her iv'ry bosom rear'd;
Her upward beauties to the sight reveal'd;
'The rest, beneath, the crystal scarce conceal'd!

As when the morning star with gentle ray,
From seas emerging leads the purple day:
As when, ascending from the genial slood,
The Queen of love on ocean's bosom stood:
So seems the damsel, so her locks diffuse
'The pearly liquid in descending dews!
'Till on th' approaching chiefs she turn'd her eyes, 455
'Then seign'd, with mimic sear, a coy surprize:

Whose magic strains might pierce the street heart.

O happy strangers! to whose feet 'tis giv'n To reach these blissful seats, this earthly Heav'n! Here are those rapt'rous scenes so fam'd of old, When early mortals view'd an age of gold. 470 No longer bear the helm, the faulchion wield; The cumb'rous cors'let, or the weighty shield; Here hang your useless arms amidst the grove, The warriors now of peace-inspiring love! Our field of battle is the downy bed, 475 Or flow'ry turf amid the smiling mead. Then let us lead you to our Sov'reign's eyes, From whose diffusive pow'r our blessings rise. THE ARGUMENT.

Charles and Ubald enter the palace of Armida. The gardens are described. Rinaldo is seen with bis mistress. At the departure of Armida the two Knights discover themselves; and Ubald reproves Rinaldo for his floth and effeminacy. The youthful hero, filled with shame, abandons those Seats of plea-Jure, and follows the guidance of bis deliverers. . Armida pursues bim, and makes use of every argument to move bim, but in vain: He endeavours to pacify ber: She then breaks out into bitter reproaches. till her strength being exhausted, she falls into a fwoon. The three warriors go on board their veffet and fet fail for Palestine. Armida, recovering, finds her lover gone: She then gives berfelf up to rage, and, resolving on revenge, destroys ber enchanted palace, and takes ber flight to Egypt.

R OUND was the form in which the palace rose;
Deep in the midst the circling walls enclose

A fumptuous garden, whose delightful scene Eclips'd the fairest works of mortal men! The siends had bent their skill a pile to raise Perplex'd with walks in many a devious maze: And in the center lay the magic bow'rs, Impervious to the search of human pow'rs!

Now thro' the loftieft gate the warriors pass'd,
(A hundred gates the spacious structure grac'd)
With sculptur'd silver, glorious to behold,
The valves on hinges hung of burnish'd gold!
Surpriz'd they saw, excell'd in ev'ry part,
The rich materials by the sculptor's art.
In all but speech alive the sigures rise;
Nor speech they seem to want to wond'ring eyes!

In female converse there (inglorious state!)

Alcides' midst Maenia's damsels fate.

There he who propp'd the stars, and hell subdu'd,
The distast bore; while Love beside him stood, 20

And with exulting smiles his conquest view'd.

There lose was seen, whose seeble hand,
With pride the hero's pond'rous club sastain'd:
The lion's hide conceal'd the beauteous dame,
Too rough a cov'ring for so so the held.

To this oppos'd the chiefs a fea beheld; Its azure field with frothy billows fwell'd. There, in the midft, two hoftile navies ride; Their arms, in lightning flash from fide to fide.

Augustus o'et his Romans here commands: There Anthony conducts from eastern lands

His Indian, Arab, and Egyptian bands.

Thou

B. XVI. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 1

Thou would'st have thought the Cyclades uptorn, And hills with hills in horrid conflict borne! So herce the shock, when joining ship with ship, The navies met amidst the roaring deep! Firebrands and jav'lins fly from foe to foe; Unufual flaughter flains the flood below. Behold (while doubtful yet remains the fight) Behold where Cleopatra takes her flight. See! Anthony, of fame forgetful, flies, No more his hopes to glorious empire rife, Yet o'er his foul no servile sear prevails; Her flight alone impels his yielding fails. Contending passions all his foul enstance, 45 Disdain and rage, and love and conscious shame: While, with alternate gaze, he views from far Her parting yessel and the dubious war. Now Nile receives him on his wat'ry breaft; There in his mistress' arms he finks to rest: There feems, refign'd, the threat'ning hour to wait, And foften, with her smiles, the stroke of fate.

With storied labours thus the portals grac'd The heroes view'd, and thence intrepid pass'd. And now they try'd the lab'rinth's winding maze: 55 As fam'd Meander moves a thousand ways; Now rolls direct, now takes a devious course, Now seems to seek again his native source: The frequent turnings so their eyes deceiv'd: But soon the faithful map their doubts reliev'd; 60 Display'd each various passage to their sight, And led thro' paths oblique their steps aright.

The

The garden then unfolds a beauteous scene, With flow'rs adorn'd and ever-living green. There filver lakes reflect the beaming day: 65 Here crystal streams in gurgling fountains play: Cool vales descend, and sunny hills arise, And groves, and caves, and grottoes strike the eves. Art shew'd her utmost pow'r; but art conceal'd, With greater charms the pleas'd attention held. It feem'd as Nature play'd a sportive part, And strove to mock the mimic works of art! By pow'rful magic breathes the vernal air, And fragrant trees eternal blossoms bear: Eternal fruits on ev'ry branch endure; Those swelling from their buds, and these mature. There, on one parent flock, the leaves among, With ripen'd figs, the figs unripen'd hung. Depending apples here the boughs unfold; Those green in youth, these mellow'd into gold. The vine luxuriant rears her arms on high, And curls her tendrils to the genial sky: There the crude grapes no grateful sweet produce, And here impurpled yield nectareous juice. The joyous birds, conceal'd in ev'ry grove, 85 With gentle strife prolong the notes of love. Soft Zephyrs breathe on woods and waters round; The woods and waters yield a murm'ring found: When cease the tuneful choir, the wind replies; But, when they fing, in gentle whifpers dies: By turns they fink, by turns their music raise, And blend, with equal skill, harmonious lays, Amongst

Amongst the rest, with plumes of various dies. And purple beak, a lovely fongster flies: Wond'rous to tell, with human speech indu'd, He fills with vocal strains the blissful wood: The birds attentive close their filent wings, While thus the fair the foothing charmer fings.

Behold how lovely blooms the vernal rofe, When scarce the leaves her early bud disclose: ICO When half inwrapt, and half to view reveal'd. She gives new pleasure from her charms conceal'd. But when the shews her bosom wide display'd, How foon her fweets exhale. her beauties fade! No more the feems the flow'r fo lately lov'd, 105 By virgins cherish'd, and by youths approv'd! So, fwiftly fleeting with the transient day. Paffes the flow'r of mortal life away! In vain the fpring returns, the fpring no more Can waining youth to former prime restore: 110 Then crop the morning rose, the time improve, And, while to love 'tis giv'n, indulge in love!

He ceas'd: th' approving choir with joy renew Their rapt'rous music, and their loves pursue. Again in pairs the cooing turtles bill; 115 The feather'd nations take their am'rous fill. The oak, the chaster laurel seems to yield, And all the leafy tenants of the field: The earth and streams one foul appears to move, All feem impregnate with the feeds of love!

Thro' these alluring scenes of magic pow'r The virtuous warriors pass'd, and pass'd secure:

When

When 'twixt the quiv'ring boughs they cast their fight, And see the damsel and the Christian knight. There fate Armida on a flow'ry bed; Her wanton lap fustain'd the hero's head: Her op'ning veil her iv'ry bosom show'd; Loose to the fanning breeze her tresses slow'd: A languor feem'd diffus'd o'er all her frame, And ev'ry feature glow'd with am'rous flame. 120 The pearly moisture on her beauteous face. Improv'd the blush, and heighten'd ev'ry grace: Her wand'ring eyes confess'd a pleasing fire, And shot the trembling beams of soft defire. Now, fondly hanging o'er, with head declin'd, Close to his cheek her lovely cheek she join'd: While o'er her charms he taught his looks to rove, And drank, with eager thirft, new draughts of love. Now, bending down, enraptur'd as he lies, - She kiss'd his vermil lips and swimming eyes: 140 'Till from his inmost heart he heav'd a sigh, As if to hers his parting foul would fly! All this the warriors from the shade survey,

All this the warriors from the shade survey,
And mark, conceal'd, the lovers' am'rous play.
Dependent from his side (unusual sight!)
Appear'd a polish'd mirror, beamy bright:
This in his hand th' enamour'd champion rais'd;
On this, with smiles, the fair Armida gaz'd.
She in the glass her form restected spies;
And he consults the mirror of her eyes:
One proud to rule, one prouder to obey;
He bless'd in her, and she in beauty's sway.

B. XVI. JERUSÄLEM DELIVERED.

116 Ah! turn those eyes on me (exclaims the knight) Those eyes that bless me with their heav'nly light! For know the pow'r that ev'ry lover warms, 155 In this fond breast Armida's image forms. Since I alas! am fcorn'd! here turn thy fight, And view thy native graces with delight: Here on that face thy ravish'd looks employ, Where springs eternal love, eternal joy! 160 Or rather range thro' you celestial spheres, And view thy likeness in the radiant stars. The lover ceas'd: the fair Armida smil'd. And still with wanton play the time beguil'd. Now in a braid she bound her slowing hair > 165 Now smooth'd the roving locks with decent care. Part, with her hand, in shining curls she roll'd, And deck'd, with azure flow'rs, the waving gold. Her weil compos'd, with roses sweet she dress'd The native lilies of her fragrant breaft. 170 Not half so proud, of glorious plumage vain, The peacock fets to view his glitt'ring train: Not Iris shews so fair, when dewy skies Reflect the changeful light with various dies.

Here unembody'd forms th' Enchantress mix'd, By potent spells, and in a girdle fix'd: Repulses sweet, fost speech, and gay desires, And tender fcorn that fans the lover's fires: Engaging smiles, short sighs of mutual bliss,

But o'er the rest her wond'rous cestus shin'd,

Whose mystic round her tender waist confin'd.

The tear of transport, and the melting kiss.

- 175.

All these she join'd, her pow'rful work to frame, And artful temper'd in th' annealing flame.

Now with a kiss, the balmy pledge of love, She left her knight, and iffu'd from the grove. Each day, awhile apart, the dame review'd Her magic labours, and her spells renew'd; While he, deep-musing, in her absence stray'd, A lonely lover 'midst the conscious shade. But when the filent glooms of friendly night, To mutual blifs th' enamour'd pair invite; Beneath one roof, amid the bow'rs they lay, And lov'd, entranc'd, the fleeting hours away.

Soon as Armida (so her arts requir'd) From gentle love to other cares retir'd: The warriors, from their covert, rush'd to sight, In radiant arms that cast a gleamy light.

As when, from martial toil, the gen'rous fleed Releas'd, is giv'n to range the verdant mead; 200 Forgetful of his former fame, he roves, And wooes in slothful ease his dappled loves: If chance the trumpet's found invade his ears. Or glitt'ring steel before his sight appears, He neighs aloud, and, furlous, pants to bear 20€ The valiant chief, and pierce the files of war! So fares Rinaldo, when the knights he 'spies; When their bright armour lightens in his eyes: At once the glorious beams his foul inspire; His breast rekindles with a martial fire. 210 Then fudden, forth advancing, Ubald held Before the youth his adamantine shield:

B. XVI. JERUSALEM DELIVERED, 1

To this he turn'd, in this at once survey'd
His own resemblance full to view display'd:
His sweeping robes he saw, his slowing hair
With odours breathing, his laxuriant air.
His sword, the only mark of warlike pride,
Estrang'd from sight, hung idly at his side;
And, wreath'd with slow'rs, seem'd worn for empty show;
No dreadful weapon 'gainst a valiant foe.

As one, whom long lethargic flumber ties,
Recovers from his fleep with wild furprize:
So from his trance awakes the Christian knight,
Himself beholds and fickens at the fight;
And wishes op'ning earth his shame would hide,
Or ocean veil him in its whelming tide.

Then Ubald thus began - All Europe arms, And Afia's kingdoms catch the loud alarms. Now all that cherish fame, or CHRIST adore, In shining armour press the Syrian shore: 230 While thee, Bertoldo's fon! from glory's plains. A narrow isle in shameful rest detains : Alone regardless of the voice of fame, Th' ignoble champion of a wanton dame! What fatal pow'r can thus thy sense controul? 235 What floth suppress the virtues of thy soul? Rife! rife! - thee Godfrey, thee the camp incites: 'Tis fortune calls, and victory invites! Come, fated warrior! bid the fight succeeds And crush those foes thou oft hast made to bleed; 210 Now let each impious fect thy vengeance feel. And fall extinct beneath thy conquiring steel,

He ceas'd; awhile the youth in filence mus'd, All motionless he stood, with looks confus'd: Till shame gave way, and stronger anger rose; (A gen'rous anger that from reason flows) O'er all his face a noble ardor flies. Flames on his cheek and sparkles from his eyes.

Now, hast'ning from the bow'r, their way they hold, And safely pass the lab'rinth's winding fold. 150 Meanwhile Armida view'd, with deep difmay, Where, breathless at the gate, the keeper lay: Then first suspicion in her bosom grew; And foon her lover's flight too well she knew: Herself beheld the darling hero fly: 255 O direful prospect to a lover's eye!

Where wouldst thou go, and leave me here alone?-She strove to fay; but, with a rising groan, Too mighty grief her feeble words suppress'd, Which deep remurmur'd in her tortur'd breaft. 260 Ah wrotched Fair! a greater pow'r difarms, A greater wisdom mocks thy frustrate charms! This fees the dame, who ev'ry art applies To flay his flight; in vain each art she tries. Whate'er the witches of Theffalia's strain, 265 E'er mutter'd to the shades with lips profane, That could the planets in their spheres controll, Or call from prisons drear the parted foul, Full well she knew; but all in vain essay'd; No hell, responsive, her commands obey'd. 270 Abandon'd thus, she next resolv'd to prove If suppliant beauty more than spells could move.

Sec!

B. XVI. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 119

See! where regardless of her former fame,
All wild with anguish runs the furious dame.
She who so late the laws of love despis'd,
Whose conqu'ring eyes could ev'ry heart subdue;
Behold her now a lover's steps pursue!
With soft persuasive grief her look she arms,
And bathes with tears her now neglected charms.
280
O'er rocks and snows her tender feet she plies,
And sends her voice before her as she shies.

O thou! who bear'st away my yielding heart, Who robh'st me of my best, my dearest part, O! give me death—or once again restore My murder'd peace—thy hasty slight give o'er! Hear my last words—I ask no parting kiss; For happier lips reserve that mighty bliss: What canst thou fear, ah cruel! to comply, Since still with thee remains the pow'r to sty?

Then Ubald thus—Awhile thy speed forbear,
And lend her woes, O Prince! a courteous ear:
The praise be thine thy virtue to retain,
And hear unmov'd the vanquish'd Syren's strain:
So reason shall extend her sacred sway,
And teach the subject passions to obey.

290

He faid, Rinaldo stay'd; and sudden came,
Breathless, o'erspent with haste, the hapless dame.
Deep forrow spread o'er all her languid air;
Yet sweet in woe and beauteous in despair!
Silent on him her eager looks she bent;
Disdain, and fear, and shame her speech prevent;
While

While from her eyes the knight abash'd withdrew, Or snatched, with wary glance, a transient view.

As fam'd musicians, ere the notes they raise 305 To charm the list'ning ear with tuneful lays, With accents low, in prelude soft, prepare The rapt attention for the promis'd air: So she, yet mindful of her fraudful art, Would soften, ere she spoke, the hearer's heart; 310 First breath'd a sigh to melt the tender breast; Then thus, at length, these plaintine words address'd.

Ah cruel! think not now I come to prove The pray'rs that lovers might to lovers move! Such once we were! - But if thou fcorn'ft the name. Yet grant the pity foes from foes may claim. 316 If me thy hate pursues, enjoy thy hate; I feek not to disturb thy happy state! A Pagan born, I ev'ry means employ'd T' oppress the Christians and their pow'r divide. 220 Thee I purfu'd, and thee feeluded far, In distant climates, from the found of war. But more, which deeper feems thy fcorn to move, Add how I fince deceiv'd thee to my love. O foul deceit! - to yield my virgin flow'r, 325 To give my beauties to another's pow'r! To let one favour'd youth that gift obtain, Which thousands fondly fought, but fought in vain! These are my frauds; let these thy wrath engage; Such crimes may well demand a lover's rage! 330 So may'ft thou part without one tender thought, And be these dear abodes at once forgot!

The proud betrayer by thy guile betray'd. 349 Wretch as I am! shall still these locks be worn. These locks that now are grown a lover's scorn? These hands shall cut the tresses from my head. And o'er my limbs a fervile habit spread : Thee will I follow 'midst surrounding foes, 345 When all the fury of the battle glows. I want not foul, fo far at least to dare. To lead thy courfer, or thy jav'lin bear. Yet

Yet pity soften'd soon his gen'rous soul; Scarce could he now the tender dew controul: But still he strove his secret thoughts to hide. 365 Compos'd his looks and thus at length reply'd. Armida! thy distress with grief I see; O! could I now thy lab'ring bosom free. From this ill-omen'd love! --- Ah! hapless fair! No fcorn I harbour, and no hatred bear: 379 I feek no vengeance; no offence I know; Nor canst thou be my slave, nor art my foe. On either fide I fear thy thoughts have stray'd, As Love deceiv'd thee, or as anger sway'd. But human frailties human pity claim; 375 Thy faith, thy fex, thy years acquit thy fame. I too have err'd, and shall I date reprove Thy tender bosom with the faults of love? Here ever shall thy dear remembrance rest, In joy and grief the partner of my breast! 380 Still must I be thy champion -thine as far As Christian faith permits, and Asia's war. But ah! let here our mutual weakness end; No further now our mutual shame extend: Here, from the world, on this extremest coast, 385 Be all our follies in oblivion lost! 'Midst all my deeds in Europe's clime reveal'd, O! still be these, and these alone conceal'd! Then let no rash ignoble thoughts disgrace Thy worth, thy beauty, and thy royal race. 390 With me thou feek'st in vain to quit the land; Superior pow'rs thy fond defire withstand. Remain;

B. XVI. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Remain; or feek some happier place of rest, And in thy wisdom calm thy troubled breast.

As thus the warrior spoke, the haughty dame 395 Scarce held her rage, now kindling to a stame; Awhile she view'd him with a scornful look, Then from her lips these furious accents broke.

Boast not Bertoldo's nor Sophia's blood!

Thou sprung'st relentless from the stormy stood:
Thy infant years th' Hyrcanian tigress fed;
On frozen Caucasus thy youth was bred!—
See! if he deigns one tender tear bestow,
Or pay one sigh in pity to my woe!

What shall I say, or whither shall I turn?

He calls me his!—yet leaves me here in fcorn. See how his foe the gen'rous victor leaves, Forgets her error, and her crime forgives! Hear how fedate, how cool his counfels prove, This rigid Zeno in the school of love!

O Heav'n!—O Gods!—and shall this impious race Your temples ravage, and your shrines deface? Go, wretch—Such peace attend thy tortur'd mind As I, forsaken here, am doom'd to find! Fly hence!—be gone!—but soon expect to view 415 My vengeful ghost thy trait'rous slight pursue:

A fury arm'd with snakes and torch I'll prove, With terrors equal to my former love! If fate decrees thee safe to pass the main,

Escap'd from rocks, to view th' embattled plain, 420 There shalt thou, sinking in the fatal strife, Appease my vengeance with thy dearest life:

410

Oft shalt thou then by name Armida call In dying groans, while I enjoy thy fall!

She could no more; as these last words she spoke, 425 Scarce from her lips the founds imperfect broke. She faints! she finks! all breathless pale she lies In chilly sweats, and shuts her languid eyes. Do'st thou, Armida! now thy eyelids close? Heav'n envies sure one comfort to thy woes. 430 Ah! raise thy fight; behold thy deadly foe; See down his cheek the kindly forrows flow. O! could'st thou now, ill-fated lover! hear His fighs foft breaking on thy raptur'd ear! What fate permits (but this thou canst not view) 435 He gives, and pitying takes the last adieu. What should he do? - thus leave her on the coast. 'Twixt life and death her struggling senses lost? Compassion pleads, and courtesy detains; But dire necessity his flight constrains. 440 He parts: - and now a friendly breeze prevails, (The pilot's treffes waving in the gales) The golden fail o'er furging ocean speeds, And from the fight the flying shore recedes.

But when, recover'd from her trance, she stood, 445 And all around the land forfaken view'd: And is he gone? - Has then the traitor fled? Left me in life's extremest need? (she said) Would he not to my hapless state dispense One moment's flay, or wait returning fense? And do I love him still? still here remain, . And unreveng'd in empty words complain?

I will pursue-nor Hell th' ingrate shall shield, 45; Nor Heav'n shall safety from my fury yield: Now! now I seize him! now his heart I tear. And scatter round his mangled limbs in air. He knows each various art of torture well, In his own arts the traitor I'll excell !-460 But ah! I wander! -- O! untimely boast! Unbless'd Armida, whither art thou tost? Then should'st thou to thy rage have giv'n the rein, When he lay captive in thy pow'rful chain. Then did the wretch no less thy hatred claim; 465 Too late thy rage now kindles to a flame! O beauty scorn'd! since you th' offence sustain'd, Be yours the due revenge your wrongs demand. Lo! with my person shall his worth be paid, Who from the battle brings that hated head. 470 Ye gallant youths! whom faithful love inspires, A dang'rous, glorious talk my foul requires! Ev'n I, to whom Damascus' realms shall bow, The price of vengeance with myself bestow. But, if contemn'd, I must not this obtain, 475 Then nature gave these boasted charms in vain: Take back th' unhappy gift ! - myself I hate, My birth, my being, and my regal state. Her fiery looks her stormy passions show; Loose in the wind her locks dishevell'd flow; And in her eyes the flashing sparkles glow! Now, at her dome, the calls with hideous vell. Three hundred Deities from deepest Hell: Soon murky clouds o'er all the skies are spread; Th' eternal planet hides his fick'ning head. On mountain-tops the furious whirlwinds blow; Deep rocks the ground; Avernus groans below. Thro' all the palace mingled cries refound; Loud histings, howls and screams are heard around. Thick glooms, more black than night, the walls enclose, Where not a ray its friendly light bestows; Save that, by fits, sulphureous lightnings stream, And dart thro' fullen shades a dreadful gleam! At length the night dispers'd; and faintly shone, With scarce recover'd looks, the doubtful sun: No longer now the stately walls appear'd; No trace remain'd where once the pile was rear'd. Like cloudy vapours of the changing fkies, Where tow'rs and hattlements in semblance rife. That fleet before the winds or folar beam: Like idle phantoms of a fick man's dream: 505 So vanish'd all the pile, and nought remain'd But native horrors 'midst a rocky land ! · Then swift th' Enchantress mounts her ready car, And, girt with tempefts, cleaves the fields of air. Declining from the pole, where distant lie 510 Nations unknown beneath the fouthern sky;

THE ARGUMENT.

The Egyptian troops and auxiliaries are mustered before the Caliph, scated on his throne. Armida unexpectedly appears with her forces: She enstames the Leaders of the army with her teauty, and prossers her hand in marriage to any champion that shall kill Rinaldo. A contest, thereupon, ensues between Adrastus and Tisaphernes, but the Caliph, interposing, puts a stop to it. Rinaldo and the two knights return to Palestine. On their landing they are met by the Hermit, who had before entertained Charles and Uhald: He gives Rinaldo counsel for his suture conduct, presents him with a suit of armour, and explains to him the actions of his ancestors that are represented in the shield. He then conducts the three warriors within sight of the camp, and dismisses them.

PLAC'D where Judæa's utmost bounds extend Tow'rds fair Pelusium, Gaza's walls ascend:

Faft

Fast by the breezy shore the city stands,
Amid unbounded plains of barren sands,
Which high in air the furious whirlwinds sweep,
Like mountain billows of the stormy deep;
That scarce th' affrighted traviller, spent with toil,
Escapes the tempest of th' unstable soil.

Th' Egyptian Monarch holds this frontier town,
Which from the Turkish pow'rs of old he won:
Since opportunely near the plains it lies,
To which he bends his mighty enterprize;
He left awhile his court and antient state,
And hither now transferr'd his regal feat;
And hither brought, encamp'd along the coast,
From various provinces a countless host.

Say Muse! what arms he us'd, what lands he sway'd.

Say Muse! what arms he us'd, what lands he sway'd, What nations fear'd him, and what pow'rs obey'd: How from the south he mov'd the realms afar, And call'd the natives of the East to war: 20 Thou only canst disclose the dire alarms, The bands and chiefs of half the world in arms.

When Egypt 'gainst the Grecian sway rebell'd,
The faith forsaking which her fathers held,
A warrior, sprung from Macon, seiz'd the throne,
And fix'd his seat in Cairo's stately town,
A Caliph call'd; from him each Prince who wears
Th' Egyptian crown the name of Caliph bears.
Thus Nile beheld succeeding Pharoabs shine,
And Ptolemies enroll'd from line to line.

And now revolving years their course pursu'd,

And well secur'd the empire's basis stood,

----	-------	-------	------	-------	-------	-----

O'er Lybia wide and Afia spread its pow'r, From far Cirene to the Syrian shore; Where fev'n-fold Nile o'erflows the fatten'd land, 35 And where Spene's fun-burnt dwellings stand; Where proud Euphrates laves Affria's fields; Her spicy stores where rich Marenna yields: And far beyond extends the potent sway, To climes that nearer greet the rifing day. Vast in itself the mighty kingdom show'd, But added glories now its Lord bestow'd: Of blood illustrious, and by virtues known, The arts of peace and war were all his own! Against the Turks' and Persians' force engag'd, With various fortune mighty wars he wag'd; Sucess and loss by turns ordain'd to meet, In conquest great, but greater in defeat ! At length, with creeping age his strength decay'd, Reluctant at his side he sheath'd the blade: For yet his foul retain'd the martial flame. The thirst of empire and the lust of same. His chiefs, abroad, their Sov'reign's wars maintain'd, While he, at home, in regal fplendor reign'd. His name the realms of Afric trembling heard, 55 And furthest Ind his distant rule rever'd: Some fent their martial bands, a willing aid,

And fome, with gold and gems, their tribute paid.
Such was the man who drew his various force
From climes remote, t' oppose the Christians' course: 60
Armida hither came, in happy hour,

What time the King review'd his num'rous pow'r.

High on a stately throne himself was plac'd, Th' ascent a hundred steps of iv'ry grac'd: A silver canopy o'erspread his seat, And gold and purple lay beneath his seet:	65
Around his head the fnow-white linen roll'd,	• .
His turban form'd of many a winding fold: The sceptre in his better hand was feen,
His beard was white, and awful was his mien.
His thoughtful brow fedate experience shows,	70
Yet in his eye-balls youthful ardor glows.	•
Alike maintain'd, in ev'ry act, appears
The pomp of pow'r, or dignity of years.
So when or Phidias' or Apelles' art	75
To lifeless forms could seeming life impart;	,
In such a shape they shew'd to mortal eyes
Majestic Jove when thund'ring from the skies.	,
Beside the Caliph, waits on either hand
A mighty Peer, the noblest of the land:	80
This holds the feal, ministrant near the throne,
And bends his cares to civil rule alone:
But greater that the fword of justice bears,
And, Prince of armies, guides the course of war	5.
Beneath, with thronging spears, a circling ban	ıđ,
In deep array his bold Circaffians stand:	86
The cuirass-plates their manly breasts desend;
And crooked fabres at their fides depend.
Thus fate the Monarch, and from high beheld
Th' assembled nations marshall'd on the field;	90
While as the squadrons pass'd his lofty seat,
They bow'd their arms and enfigns at his feet.	T. 4

And

First march'd the forces drawn from Egypt's lands. Four were their chiefs, and each a troop commands. Two came from upper, two from lower Nile, 95 Where ocean's waters once o'erfpread the foil: Now lie far distant from the briny flood Those fields which once the coasting sailor view'd. First of the squadrons mov'd the ready train That dwell in Alexandria's wealthy plain; 100 Along the land that westward far declines. Whose wide extent with Afric's border joins. Araspes was their chief, who more excell'd In close device, than action in the field. The troops succeed, on Asa's coast who lie, 105 Against the beams that gild the morning sky: These leads Aronteus, not by virtue fir'd, But with the pride of titles vain inspir'd: No massy helm, ere this, had press'd his brows, Nor early trump disturb'd his fost repose: 110 But now from ease to scenes of toil he came. By false ambition lur'd with hopes of fame. The next that march'd, appear'd no common band, But a huge host that cover'd all the land: It feem'd that Egypt's fields of waving grain 115 Could scarce suffice their numbers to sustain: Yet these within one ample city dwell'd; These mighty Cairo in her circuit held. From crowded streets she sends her sons to war: And these Campsones brings beneath his care. 120 Then, under Gazel, march'd the troop who till'd The neigh'ring glebe with gen'rous plenty fill'd;

And far above, where loud the river roars,
And from on high its fecond cat'ract pours.
No arms but swords and bows th' Egyptians bear, 125
Nor weighty mail, nor shining helmets wear:
Their habits rich, not fram'd to dannt the soe,
But rouze to plunder with the pompous show.

Next Barca's tawny fon's, a barb'rous throng, Beneath their chief Alarcon march'd along: Half-arm'd they came; thefe, long to plunder train'd, A hungry life on barren fands fustain'd. Zumara's King a fairer squadron leads; To him the King of Tripoly succeeds: Both weak in steady fight, but skill'd to dare 135 In sudden onset, and a flying war. Then those whose culture each Arabia claim'd. The flow that, and this the bappy namid. The last ne'er doom'd (if fame the truth declare)... The fierce extremes of heat or cold to bear. Here odorif'rous gums their sweets diffuse; Th' immortal Phanix here his youth renews; Here, on a pile of many a rich perfume, Prepares at once his cradle and his tomb! Less costly these their velts and armour wore: 145 But weapons, like the troops of Egypt, bore. To these succeed the wand'ring Arab train, Who shift their canvas towns from plain to plain. Their accents female and their stature low: A fable hue their gloomy features show, And down their backs the jetty ringlets flow.

B. XVII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Long Indian canes they arm with pointed steel,
And round the plain their steeds impetuous wheel:
Thou would'st have thought the winds impell'd their course.

If speed of winds could match the rapid horse. 155 Arabia's foremost squadron Syphax leads; Before the second bold Aldine proceeds. The third have Albianar at their head. A chief in rapine, not in knighthood bred. Then from the various Islands march'd a train, Whose rocks are 'compass'd by th' Arabian main: There were they wont, in arts of fishing skill'd, To draw rich pearls from ocean's watry field. And join'd with those, the neighb'ring lands that lie Beside the red-sea shore, their aids supply. 165 Those Agricaltes; these Mulasses guides, Who ev'ry faith and ev'ry law derides. Next march'd the fwarthy troops from Merce's foil, That dwell 'twixt Aftaborn and fruitful Nile; Where Ethiopia spreads her sultry plains, 170 Whose vast extent three diff'rent flates contains: Two Assimirus and Canarius sway'd; These Macon's laws and Egypt's rule obey'd, And 'gainst the Christian host their forces led. The third, whose fons the pure religion knew, 175 Mix'd not its warriors with the Pagan crew.

Two tributary Kings their squadrons show, That bear in sight the quiver and the bow. Soldan of Ormus one, a barren land, Where the vast gulph of Persia laves the strand.

180 One

136 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XVII.

One in Boëcan held his regal place, Whose kingdom oft the rising tides embrace; But when the ebbing waves forsake the shore, With seet unbath'd the trav'ller passes o'er.

Not thee, O Altamorus! from the plain
Thy faithful spouse could in her arms detain:
She wept, she beat her breast, she tore her hair,
And begg'd thee oft thy purpose to forbear.
Dost thou to me preser, unkind! (she cry'd)
The dreadful aspect of the stormy tide?
Are weapons gentler burthens to thy arms,
Than thy dear son who smiles in infant charms?
Samarcand's realms this pow'rful King obey;

No subject crown, no tributary sway:
In fields he shone, conspicuous in the fight,
And stood supreme in courage as in might.
The cuirass on their breast his warriors brace;
Their side the sword, their saddle bears the mace.

Next, from the feats of morn, beyond the shores
Of Ganges' stream, Adrastus brings his pow'rs: 200
Around his limbs a serpent's skin he drew,
Diversify'd with spots of sable hue;
While for his steed he press'd (tremendous sight!)
A mighty elephant of tow'ring height.

Then came the regal band, the Caliph's boast, 205 The flow'r of war and vigor of the host:
All arm'd in proof, well furnish'd for the field,
On foaming steeds their rapid course they held.
Rich purple vestments gleam upon the day,
And steel and gold resset a mingled ray!

Alarcus

B. XVII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Alarcus here and Hidragtes came: Here Odemarus rode, a mighty name! Here 'midft the valiant Rimedon appear'd. Whose daring soul nor toil nor danger fear'd. Tigranes here and Ormand fierce were found: 215 Ripoldo once for piracy renown'd: And Marlabustus bold, th' Arabian nam'd. Since late his might the rebel Arabs tam'd. Here Pirgas, Arimon, Orindus shone: Brimartes fam'd for many a conquer'd town: 220 Symbantes skill'd the bounding steed to rein : And thou, Aridamantes! form'd to gain The prize of wreftling on the dufty plain! Here Tilaphernes, with a dauntless air. Tow'r'd o'er the rest, the thunderbolt of war! 225 Whose force in battle ev'ry force excell'd, To lift the jav'lin or the faulchion wield.

O'er these the sway a brave Armenian bears,
Who lest the Christian saith in early years
For Pagan lore; his former name estrang'd,
To Emirenes then was Clement chang'd:
Yet was he well esteem'd for faith sincere,
And far o'er all his Sov'reign held him dear.

No more remain'd; when now, to sudden view,
The fair Armida with her squadron drew.

a35
High on a stately car, the royal dame
In martial pomp (a female archer!) came:
A slender belt her slowing robe restrain'd;
Her side the shafts, her hand the bow sustain'd.

Ev'n sweet in wrath, her charms the gazet move, 240
And while she threats her threat'ning kindles love!
Her radiant car, like that which hears the sun,
Bright with the jacynth and pyropus shone.
Beneath the golden woke, in pairs toustrain'd,
Four unicorns the skilful driver rein'd.
A hundred maids, a hundred pages round
Attend; the quivers on their shoulders found:
Each in the field bestrides a milk-white stead,
Practis'd to turn, and like the wind in speed.
Her troop succeeds, which Andine commands,
And Hidraotes rais'd in Syria's lands.

As when, again reviv'd, the Phenix fours
To visit Ethiopia's much-low'd shores,
And spreads his vary'd wings with plamage bright,
(Sky-tinctur'd plumes that gleam with golden light!)
On either hand the feather'd nations fly,
2,56
And wond'sing trace his progress thro' she sky:
So pass'd the fair, while gazing hosts admire
Her graceful looks, her gesture and attine.
If thus her face, with awain anger arm'd,
260
Such various throngs with pow'r resides charm'd;
Well might her softer arts each bosom moses,
With winning glances and the smiles of love.

Armida past; the King of Kings commends
Brave Emirenes, from the martial bands,
T' attend his will; to him he gives the post,
O'er all the chiefs, to guide the num'rous host.
He came, his looks with grace majestic shin'd,
And spoke him worthy of the rank design'd.

At once the guard divides; a path is shown; 276
He treads the steps ascending to the throne:
There, on his humble knee, the ground he press'd,
And bow'd his head low-bending o'er his breast.
To him the King—This sceptre, chief! receive,
To thee the rule of yonder host I give. 275
Thou, Emirenes! now my place supply;
Deliver Sion's King, our old ally:
Swift on the Franks my dread resentment pour;
Go—see—and conquer—in th' avenging hour
No Christian's cape! their name no more be known,
And bring the living, bound, before my throne. 281

The Monarch spoke; the warrior from his hand Receiv'd the fov'reign enfign of command.

This sceptre from unconquer'd hands (he cry'd)

I take, O King! thy fortune is my guide.

285

Ann'd in thy cause I go, thy captain sworn,

T' avenge the wrongs which Asia's realms have borne:

Nor will I e'er return, but crown'd with same;

Death, if I fail, shall hide a warrior's shame!

Should unexpected ills, ye pow'rs! impend,

290

On me alone let all the storm descend:

Preserve the dost, while, victors, from the plain

They bring their chief in glorious triumph slain.

He ceas'd; the troops with loud applause reply, And barb'rous clangers echo to the sky. 295

And now departs, amid the mingled found, The King of Kings, with peers encompass'd round: These, summon'd to the losty tent of state, In equal honours with the Monarch sate:

Himself benignant ev'ry chief address'd, 300
And gave to each a portion of the feast.
There, for her arts, sit time Armida found,
While pleasure reign'd, and festive sport went round.
The banquet o'er, the dame, who well descries
That all beheld her charms with wond'ring eyes; 305
Slow from her seat arose, with regal look,
And thus respectful to the Caliph spoke.

O mighty King! behold with these I stand To guard our faith, and combat for the land. A damsel, yet I boast a royal name; 310 Nor fcorns a Queen to mix in fields of fame. Who feeks to reign, in arts of ruling skill'd, By turns the sceptre and the sword must wield. This hand in battle can the jav'lin use, And, where it strikes, the wound the stroke pursues. Hast thou not heard how once I pris'ners made The bravest knights whose arms the Cross display'd? These overcome, in rugged chains confin'd, To thee a glorious present I design'd: So had thy pow'rs (their bravest champions lost) With fure fuccess o'erthrown the Christian host. But fierce Rinaldo, who my warriors flew, Releas'd, in evil hour, the captive crew. 'Tis he! the wretch of whom I wrong'd complain, And unreveng'd these wrongs I yet sustain. 325 A just refentment hence my bosom warms, And fires with added zeal my foul to arms .-But what my wrongs hereafter times shall speak; Let this suffice - a great revenge I seek!

Revenge

B. XVII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED, 141

Revenge be mine! — and fure, not fent in vain, 330
Some pointed shaft may fix him to the plain.
Heav'n oft from righteous hands directs the dart,
And guides the weapon to the guilty heart.
But should some knight, by thirst of glory led,
Bring me, from yonder field, the Christian's head;
These eyes with joy the welcome gift shall view; 336
The victor-chief shall sind a victor's due:
My hand in marriage shall the hero gain,
With ample dow'ry and a large domain.
Say — is there one who will the prize regard,
And dare the peril meet for such reward?
While thus the damsel spoke, with longing eyes

Adrastus views her, and at length replies.

Forbid it, Heav'n! that e'er Rinaldo's heart

Should feel the vengeance of Armida's dart:

345

Shall such a wretch to thee resign his breath,

And sweetly perish by an envy'd death?

In me thy minister of wrath survey,

His forfeit head before thy feet I'll lay;

This hand shall rend his breast, and scatter far

His mangled body to the fowls of air.

While thus the Indian proud Adrastus spoke, These haughty words from Tisaphernes broke.

And what art thou, whose empty pride can dare
Before our Monarch thus thy vaunts declare?
Know many a chief (tho' filent here) exceeds
Thy boasted valour with his martial deeds.

To him his rival with indignant fcorn: Lo! one for action not for vaunting born:

And

142 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XVII.

And elsewhere had'st thou dar'd our wrath provoke, Thy last of words, insensate! had'st thou spoke. 361

Thus furious they; but with his awful hand,
Their common Lord the growing strife restrain'd;
Then to Armida thus — Thy manly mind
Seems far exalted o'er thy softer kind:
With thee remains the pow'r, transcendent dame!
To calm these warriors and their rage reclaim;
'Tis thine, at will, to bid their fury glow
With nobler vengeance on the public soe:
Then shall each champion's valour stand confess'd,
While emulation breathes from breast to breast.

This said, the Monarch ceas'd; and either knight Vow'd in her cause to wield the sword in fight. Nor these alone, but all, whom glory warms, Now vaunt their courage and their force in arms: 375 All to the damsel proffer certain aid, And vow deep vengeance on Rinaldo's head.

While thus against the hero, once belov'd,
Such various pow'rs, such mighty foes she mov'd,
He, whom her hate pursu'd, the land forsook,
And thro' the main his prosp'rous voyage took.
The wind, that late impell'd the pilot's sails,
Now favour'd her return with western gales.
The youth the pole and either bear survey'd,
And all the stars that gild night's sable shade:
He view'd the foamy slood, the mountains steep,
Whose shaggy fronts o'ershade the silent deep:
Now of the camp he asks, and now enquires
Of diff'rent nations, and their rites admires.

Thus

Thus thro' furrounding waves the warriors fly,
'Till the fourth morning paints the eastern sky;
And when the fetting fun to fight was loft,
The rapid vessel gain'd the destin'd coast.
Then thus the virgin — Here our voyage ends,
Here Palestine her welcome shore extends.

The heroes land, and from their wond'ring eyes, The mystic pilot in a moment slies. Now o'er the prospect eve her mantle threw. And ev'ry object from the fight withdrew. Uncertain 'midst the fandy wilds they stray, No friendly beam to guide them on their way. At length the pale-orb'd queen of filent night. Slow rising, streak'd the parting clouds with light: Sudden the chiefs a diffant blaze behold. With rays of filver, and with gleams of gold. Approaching then, they radiant arms survey'd, On which the moon, with full reflexion, play'd. Thick fet as stars, with many a costly stone, The golden helm and pollish'd cuirass shone. An aged tree the massy burthen held: Against the trunk was hung the mighty shield; Mysterious forms emblaz'd its spacious field. Beneath the spreading boughs a hermit sate, Who courteous rose th' advancing knights to meet.

When now the Dane and Ubald nearer drew, 415 In him their friend their antient host they knew:
At once they greet the sage with glad surprize,
The sage with mild benevolence replies;

These, taught by me, th' Enchantress' pow'r defy'd, And freed thy foul in magic fetters ty'd. 426 Attend my words, nor harsh their tenor deem, Tho' far unlike the Syren's wanton theme: Deep in thy heart repose each sacred truth, 'Till holier lips instruct thy list'ning youth. 430 Think not our good is plac'd in flow'ry fields, In transient joys which fading beauty yields: Above the steep, the rocky path it lies, On virtue's hill, whose summit cleaves the skies. Who gains the ascent must many toils engage, 435 And spurn the pleasures of a thoughtless age. Wilt thou, difmay'd, the arduous height forego, And lurk ignobly in the vale below? To thee a face erect has nature giv'n, And the pure spirit of congenial Heav'n, That far from earth thy gen'rous thoughts might rife To gain, by virtuous deeds, th' immortal prize. The Christians then build new marbiner: In the mean time Godfrey bai intelligence of the approach of the Egyptian army to raife the fiege. Vafrino is feat as a for to the Egyptian camp. Godfrey attacks the city with great refolutions. . The Pagans make an obstinate defence. Rinaldo perticularly Renalices bimfelf, and first foales the walls. Ismeno is killed. The Archangel Michael appears to the Christian General, and shows him the velestial army, and the fault of the quarriers, that were flain vin battle, engaged in his cases. Victory now declares. for the Christians: Godfrey first plants his standard on the wall, and the city is entered on all sides.

Or mid-day realms, enrich'd with spoils of war, Had rode triumphant on his glitt'ring car.

Thence to his tent he pass'd; there plac'd in state, 35 Encircled by his friends the champion sate.

There much he answer'd; much to know desir'd; Oft of the war and wond'rous wood enquir'd.

At length, the rest withrawn, the Hermit broke His silence sirst, and thus the youth bespoke.

O Chief! what wonders have thy'eyes furvey'd!
How far remote thy erring feet have stray'd!
Think what thou ow'st to him who rules on high;
He gave thee from th' enchanted feats to sty:
Thee, from his stock a wand'ring sheep, he sought, 45
And, now recover'd, to his fold has brought:
By Godfrey's voice he calls thee to fulfill.
The mighty purpose of his shered will.
But think not yet, impure with many a stain,
In his high cause to lift thy hand profane:

Nor Nile, nor Ganges, nor the boundless fea,
With cleansing tides, can wash thy crimes away.
Sincere to God thy secret sins declare,
And sorrowing seek his grace with fervent pray'r.

He faid; and first the Princo in humble strain, Bewail'd his senseless love and rage as vain: Then low before the sage's feet he kneel'd, And all the errors of his youth reveal'd. The pious Hermit then absolv'd the knight, And thus pursu'd—With early dawn of light, On yonder mount thy pure devotion pay, That rears its front against the morning ray.

So counsell'd he. The youth obsequious heard, ... And eager for th' important deed prepar'd: In thought he pass'd the day; in thought the night; And ere the clouds were streak'd with growing light, Enclos'd his limbs in arms. and o'er him threw A flowing mantle of unwonted hue. Alone, on foot, his filent way he took, And left his comrades and the tents forfook. Nor this was fully ris'n, nor that expell'd: The chearful East the dawning rays display'd, And flars yet glimmer'd thro' the western shade. To Olivet the pensive Hero pass'd, And, musing deep, around his looks he cast; Alternate viewing here the spangled skies, and as. I' And there the spreading light of morning rife. '...'.

Then to himself he said—What beams divine 85

From female charms, our earthly femie beguine!

While thus he mus'd, he gain'd the hill's afcent;

There low on earth with humble knee he bent:

Then on the east devoutly fix'd his eyes,

And rais'd his pious thoughts above the skies.

Almighty Father; hear!—my pray'rs approve!
Far from my fins thy siwful fight remove:
O let thy grate each thought impune controul,
And purge from earthly draft my erring foul! 100

Thus while he pray'd; Asrora, rising bright, To radiant gold has chang'd her rosy light:
O'er all his arms th' increasing splendor plays, The hallow'd mount and grove reslect the rays. Full in his face the morn her breeze renews, And scatters on his head ambrosial dews:
His robe, with lucid pearls besprinkled o'er, Receives a snewy hue unknown before.
So with the dawn the drooping slow'ret blooms; The serpent thus a second youth assumes.

Surpriz'd his alter'd vest the warrior view'd,
Then turn'd his steps to reach the stand wood.
And now he came where late the bands retir'd,
Struck with the dread the distant gloom inspir'd:
Yet him nor secret doubts nor terrors move,
But fair in prospect rose the magic grove.
While, like the rest, the knight expects to hear
Loud peals of thunder breaking on his ear,
A dulcet symphony his sense invades,
Of Nymphs or Dryads warbling thro' the shades.

B. XVIII. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Soft fighs the breeze, foft purels the filver rill; The feather'd choir the woods with music fill: The tuneful swan in dying notes complains; The mourning nightingale repeats her strains: Timbrels and harps and human voices join; And in one concert all the sounds combine!

In weader rapt awhile Rindle flood,
And thence his way with wary steps purfu'd:
When to! a crystal flood his course oppos'd,
Whose winding train the forest round enclos'd.
On either hand, with slew'rs of various dies,
The smiling banks persum'd the ambient skies.
From this a smaller limpid current slow'd,
And pierc'd the bosom of the losty wood:
This to the trees a welcome meisters gave,
Whose boughs, o'enhanging, trembled in its wave.

~>

Now here, now there, the ford the warrior try'd, When sudden rais'd a wond'rous bridge he 'spy'd; That, built of gold, on stately arches stood, And shew'd an ample passage o'er the stood;

He trod the path, the further margin gain'd;
And now the stagic pile no anore remain'd:
The stream so calm, arose with hideous roan, And down its foamy surge the shining fabric bore.

145

The hero, turning, faw the tide o'erflow,
Like fudden torrenes swell'd with melting snow.
Then new defines incite his feet to rove
Thro' all the deep recesses of the grove.
As searching round, from shade to shade he strays,
New scenes at once invite him and amage.

Where'er

158 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XVIII.

Where'er he treads, the earth her tribute pours
In gushing springs, or voluntary flowers:
Here blooms the lily; there the fragrant rose;
Here spouts a fountain; there a riv'let flows:
From ev'ry fpray the liquid manna trills; 155
And honey from the foft ning bark diffills.
Again the strange, the pleasing found he hears.
Of plaints and music mingling in his earst
Yet nought appears that mortal voice can frame,
Nor harp nor timbrel whence the music came : 160
As fix'd he filent stands in deep surprize,
And reason to the sense her faith denies;
He fees a myrtle near, and thither bends,
Where in a plain the path far-winding ends:
Her ample boughs the flately plant display'd is 165
Above the lofty palm or cyprefe flade;
High o'er the subject trees sublime she stood,
And seem'd the verdant Empress of the wood.
While round the champion cast a doubtful view,
A greater wonder his attention drew:
A lab'ring oak a sudden cleft disclos'dy
And from its bark a living birth expostd;
Whence (passing all belief!) in strange array,
A lovely damfel iffu'd to the day.
A hundred diff'rent trees the knight beheld, 175
Whose fertile wombs a hundred nymphs reveal'd.
As oft in pictur'd scenes we see display'd
Each graceful goddess of the sylvan shade;
With arms expord, with vefture girt around,
With purple bushins, and with hair unbound: 180

These shadowy daughters of the wond'rous wood;
Save that their hands nor bows nor quivers wield;
But this a harp, and that a timbrel held.

Now, in a circle form'd, the sportive train,
With song and dance their mystic rites began;
Around the myrtle and the knight they sung:
And in his ear these tuneful accents rung.

All hail! and welcome to this pleasing grove,

Armida's hope, the treasure of her love!

Com'st thou! (O long expected!) to relieve

The painful wounds the darts of absence give?

This wood, that frown'd so late with horrid shade,

Where pale despair her mournful dwelling made,

Behold at thy approach reviv'd appears,

At thy approach a gentler aspect wears!

Thus they—Low thunders from the myrtle rose,
And strait the bark a cleft wide-op'ning shows;
In wonder rapt have antient times survey'd
A rude Silenus issuing from the shade;
200
A fairer form the teeming tree display'd.
A damsel thence appear'd, whose lovely frame
Might equal beauties of celestial name:
On her Rinaldo six'd his heedful eyes,
And saw Armida's features with surprize:
200 him a sad yet pleasing look she bends,
And in the glance a thousand passions blends.

He ceas'd: and, breathing courage man to man, Three fierce allaults the Christian pow'rs began. 455 Then hoary Aladim, with eares decay'd, In arms, long fince distas'd, his limbs array'd; Trembling with feeble feet and torr'ring frame, The aged King oppos'd to Raymond came. Stern Selyman for Gedfrey Rood prepar'd; 460 And fierce Argantes good Camillus dar'd. Here Tanerad, 1ed by fate, approach'd the wall, Where by his arms his daring foe might fall.

The ready archers now their bows apply;
In deadly poisson drench'd their arrows fly.

The face of Heav'n is all in darkness loft,
Such clouds of weapons iffue from the hoft.

With greater force the mural engines pour
Their sudden vengeance in a mingled flow'r.

Hence, sheath'd with iron, jav'line huge are thrown;
Hence rocky fragments thunder on the fown.

Where'er the stones alight, with dreadful sway Thro' men and arms they force their horrid way; Sweep life before 'em, crush the human frame, And hide at once the sigure and the name!

And boldly still the bold assault sustain:
Already had they spread with heedful care
Their woolly sences 'gainst the threat'ning war;
And where expos'd the thickest ranks they 'spy,
With missie weapons send a sierce reply.

Yet undismay'd the brave assaultants press,
Nor from the threefold charge, intrepid, cease.
Some under vast machines securely move,
While storms of arrows his in vain above.
Some wheel th' enormous engines near the soes:
The Syrians, from the walls, th' attempt oppose.
Each ready tow'r to launch its bridge essays;
Its iron head each ram incessant plays.

Meanwhile in gen'rous doubt Rinaldo stands,

No vulgar deeds his glorious arm demands:

He rolls his ardent eyes; his thoughts aspire

To tempt the pass from which the rest retire.

Then to the warriors, late by Dudon led,

'Th' intrepid hero turn'd, and thus he said.

O shame to sight! while here our squadrons press,
Behold you fortress still remains in peace.

No perils e'er can brave designs controul,
All deeds are open to the dauntless soul.
Haste, let us thither march, and 'gainst the foes
A sure desence, with listed shields, oppose.

He spoke: The warriors with one soul obey'd, And o'er their heads extend an ample shade. The bucklers join'd fecur'd the moving train, While from on high the ruins roll in vain. Now to the walls they came; with eager hafte ζIO A scaling-ladder bold Rinaldo plac'd; A hundred fleps it bore; the hero's hand Aloft with ease th' enormous weight sustain'd. Spears, beams, and rafters from the ramparts pour; Dauntless he mounts amid the pond'rous show'r: 515 Nor toils nor death the daring youth could dread, Tho' pendent rocks had nodded o'er his head. His ample shield receiv'd a feather'd wood; His back sustain'd a falling mountain's load: This arm the bulwarks shook; and that before His tow'ring front the fencing buckler bore, His great example ev'ry warrior fir'd; Each gallant chief to scale the works aspir'd. But various fates they prove: Some headlong fall; And some are slaughter'd ere they mount the wall; While he, ascending still, securely goes, 526 His friends encourages, and threats his foes. The thronging numbers, with collected might, Attempt in vain to hurl him from his height; Still in th' unequal combat firm he stands, 530 And bears alone th' united furious bands. And now his fword the spacious rampart clears, And frees the passage for his brave compeers. To one the hero gave a wish'd relief, (Eustatius, brother to the pious chief) 535 With

With ready hand he stopp'd his fatal fall, And friendly guarded while he gain'd the wall.

The Christian Leader, on a diffrent side, With various perils various fortune try'd: Nor men with men alone the combat fought. 540 There pile with pile, with engine engine fought. Above the walls a trunk the Syrians raise; (A vessel's tow'ring mast in antient days) To this athwart a massy beam suspend: Thick iron plates the folid head defend: 545 This with firong cables back the Pagans drew, Then, swift recoiling, on the tow'r it flew. The yielding timbers with the fury shook, The joints gave way before the frequent stroke: But foon the tow'r its needful arms supplies; 550 Two scythes prepar'd are rais'd of mighty lize, That closing, with their sharpen'd edge divide The twisted cords to which the beam is ty'd. As loos'd by time, or by rude tempests torn, A rock's huge fragment from a mountain borne, 555 Impetuous whirling down the craggy steeps, Woods, cots, and herds before its fury sweeps: So drew the dreadful engine, in its fall, Arms, men, and ruins from the shatter'd wall. The tow'r's vast summit nodded from on high; 560 The bulwarks tremble, and the hills reply.

Victorious Godfrey now, advancing on,
Already deem'd the hostile ramparts won:
When from the foes, with roaring thunders, broke
Whirlwinds of slame and deluges of smoke! 565

THE ARGUMENT.

Tancred and Argantes retire together from the walls, and engage in fingle combat: After an obstinate defence the latter is flain; and Tancred bimself. weakened by the loss of blood, falls into a swoon. the mean time Rinaldo pursues the Infidels, and compels many of them to take refuge in Solomon's temple: Rinaldo at length burfting open the gate, the Christian troops enter, and make a terrible slaughter. Solyman and Aladine fortify themselves in David's tower-Solyman defends the pass with great intrepidity, but at last retires within the fort at the appearance of Godfrey and Rinaldo: Night puts an end to the operations on both fides. Vafrino enters the Egyptian camp, where he meets with Erminia. In their way to the Christian tents, they find Tancred in appearance dead: Erminia's lamentation; she recovers Tancred from his swoon, and, at his defire, he is conveyed with the body of Argantes to the city. gives an account to Godfrey of the discoveries be bas made:

made; upon which the General determines to hold his army in readiness to encounter the Egyptian forces.

O W wide-destroying death, or pale affright,
Remov'd the Pagans from their ramparts' height:
Alone, still fix'd to triumph or to fall,
Argantes turns not from th' abandon'd wall:
Secure he stands, his front undaunted shows,
And fingly combats 'midst a host of foes:
Fas more than death he dreads a sully'd name,
And, if he dies, would close his days with same.

Before the rest intrepid Tancred slies,
And lifts his faulchion and the chief desies:

Well, by his mien and arms consess'd to view,
His plighted foe the serce Argantes knew.

Thus do'st thou, Tancred! keep thy faith? (he cry'd)
Late art thou come our battle to decide:
We meet not here as heroe's heroes dare;
Thou com'st a base artiscer of war!

Those engines are thy guard, those troops thy shield;
Thon bring'st strange weapons to disgrace the field!
Yet hope not from this hand, in dreadful strife,
(Thou woman's murd'rer!) now t'escapewith life! 20
He said; and Tancred smiling with disdain,

In words indignant thus reply'd again.

Late am I come?—fuppress thy senseless scorn;

Soon shalt thou find too speedy my return;

When thou shalt wish, to ease thy doubtful soul, 25

That 'twixt us Alps might rife, or oceans roll;

And

And know, by fatal proof too well display'd,
Nor fear detain'd my arms, nor sloth delay'd.
Come, glorious chief! thou terror of the plain,
By whom are heroes quell'd and giants slain!
30
With me retire, and prove thy boasted might,
The woman's murd'rer dares thee to the fight!
Then to his troops—With-hold your wrathful hands,
This warrior now my sword alone demands:
No common foe; by challenge him I claim;
35
By former promise mine, and mine by fame.

Descend (again the proud Circassian cry'd). Or singly, or with aid, the cause decide: The place frequented or the desart try; With ev'ry odds thy prowess I defy!

The stern convention made, at once they move, With mutual ire, the dreadful fight to prove. Already Tancred hopes the glorious strife, And burns with zeal to take the Pagan's life: He claims him wholly, all his blood demands, And envies ev'n a drop to vulgar hands. He fpreads his shield, forbids the threat'ning blow, And guards from darts and spears his mighty foe. They leave the walls, impatient of delay, 50 And thro' a winding path purfue their way. At length, amid furrounding hills, they view'd A narrow valley black with shady wood; That feem'd a fylvan theatre, defign'd For chace or combat with the savage-kind. Here both the warriors stopp'd; when, penfive grown, Argantes turn'd towards the fuff'ring town.

Tancred, who saw his soe no buckler wield,
Strait cast his own at distance on the field;
Then thus began—What means this sudden gloom?
Think'st thou, at last, thy destin'd hour is come? 60
If such foreboding thoughts a doubt create,
Too late thy prescience, and thy sears too late.

You city fills my mind (the chief reply'd). The Queen of nations, and Judea's pride, That vanquish'd now must fall, while I in vain. Attempt her sinking ruins to sustain: How poor a vengeance can thy life afford, Thy life by Heav'n devoted to my sword!

He ceas'd; then wary each to combat drew, For each his adverse champion's valour knew. Tancred was light, his joints were firmly knit, Swift were his hands, and ready were his feet. Arganes tow'r'd superior by the head, With larger limbs, with shoulders broader spread. Now Tancred wheels, now bends t' elude the foe, Now, with his sword, averts th' impending blow. But high, erect, the bold Arganes stood, And equal art, with diff'rent action, shew'd: Now here, now there, impetuous from above, Against the prince the brandish'd steel he drove. That, on his art and courage most relies; This, on his mighty strength and giant size.

Two vessels thus their naval strife maintain, When no rude wind disturbs the watry plain: Their bulk tho' dist'rent, equal is the fight, In swiftness one, and one excels in height,

And shuns the sword that seems to threat the blow,
Full at his face the point Arganies shook;
Then swift, as Tancred turn'd to ward the stroke,
He pierc'd his stank, and, loud exultings said:
Behold the crafty now by craft betray'd!

With rage and shame indignant Tancred burn'd,
And all his thoughts to glorious vengeance turn'd;
Then with his faulchion to the boast replies,

Yhere to his aim the vizor open lies.

Argantes breaks the blow: with shorten'd sword
On him intrepid rush'd the Christian lord:
The Pagan's better hand he seiz'd, and dy'd
With many a ghassly wound his bleeding side.

Receive this answer (loud the hero cries)
The vanquish'd to his victor thus replies!

The fierce Circassian soams with rage and pain,
But strives to free his captive arm in vain:
At length, dependent from the chain, he leaves 105
The trusty faulchion, and his hand reprieves.
Each other now in rude embrace they prest,
Arms lock'd in arms, and breast oppos'd to breast.
Not with more viger on the sandy field,
Great Hercules the mighty giant held.
110
Such is their conslict, so the warriors strain,
'Till both together, sidelong, press the plain.
Argantes, as he fell, by chance or skill,
Bore high his better arm releas'd at will:
But Tancred's hand that should the weapon wield, 115
Was held beneath him pris'ner on the field.

Again, with flashing swords, the war they wag'd: 125 Now less of art and more of horror rag'd. From Tancrea's wounds appear'd the trickling blood; But from Arganes pour'd a crimson flood: Tancred full soon his feeble arm beheld Slow and more slow the weighty faulchion wield: 130 All hatred then his gen'rous breast forsook, And, back retreating, middly thus he spoke.

Yield, dauntless chief! enough thy worth is shown:

Refolv'd his last of days with fame to spend, And crown his actions with a glorious end. Grasp'd in each hand, his vengeful steel he took: In vain the Christian's sword oppos'd the stroke: 150 Full on his shoulder fell the deadly blade, Nor, deaden'd there, its eager fury stay'd. But, glancing downward, deeply pierc'd his side, And stain'd his armour with a purple tide. Yet Tancred's looks nor doubt nor fear confess'd; 155 For Nature's felf had steel'd his dauntless breast. A fecond stroke the haughty Pagan try'd; The wary Christian now his purpose 'spy'd, And flipt, elufive, from the steel aside. Then, spent in empty air thy strength in vain, Thou fall'st, Argantes! headlong on the plain: Thou fall'ft! yet (unsubdu'd alike in all) None but thyself can boast Argantes' fall!

Fresh stream'd the blood from ev'ry gaping wound,
And the red torrent delug'd all the ground;
Yet on his arm and knee the surious knight

180

Then Tancred in the sheath his sword bestow'd,
And paid to God the thanks his conquest ow'd:
But dear his triumph has the victor cost;
His senses fail, his wonted strength is loss.
Again he strives to pass the valley o'er,
And tread the steps his seet had trod before.
Not far his tott'ring knees their load sustain,
His utmost strength he tries, but tries in vain.
Now, laid on earth, his arm supports his head,

Each object swims before his giddy sight:
The chearful day seems chang'd to dusky night;

B.XIX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 189

Full in his front the rev'rend chief he found, And stretch'd him pale and trembling on the ground.

Again the vanquish'd breathe, the victors fly,
Or in the well-defended entrance die.
The Soldan then, who, midst the vulgar dead,
Beheld on earth the Christian leader spread,
Incites his followers, with repeated cries,
To drag within the works their prostrate prize.

All spring to take him (a determin'd band) But toils and dangers their attempt withfland. 305 What Christian can his Raymond's care forego? At once they fly to guard him from the foe. There rage, here piety maintains the fight; No common cause demands each warrior's might: For Raymond's life or freedom they contend; 310 And those would seize the chief, and these defend. Yet had the Soldan's force at length prevail'd, For shields and helms before his weapon fail'd: But sudden, to relieve the faithful band, A pow'rful aid appear'd en either hand; 315 At once the Chief of Chiefs, refistless, came. And he*, the foremost of the martial name.

As when loud winds arise and thunders roll,
And glancing lightnings gleam from pole to pole,
The shepherd-swain, who sees the dark'ning air, 320
Withdraws from open fields his sleecy care;
And, thence retreating, to some covert slies
To shun the sury of th' inclement skies;

And with his voice and crook his flock conftrains;

Himfelf, behind them, last forsakes the plains. 325

So the sierce Pagan who the storm beheld,

So the fierce Pagan who the from beheld,
That like a whirlwind swept the dusty field,
Who heard the shouts of legions rend the air,
And saw the flash of armour from asar,
Compell'd his troops within the shelt'ring tow'r: 330
Himself, reluctant, from superior pow'r
Retires the last, with unabated heat,
In caution brave, intrepid in deseat.

Scarce were they enter'd, when, with headlong hafte. Rinaldo o'er the broken fences pass'd; 335 Defire to vanquish one so fam'd in fight, His plighted vows the hero's foul excite: For still he keeps his solemn oath in view To take the warrior's life who Sweng flew. Then had his matchless arm the walls assail'd, Then had their strength to shield the Soldan fail'd; But here the Gen'ral bade surcease the fight, For all th' horizon round was lost in night. There Godfrey strait encamp'd his martial train, Refolv'd at morn the hostile fort to gain. 345 Then chearful thus his list ning host he warms: Th' Almighty favours now the Christian arms L At early dawn yon fortress shall be ours; The last weak refuge of the faithless pow'rs! Meantime your thoughts to pious duties bend, 350 The fick to comfort, and the wounded tend. Go-pay the rights those gallant friends demand, Who purchas'd with their blood this fated land; This

This temper better fuits the Christian name,
Than souls with av'rice or revenge on slame.
Too much, alas! has slaughter stain'd the day;
Too much has lust of plunder borne the sway.
Then cease from spoil, each cruel deed forbear;
And let the trumpet's sound our will declare.

He faid; and went, where scarce repriev'd from death, Still Raymend groan'd with new-recover'd breath. 361 Nor Solyman less bold, his friends address'd. While in his thought the chief his doubts suppress'd. O warriors! scorn the change of fortune's pow'r; Still chearful hope maintains her blooming flow'r: 365 Safe is your King, and fafe his chosen train; These walls the noblest of the realm contain. Then let the Franks their empty conquest boast; Swift fate impends o'er all th' exulting hoft; While rage and plunder ev'ry foul employ, 370-And lust and murder are their sayage joy; Amidst the mingled tumult shall they fall, And one destructive hour o'erwhelm 'em all; If Egypt's bands, now hast'ning to our aid, With num'rous force their scatter'd pow'rs invade, 575 From hence our missile weapons can we pour, To whelm the city with a rocky show'r; And with our engines from afar defend The paths that to the sepulchre ascend.

While deeds like these were wrought; Vafrino goes, A trusty spy, amidst a host of soes:

The camp he left, his lonely way he took,

What time the sun the western sky forsook;

192 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XIX.

By Ascalon he pass'd, ere yet the day Shed from his orient throne the golden ray: 385 And when his car had reach'd the midmost height. The hostile camp appear'd in open fight. There, pitch'd around, unnumber'd tents he fees, Unnumber'd streamers waving to thee breeze. Discordant tongues assail his wond'ring ears; 390 Timbrels and horns and barb'rous notes he hears. The elephant and camel mix their cries; The gen'rous steed, with shriller found, replies. Surpriz'd he sees such num'rous forces join'd, Where Afia's realms and Afric's feem combin'd. Now here, now there, his watchful looks he throws, And marks what diff'rent works the camp enclose:

Nor feeks in unfrequented parts to lie; Nor shuns th' observance of the public eye; But boldly to each high pavilion goes, 400 And fearless communes with th' unconscious foes. Wise were his questions, well his answers made, And deepest prudence all his actions sway'd. The warriors, steeds, and arms attract his view, Full foon each leader's rank and name he knew. At length, as wand'ring thro' the vale he went, Chance led his footsteps to the Gen'ral's tent: There, while immers'd in deepest thought he stay'd, His fearching eyes a friendly gap furvey'd; From this each voice within diffinct was heard, Thro' this reveal'd th' interior parts appear'd. There watch'd Vafrino, while he feem'd employ'd To mend the torn pavilion's op'ning fide.

Bare-

B.XIX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 193

Bare-headed there he saw the Chief confess'd. With limbs in armour sheath'd, and purple vest: 415 Two pages bore his helmet and his shield; His better hand, a pointed jav'lin held; He view'd a warrior, who beside him stood, Of limbs gigantic, and of femblance proud. Vafrino stay'd intent their words to hear, 420 And sudden Godfrey's name assail'd his ear. Think'st thou (the Leader thus the knight bespoke) That Godfrey fure shall fall beneath thy stroke? Then he: He furely falls! and here I swear Ne'er to return, but victor from the war. This hand my fellows' fwords shall render vain; And let my deed this fole reward obtain; A glorious trophy of his arms to raise In Caire's town, and thus inscribe my praise: "These from the Christian chief, whose force o'er-run " All Asia's lands, in battle Ormand won; " And fix'd them here, that future times might tell " How, by his prowess vanquish'd, Godfrey fell," Think not our grateful King (the leader cries) Will view th' important act with thankless eyes: 435 Full gladly will he yield to thy demand, And crown thy service with a bounteous hand. But now with speed the vests and arms prepare; Th' approaching day of combat claims thy care. All, all is now prepar'd-the knight reply'd: 440 And here the converse ceas'd on either side. Thus they: A stranger to the hidden sense, The words Vafrino heard in deep suspense;

Oft-times debating, in his anxious mind, What arms were purpos'd, and what wiles defign'd. 445

He parted thence and sleepless pass'd the night, And watch'd impatient for the dawning light; But when the camp, as early morning shin'd, Unfurl'd the waving banners to the wind, Mix'd with the rest he went, with these he stay'd; 45.0 And round from tent to tent uncertain stray'd.

One day he came to where, in regal state, Amidst her knights and dames Armida sate: Pensive she seem'd, with various cares oppress'd, A thousand thoughts revolving in her breast: -On her fair hand her lovely cheek she plac'd, And prone to earth her starry eyes she cast, All moift with tears: Full opposite he saw Adrastus motionless with silent awe: Fix'd on her charms he gaz'd with fond defire, And with the prospect fed his am'rous fire. But Tifapbernes both by turns beheld, While diff'rent passions in his bosom swell'd; His changing looks a quick fuccession prove, Now fir'd with hatred, now enflam'd with love. From thence Vafrino cast his sight aside, And 'midst the damsels Altamorus 'spy'd; Who curb'd the licence of his roving eyes, Or fnatch'd his wary glances by furprize; Her hand, her face with secret rapture view'd, And oft, by stealth, a sweeter search pursu'd, T' explore the passage where th' uncautious vest Reveal'd the beauties of her iv'ry breaft.

At length her downcast looks Armida rears,
While thro' her grief a transient smile appears.
O brave Adrastus! in thy glorious boast,
I feel (she cries) my former anguish lost:
And soon I trust a sweet revenge to find,
For sweet is vengeance to an injur'd mind.

To whom the Indian: Bid thy forrows cease, 489 O royal Fair! compose thy soul to peace. Doubt not to view (ere many days are sted) Cast at thy seet Rinaldo's impious head; Else shall he come, if so thy will ordains, To servite dungeons, and eternal chains.

To Tisaphernes smiling then she said:
And wilt not thou, O chief! Armida aid?
It suits not me (he taunting thus reply'd)
With such a knight to combat side by side.
But I more slow, in sields of battle new,
Must far behind thy champion's steps pursue.

Sternly he said; the word the Monarch took, And strait incens'd with pride ungovern'd spoke: 'Tis thine, indeed, a distant war to wage, Nor dare like me in nearer sight engage.

Then Tisaphernes shook his haughty head:

O were I master of this arm! (he said)

Could I, at will, this faithful fanlchion wield,

We soon should see who best could brave the field.

Fierce as thou art, thy threats with scorn I hear; 500

Not thee, but Heav'n and Tyrant Love I fear.

He ceas'd: Adrassas stern his force defy'd; But here Armida interpos'd, and cry'd:

166 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XIX.

O warriors! wherefore now, your promife vain,
Will you so soon resume your gist again?

My champions are ye both—let this suffice
To bind your jarring souls in stiendly ties:
At my command this rash contention cease;
He meets my anger first who wounds the peace.

Thus she: At once the rage their breasts forsook, 5 10 And hearts discordant bow'd beneath her yoke.

Vafrino, present, all their converse knew,
Then, pensive, from the losty tent withdrew:
He saw, tho' deeply yet in clouds enshrin'd,
Some treason'gainst the Christian chief design'd: 515
He question'd oft, resolv'd each means to try,
To bear the secret thence, or bravely die.
In vain his search—'till chance at length display'd
The treach'rous snares for pious Godfrey laid.
Again he sought the tent, and view'd again
The Princess seated 'midst her warrior-train:
Then near a damsel with familiar air
He drew, and sportive thus address'd the fair.

I too would gladly draw th' avenging blade,
'Th' elected champion of fome lovely maid;
Perhaps this arm Rinaldo's felf may feel,
Or Godfrey breathless fink beneath my steel.
Ask from this hand (to me that service owe)
The head devoted of some barb'rous foe.

So spoke the 'squire; and smiling as he spoke, 530 A virgin view'd him with attentive look:
Sudden her eyes his well-known face confess'd,
Beside him soon she stood, and thus address'd.

I shall at full their purpos'd frauds explain, Which thou, perchance, had'st long explor'd in vain-

Thus she; while doubtful still Vafrino mus'd 566
In silent gaze, with various thoughts confus'd:
He call'd Armida's former arts to mind:
Woman's a changeful and loquacious kind:
A thousand schemes their sickle hearts divide,
Insensate those that in the sex conside!
At length he spoke: If hence you seek to sly,
Haste, let us go—your trusty guide am I.
Be this resolv'd—but let us yet beware,
And surther speech, 'till satter time, forbear.

573

Thus having faid, they fix'd without delay,
Before the troops decamp'd, to take their way.
Vafrine parted thence; the cautious maid
Awhile in converse with the damfels stay'd;
Amus'd them with her champion lately gain'd,
And with a plansive tale each ear detain'd:

Till at the appointed time the 'squire she join'd;
Then mounts her steed and leaves the camp behind.

The Pogan tents were vanish'd from the view;
And near an unfrequented place they drew;
When bold Vafrino spoke—Now, courteous fair!
The treason, fram'd for Godfrey's life, declare.

Eight knights (she cry'd) the dire adventure claim, But Ormond sierce excels the rest in same:

These, urg'd by hatred, or ensiam'd with ire, 590 In murd'rous league against your chief conspire:

Then hear their arts—what time on Syria's plaim
Th' embattled hosts contend for Asia's reign;

These on their arms the purple Cross shall bear, Disguis'd as Franks in white and gold appear,

Like Godfrey's guard, amid the mingled war. But on his helm, shall each a fignal show, Which, in the thick'ning fight, their friends may know. These shall the Christian leader's life pursue, And deadly venom shall their steel imbrue. 600 To me 'twas giv'n each false device to frame: Compell'd to act what now I loath to name! Hence from the camp I fly with just disdain. From the dire mandates of an impious train: I fcorn my thoughts with treason to defile, 605 T' affift the traitor and partake the guile. For this --- vet not for this alone I fled---She ceas'd; and ceasing blush'd with rosy red: Declin'd to earth the held her modeft look. And half again recall'd what last she spoke. 610

But what her virgin scruples strove to hide, He fought to learn, and gently thus reply'd. Why wilt thou firive thy forrows to conceal, Nor to my faithful ear thy cares reveal? She breath'd a figh that instant from her breast, 615 Then, with a fault'ring voice, the 'squire address'd.

Farewell ill-tim'd referve! no more I claim The modesty that fits a virgin's name. Such thoughts should longere this my heart have sway'd; But ah! they fuit no more a wand'ring maid! 620 That fatal night, my country's overthrow, When Antioch bow'd before the Christian foe;

200 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XIX.

From that, alas! my following woes I date, The early source of my disast'rous fate! Light was a kingdom's loss, an empire's boaft. 625 For with my regal state myself I lost! Thou know'ft, Vafrino! how I trembling ran, *Midst heaps of plunder and my subjects slain, To feek thy lord and mine; when, first in view, All sheath'd in arms he near my palace drew: 630 Low at his feet I breath'd this humble pray's: Unconquer'd chief! a helples virgin hear! Not for my life I now thy mercy claim; But fave my honour, guard my spotless fame! Ere yet I ceas'd, my hand the hero took, 645 And rais'd me from the earth and courteous fpoke. O lovely maid! in vain thou shalt not sue: In me thy friend, thy kind preserver view. He faid; a sudden pleasure fill'd my breas, A sweet sensation ev'ry thought posses'd, 640 That, deeply fpreading thro' my foul, became A wound incurable, a quenchless flame! He saw me oft; he gently shar'd my grief; With words of comfort gave my woes relief. . To thee (he cry'd) thy freedom I refign; 645 Nor ought of all thy treasures shall be mine. O cruel gift! O bounty vainly shown, For giving me myself, myself he won! And while he thus restor'd th' ignobler part, Usurp'd the sov'reign empire o'er my heart. 650 Alas! in vain I fought to hide my shame-How oft with thee I dwelt on Tancred's name!

Thou

Thou saw'st the tokens of a mind distress'd. And said'st-Erminia! love disturbs thy breaft. Still I deny'd, but still deny'd in vain: 655 My looks, my fighs reveal'd my fecret pain-At length, refolv'd my wishes to pursue, Love all respect of fear and shame o'erthrew. To feek my Lord I went, in luckless hour: 660 (He gave the wound, and he alone could cure) But lo! new dangers in my way I met. A band of barb'rous foes my steps beset: From these I scarce with life and freedom fled: Thence to the diffant woods my course I sped; There chose with shepherd-swains retir'd to dwell, 665 A humble tenant of the lonely cell. But when my flame, awhile by fear suppress'd, Once more, returning, kindled in my breaft; Again I fought the paths I fought before; Again was cross'd by fickle Fortune's pow'r: A troop of spoilers in my way I found; (Egyptian forces, and to Gaza bound) Me to their chief they led; with gentle ear Their chief vouchsaf'd my mournful tale to hear: So was my virtue fafe preferv'd from stain, 675 'Till plac'd in safety with Armida's train. Behold me thus (fo changing fate decreed) Now made a captive, now from bondage freed: Yet thus enflav'd, and thus releas'd again, I still am held in fond affection's chain. 680 O thou! for whom such soft distress I prove, Repulse not with disdain my proffer'd love;

But to a maid a kind reception give,

And to her bonds a wretch forlorn receive.

Thus spoke Erminia. All the night and day 685 They journey'd on, and commun'd on their way. Vafrino shunn'd the beaten track, and held His course thro' shorter paths, and ways conceal'd. Now near the town they came at ev'ning light, What time the shade foretold th'approach of night: 690 When here they saw the ground distain'd with blood, And, firetch'd on earth, a flaughter'd warrior view'd; His face was upward turn'd, with dauntless air, His aspect menac'd, ev'n in death severe. In him, as near the 'squire attentive drew, 695 Some Pagan warrior by his arms he knew. Not far from thence another prone was feen, His garb was diff rent, diff rent was his mien. Behold some Christian there (Vafrino said) Then mark'd his well-known vest with looks disinay'd: He quits his fleed, the features views and cries - 701 Ah me! here slain unhappy Tancred lies!

Was

.B. XIX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 2

Was I, for this, by fortune here convey'd? O dreadful object to a love-fick maid! Long have I fought thee with unweary'd pain, 715 Again I see thee! --- yet I see in vain! Tancred no more Erminia present views : And, finding Tancred, I my Tancred lose! Ah me!-anddid I think thou e'er should'st prove A fight ungrateful to Erminia's love? 720 Now could I wish to quench the beams of light. And hide each object in eternal night! Alas! where now are all thy graces fled! Where are those eyes that once such lustre shed! Where are those cheeks, replete with crimson glow, 725 Where all the beauties of thy manly brow! But senseless thus and pale thou still canst please! If yet thy gentle foul my forrow fees, Yet views, not wholly fled, my fond defires, Permit th'emboiden'd theft which love inspires: 7:0 Give me (since fate denies a further blis) From thy cold lips to inatch a parting kis: Those lips from whence such soothing words could flow To ease a virgin's, and a captive's woe! Let me, at least, this mournful office pay, 735 And rend in part from death his spoils away. Receive my spirit ready wing'd for flight, And guide from hence to realms of endless light. She faid; her bosom swell'd with lab'ring sight, And bring torrents trickled from her eyes. 740 At this the knight, who seem'd of sense depriv'd, Wash'd with her tears, by slow degrees reviv'd;

JERUSALEM DELIVERED. R. XIX. 201

A figh he mingled with the virgin's fighs, He figh'd, but rais'd not yet his languid eyes. His breath, returning, foon the dame perceiv'd; 745 A dawn of hope her fainting foul reliev'd. See, Tancred! see! (exclaim'd the tender maid) The mournful rites by dear affection paid. Behold I come thy fortune to divide-'Thus will I fink, thus perish by thy fide! 750 Yet, yet awhile thy fleeting life retain-O! hear my last request, nor hear in vain! Then Tancred strove to view the chearful light, But soon again withdrew his swimming sight: Again Erminia vents her tears and fighs, 755 Again she mourns: Forbear! (Vafrino cries)

Still, still he breathes, be then our care essay'd, To heal the living ere we weep the dead. He first difarms the chief, the trembling flands,

And to the office lends her friendly hands; Then views the hero's wounds with skilful eves. And feels new hopes within her bosom rise: But midst those desarts nought the fair can find, Nought but her slender veil his wounds to bind: Yet love, inventive, ev'ry scheme ran o'er; Love taught her various.arts untry'd before. .. Her locks she cut, with these she gently dry'd The clotted blood; the bandage these supply'd. Tho' there nor Ditiany nor Crocus grew, Yet diff'rent herbs of lenient pow'r she knew. 770 Already now, his mortal fleep dispell'd, The languid Prince again his eyes unfeal'd:

B. XIX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 205

He view'd his 'fquire, he saw th' attending maid
In foreign vesture clad, and faintly said.
From whence, Vasino! dost thou hither stray? 7.75
And who art thou, my kind preserver! say?
She doubtful still, 'twixt joy and forrow, sighs;
Then blushes rosy red, and thus replies.
All shalt thou know; but now from converse cease:
Hear my commands, and calm thy thoughts to peace.
I, your physician, will your health restore; 7&1
Be grateful for my care—I ask no more.

Then in her lap his head she gently laid: In anxious doubt awhile Vafrino flay'd, How to the camp his wounded Lord to bear, 785 Ere dewy night advanc'd to chill the air: When sudden near a band of warriors drew, And foon his eyes the troops of Tancred knew: Who hither came, by happy fortune brought, As fill'd with fear their absent chief they sought. 700 These rais'd th' enseebled here from the field, And gently in their faithful arms upheld. Then Tancred thus - Shall brave Argantes flain, Be left, a prey to vultures, on the plain? Ah no!-forbid it, Heav'n! nor let him lose 795 A foldier's honours, or fepulchral dues. I wage no battle with the filent dead; In fight the glorious debt he boldly paid: Then on his worth the rightful praise bestow; 'Tis all the living to the lifeless owe. 800

So he. Obsequious to their lord's command, His breathless foe they rear'd from off the land.

Behind

206 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XIX.

Behind they bore him, while with guardian care Vafrino rode beside the royal sair.

Then spoke the Prince, as thus they journey'd on: 805 Seek not my tents, but seek th' imperial town:

What chance soe'er this mortal frame shall meet,

There let me find it, in that holy seat:

From thence, where Christ a prey to death was giv'n,

My soul may wing her readier slight to Heav'a: 810

So shall I then my pilgrimage have made,

And the last vows of my devotion paid.

He faid: to Sion's walls the train address'd
Their ready course: There soon the warrior press'd
The welcome couch, and sunk to gentle rest. 815
And now Vasirino for the virgin-fair
A secret place provides with silent care:
That done, to Godfrey's sight with speed he goes;
And enters boldly, (none his steps oppose)
Where sate the leader bending o'er the bed 820
On which the wounded Raymond's limbs were spread:
And round their Prince (a great assembly!) stand
The best, the wisest of the Christian band.
All gaz'd in silence, with attentive look,
While thus Vasirino to the Gen'ral spoke. 825

O facred chief! thy high commands obey'd,
I fought the faithless crew, their camp servey'd:
But here my skill, to tell their number, fails;
I faw them hide the mountains, fields and vales:
Theirthirst the copious streams and fountains dries; 830
And Spria's harvest scarce their food supplies.

B.XIX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 209

O still the same! (the Leader thus replies)
Thou speak'st the friend and all thy words are wise!
Now hear the purpose in our thoughts decreed:
Against the soe our battle will we lead:
By some walls or trenches ne'er shall basely rest
A camp triumphant o'er the spacious Bast!
'Tis ours to meet you barb'rous troops in sight,
And prove our former worth in open light.
Before our swords shall sty the trembling train:
Thus shall we simply six our future reign:
The tow'r shall soon our stronger force obey,
And, unsupported, yield an easy prey.
He ceas'd: and to his tent his steps address'd:

He ceas'd; and to his tent his steps address'd;
For now the finking stars invite to rest.

THE ARGUMENT.

The Egyptian army arrives. The generals, on both fides, prepare for the battle. The Speeches of Godfrey and Emirence. The Christians make the onfet: Gildippe fignalizes berfelf and engages Altamorus, who had made great bawock of the Christians. Ormond is killed by Godfrey, and bis affociates are all cut to pieces. Rinaldo attacks the Moors and Arabs. and defeats them with great slaughter: He passes by Armida's chariot; ber behaviour on that occasion. Solyman from the tower, takes a prospect of the battle, and fired with emulation, leaves bis fortress: Aladine, and the rest of the Pagans, accompany him. Raymond is felled to the ground by Solyman, but Tancred, bearing the tumult, issues from the place where he lay ill of his wounds, and defends him from the enemy. Aladine is flain by Raymond. The Soldan having forced bis way through the Syrians and Gascons that surrounded the tower, enters the field of battle. The deaths of Edward and Gildippe. Adrastus is killed by Rinaldo, and Solyman falls by the same hand. Emirenes endeavours, in vain, to rally his troops. Tisaphernes performs great actions till be is slain by Rinaldo. Armida slies from the field; Rinaldo pursues her: The interview between them. Godfrey kills Emirenes, and takes Altamorus prisoner. The Pagans shy on all sides; and Godfrey enters the temple victorious, and pays his devotions at the somb.

HE sun had rouz'd mankind with early ray, And up the steep of Heav'n advanc'd the day: When from the lofty tow'r the Pagans 'spy A dully whirlwind that object d the fky. Like ev'ning's shade: At length reveal'd to fight, Th' Egyptian hoft appear'd in open light: The num'rous ranks the spacious champain fill'd, Spread o'er the mountains and the plains conceal'd. Then sudden, from the troop belieg'd, ascends A gen'ral shout that all the region reads. 10 With such a sound the cranes embody'd fly From Thracian shores to seek a warmer sky; With norfe they cut the clouds, and leave behind The wintry tempest, and the freezing wind. Now hope, rekindling, fires the Pagan band; Iζ Swells ev'ry threat, and urges ev'ry hand. This foon the Franks perceiv'd, and instant knew From whence their foes recover'd fury grew. They look'd; and 'midft the rolling fmoke, beheld The moving legions that e'er-spread the field. 20 Αt At once a gen'rous rage each bosom warms; At once each valiant hero pants for arms: Around their Chief with eager looks they stand, And loud the fignal for the war demand.

But, well advis'd, the prudent Chief deaies' To wage the battle till the morn arise:
He rules their ardor, he controuls their might,
And points a fitter season for the fight.
They hear, observant, and his voice obey,
But burn impatient for the dawning ray.

At length, high feated on her eastern throne; The breezy morn with welcome lastre shape; Wide o'er the skies she shed her ruddy streams, And glow'd with all the sun's enlivining beams: While Heav'n serene, and cloudless would survey. The glorious deeds of that anspicious day.

Soon as the dawn appears, with early care, His army Godfrey leads in form of war; But leaves, t'enclose the foes' beleaguer'd tow'r, Experienc'd Raymond with the Syrian pow'r, That from the neighb'ring lands auxiliar came, And hail'd with joy their great deliv'rer's name; A num'rous throng!—nor these alone remain, To these he adds the hardy Gascon train.

Now tow'r'd the Leader with exalted mien, While certain conquest in his eyes was seen: With more than wonted state he seem'd to tread; A sudden youth was o'er his seatures spread: Celestial favour beam'd in ev'ry look, And ev'ry act a more than mortal spoke.

Now

Now near advanc'd, the pious hero view'd Where, deply throng'd, th' Egyptian squadrons stood a And strait to seize a fav'ring hill he sends, Whose height his army's left and rear defends. His troops he rang'd; the midst the foot contain'd; 55 In either wing the lighter horse remain'd. The left, that to the friendly hill was join'd, The chief to either Robert's care confign'd: The midft his brother held; himself the right, Where open lay the dangers of the fight: Here mix'd with horse, accustom'd thus t' engage, A distant war on foot the archers wage. Behind, th' Advent'rers to the right he led, And plac'd the bold Rinaldo at their head. 65

In thee, intrepad warrior! (Godfrey cries) Our strong defence, our hope of conquest lies. Behind the wing awhile remain conceal'd; But when the foes advance t' invade the field, Assail their flank, as vainly they contend To wheel around us, and our rear offend.

Then on a rapid steed, in open view, From rank to rank, 'twixt horse and foot, he slew: From his rais'd helm his piercing looks he cast; His eyes, his figure lighten'd as he pass'd! The chearful he confirm'd, the doubtful rais'd, 75 And, for their former deeds, the valiant prais'd. He bade the bold their antient boafts regard; Some urg'd with honour's, fome with gold's reward. At length he stays where thick ning round him stand The first, the bravest of the martial band:

80 Then

214 JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Then from on high his speech each hearer warms, Swells the big thought, and fires the soul to arms. As from steep hills the rushing torrents slow, Increas'd with sudden falls of melting snow; So from his lips, with swift effacion, pours & Mellisluous eloquence in copious show'rs.

O you, the scourge of JESUS' fees profess'd, O glorious heroes! conqu'rers of the Eaft! Behold the day arriv'd so long defir'd, The wish'd-for day to which your hopes aspir'd! Some great event the Almighty fure defigne, Who all his rebels in one force combines: See! in one field he brings your various foes, That one great battle all your wars may close. Despise von Pagans, an ungovern'd host. 95 Lost in confusion, in their numbers lost! Our mighty force can troops like these sustain? A rout undisciplin'd, a straggling train! From floth or fervile labours brought from far, Compell'd, reluctant, to the task of war! 100 Their fwords now tremble, trembles ev'ry shield; Their fearful flandards tremble on the field. I hear their doubtful founds, their motions view. And see death hov'ring o'er the fated crew. You leader fierce and glorious to behold, 105 In flaming purple and refulgent gold, Might quell the Moorifb and Arabian train, But here his valour, here his worth is vain: Wife tho' he be, what methods shall he prove To rule his army, or their foars remove? 110

Scarce

B. XX.

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 215

Scarce is he known, and scarce his troops can name. Nor calls them partners of his former fame: We ev'ry toil and ev'ry triumph share, Fellows in arms, and brothers of the war! Is there a warrior but your chief can tell 115 His native country, and his birth reveal? What sword to me unknown? What shaft that flies With missile death along the liquid skies? I alk but what I oft have gain'd before: Be still yourselves, and Godfrey seeks no more. 120 Preserve your zeal! your fame and mine attend: But, far o'er all, the faith of CHRIST defend! Go-crush those impious on the fatal plain; With their defeat your facred rights maintain. What should I more?—I see your ardent eyes! Conquest awaits you! - feize the glorious prize.

He ceas'd; and instant, like a stashing light,
When stars or meteors stream thro' dusky night,
A sudden splendor on his brow was shed,
And lambent glories play'd around his head.
All wond'ring gaze! and some the sign explain
The certain omen of his future reign.
Perchance (if mortal thoughts so high may soar,
Or dare the secrets of the skies explore)
From Heav'nly seats his guardian Angel stew,
And o'er the Chief his golden pinions threw.

While Godfrey thus the Christian host prepares,
Th' Egyptian leader, press'd with equal cares,
Extends his num'rous force to meet the foes:
The midst the foot, the wings the horse compose: 140
Himself

Himself the right; the midst Mulasses guides; There, in the central war, Armida rides. In pomp barbaric near the Leader stand India's stern King, and all the regal band: There Tisaphernes lifts his haughty head; 145 But where the fquadrons to the left were spread, (A wider space) there Altamorus brings His Afric Monarchs, and his Persian Kings: From thence their flings, their arrows they prepare, And all the missile thunder of the war. 150

Now Emirenes ev'ry rank inspires, The fearful raises, and the valiant fires: To those he cry'd --- What mean your looks depress'd? What fear unmanly harbours in your breast? Our near approach shall daunt you hostile train, Our shouts alone shall drive them from the plain. To these-No more delay, ye gen'rous bands! Redeem the pillage from the spoilers' hands. In fome he 'waken'd ev'ry tender thought, Each lov'd idea to remembrance brought: O! think by me your country begs (he cries) And thus, adjuring, on your aid relies! Preserve my laws, preserve each sacred sane, Nor let my children's blood my temples stain: Preserve from rushan force th' affrighted maid: Preferve the tombs and ashes of the dead! To you, oppress'd with bending age and woe, Their filver locks your hoary fathers show: To you, your wives, your lisping infants sue: All ask their safety, and their lives from you.

He faid, and ceas'd; for nearer now was feen Th' advancing pow'rs, and fmall the space between. Now front to front in dreadful paufe they fland, Burn for the fight, and only wait command. The streaming banners to the wind are spread, 175 The plumage nods on ev'ry crested head; Arms. vefts, devices catch the funny rays. And steel and gold with mingled splendor blaze! Each spacious host on either side appears. A steely wood, a grove of waving spears. 180 They bend their bows, in rest their lances take, They whirl their slings, their ready jav'lins shake. Each gen'rous steed to meet the fight aspires. And seconds, with his own, his master's fires: He neighs, he foams, he paws the ground beneath, 185 And smoke and flame his swelling nostrils breathe.

Ev'n horror pleas'd in such a glorious sight,

Each beating besom selt severe delight:

While the shrill trumpets, echoing from afar,

With dreadful transports animate the war.

190

But still the faithful bands superior stood,

More clear their notes, more fair their battle shew'd:

Their louder trumpets rouz'd a nobler slame,

And from their arms a brighter lustre came!

The Christians sound the charge; the foes reply; 195
And the mix'd clangors rattle in the sky:
Strait on their knees the Franks the soil adore,
And kiss the hallow'd earth, and Heav'n implore.
And now between the troops the space is lost;
With equal arder joins each adverse host.

230 Her

What hero first, amidst the Christian name, Gain'd from the faithless bands a wreath of same? *Twas thou Gildippe! whose refifiless hand O'erthrew Hircanes, who in Ormus reign'd: (Such glory Heav'n on female arms difplay'd) Deep in his breast the spear a passage made: Headlong he falls; and, falling, hears the foe With joyful shouts applaud the forceful blow. Her jay'lin broke, her trufty sword she drew, And pierc'd the Persians, and Zopyrus slow; Cleft where the circling belt his armour bound, He falls, divided, on the purple ground. Thro' fierce Alarcus' throat her weapon hew'd The double passage of the voice and food: Then Artaxerxes in the dust she laid, And thro' Argens thrust her furious blade. At Ishmael's arm her rapid feel she guides, And the close juncture of the hand divides: The sever'd hand at once the rein forsook: Above the startled courser his'd the stroke: He rear'd aloft, and feiz'd with sudden fright, Broke thro' the ranks, and discompos'd the fight. All these and numbers more her fury feel, Whose names in filence ages past conceal: But 'gainst her now the thronging Persians came, And Edward ran t'affift the matchless dame. With force united then, the faithful pair Undannted bore the rushing storm of war. Neglectful of themselves amidst the strife, Each guards, with watchful care, the other's life.

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Her ready shield the warlike damsel foread. And turn'd the weapons aim'd at Edward's head. He, o'er his spouse, his fencing buckler throws: Each feeks for each the vengeance on the foes. By him the daring Artaban was flain, 335 Who in Boccan's island held his reign: By him his inflant fate Alvantes found, Who durft at fair Gildippe aim the wound. Then Arimenter' brow the cleft in two. Who, with drawn fword, against her confort flew. 210 While these refistless 'midst the Persians rap'd; More dire Samarcand's King the Franks engag'd. Where-e'er he turn'd his steed, or drove his steel, Whe horse and foot before his fury fell: And those that 'scape the faulthion's milder death, 245 Beneath the courser's feet grown out their breath! By Altamorus on the dreadful plain. Brunello ftrong, Andonio huge was flain : Of that the helm and head the fword divides a The gory visage hangs on equal sides. 250 This, pierc'd where laughter first derives its birth, And the glad heart dilates to pleasing mirth. (Wond'rons and horrid to the gazer's eyes!) Now laughs conftrain'd, and as he laughe he dies! With these Gentonio, Guafco, Guido dy'd; 255 And good Resmonds swell'd the crimfon tide. What tongue can tell the throng depriv'd of breath, The wounds describe, or dwell on ev'ry death? None yet appear'd, of all the warring band, Who durft fuftain his valour hand to hand.

269 Alone

220 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XX.

Alone Gildippe 'gainst the Monarch came: No fear could damp her gen'rous thirst of fame. Less bold on fair Thermodoon's winding shore. Each warlike Amazon her buckler bore. Or rear'd her axe; than now, with glorious heat, 269 Gildippe rush'd the Persian's rage to meet. She rais'd her fword, and struck the regal crown That round his helm with pomp barbaric shone. The glitt'ring honours from his brows she rent; Beneath the force the mighty warrior bent. The King with shame the pow'rful arm confess'd. And swift t' avenge the blow his steel address'd: Full on her front so sierce the dame he struck. That sense her mind, and strength her limbs for sook. Then had she fall'n, but near with ready hand Her faithful lord her finking weight fuftain'd. No more the lofty foe his stroke pursu'd, But with disdain an easy conquest view'd: So the bold lion, with a scornful eye, Scowls on the proftrate prey and passes by. 280

Meantime fierce Ormond, who, with murd'rous care, Had spread for Godfrey's life the fatal snare, Disguis'd, was mingled with the Christian band, And near their chief his dire associates stand. So prouling wolves an entrance seek to gain, 285 Like faithful dogs, amongst the woolly train; They watch the folds when welcome shades arise, And hide their quiv'ring tails between their thighs. Th' insidious band advanc'd, and now in view Near pious Godfrey's side the Pagan drew. 290 Soon

B.XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Soon as the Prince the white and gold furvey'd, (The certain token which their wile betray'd) Behold the traitor there confess'd (he cries) Who veils his treason with a Frank's disguise! At me his followers aim the deadly blow-295 He faid, and rush'd against the treach'rous foe: On Ormand swift th' avenging blade he rais'd; Th' aftonish'd wretch, without resistance, gaz'd: And, while a fudden terror froze his blood. With stiff'ning limbs, a fenseless statue stood. 300 Each fword was turn'd against the fraudful crew, At these the shafts from ev'ry quiver slew: In pieces hewn their bodies frew the plains; And not a fingle corfe entire remains!

Now, stain'd with saughter, Godfrey bent his course
To where the valiant Altamerus' force
306
His squadrons piere'd, that sled with tim'rous haste,
Like Afric sands before the southern blast.
Loud to his troops th' indignant hero cry'd,
Stay'd those that sled, and him that chac'd defy'd.
310

Between these mighty chiefs a fight ensu'd,
More dire than Ida or Scamander view'd.
Meanwhile betwixt the foot the battle bled;
Those Baldwin rul'd, and these Mulasses led.
Nor less, in other parts, the conflict rag'd, 315
Where next the mountain, horse with horse engag'd.
There Emirenes dealing fate was found;
There fought the two * in fields of death renown'd.

Adrastus and Tisaphernes.

222 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B. XX.

Two Roberts there the Pagan force defy'd: With Emirenes one the combat try'd, While conquest yet declar'd on neither fide: But one, with armour pierc'd and helmet hew'd, In harder conflict with Adragus stood. Still Tisaphernes finds no equal foe To mate his strength, and measure blow for blow; But rushes where he sees the thickest train. And with a mingled carnage heaps the plain. Thus far'd the war; while neither part prevails, And hope and fear are pois'd in equal scales. O'erspread with shatter'd arms the ground appears, 330-With broken bucklers, and with shiver'd spears. Here swords are stuck in hapless warriors kill'd, And useless there are seatter'd o'er the sold. Here, on their face, the breathless bodies lie : There turn their ghastly features to the fix! 336 Beside his lord the courser press'd the plain . Beside his slaughter'd friend the friend is slain : Foe near to foe; and on the vanquish'd spread The victor lies: the living on the dead ! An undistinguish'd din is heard around, 340 Mix'd is the murmur, and confus'd the found: The threats of anger, and the foldier's cry, The groans of those that fall, and those that die. The fplendid arms that shone so gay before, Now, fudden chang'd, delight the eyes no more. 345 The fieel has loft its gleam, the gold its blaze;

No more the vary'd colours blend their rays:

B. XX. JERÜSALEM DELIVERED.

Torn from the crest the fully'd plumes are lost, And dust and blood deform the pomp of either host! Now, on the left, with Ethiopia's train, 350 The Moors and Arabs wheel around the plain. The flingers next, and archers from afar Pour'd on the Franks a thick and missie war: When lo! Rinaldo, with his fquadron came, Dire as an earthquake, swift as lightning's flame! 355 From Merce, first of Ethiopia's bands. Full in his passage Assimirus stands: Rinaldo reach'd him, where the fable head Join'd to the neck, and mix'd him with the dead. Soon as his fword the tafte of blood confest'd. 260 New ardor kindled in the hero's breaft. Thro' all the throng the dreadful victor fform'd. And deeds, transcending human faith, perform'd. As, when th' envenom'd ferpent shoots along, Furious he seems to dart a triple tongue: 365 At once the chief appears three swords to wield, And hurl a threefold vengeance round the field. The fwarthy Kings, the Lybian tyrants die, Drench'd in each other's blood confus'd they lie. Fierce with the rest his following friends engage, 370 His great example animates their rage. Without defence th' aftonish'd vulgar fall: One universal ruin levels all! 'Twas war no more, but carnage thro' the field; Those lift the sword, and these their bosoms yield. 375 No longer now the Pagans fink, oppress'd

With wounds before, all honest on the breast;

224 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XX.

Lost are their ranks, they fly with headlong fear, And pale confusion trembles in their rear: Behind, Rinaldo pours along the plain, 380 And breaks and scatters wide the tim'rous train. At length his gen'rous arm from flaughter ceas'd. And 'gainst a slying foe his wrath decreas'd. So when high hills or tufted woods oppofe, With double force the wind indignant blows; 385 No more oppos'd, no more its rage prevails, But o'er the lawn it breathes in gentle gales. So midst the rocks the sea resounding raves, But, unconfin'd, more calmly rolls its waves. Next on the foot the warrior bent his force. 390 Where late the Afric and Arabian horse The squadrons flank'd; but now dispers'd around, They take their flight, or gasp upon the ground. Swift on th' unguarded files Rinaldo flew; As swift behind his brave compeers pursue: 395 Spears, darts, and fwords in vain his might withfland, Whole legions fall beneath his dreadful hand! Not with fuch rage a burfting tempest borne, Sweeps o'er the field, and mowes the golden corn. The streaming blood in purple torrents swell'd; And arms, and mangled limbs the earth conceal'd: There, uncontroul'd, the foaming courfers tread, Bound o'er the plain, and trample on the dead! Now came Rinaldo where, with martial air, Appear'd Armida in her glitt'ring car. 405 A train of lovers near her person wait,

A glorious guard, the nobles of the state!

She

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

She fees! she knows! --- conflicting passions rise, Defire and anger tremble in her eyes. A transient blush the hero's visage burns; But heat and cold possess her heart by turns. The knight, declining from the car, withdrew, Not unregarded by the rival-crew: Those lift the sword, and these the lance protend; Ev'n she prepares her threat'ning bow to bend. She fits the shaft, disdain her thoughts impell'd, But love awhile the purpos'd ftroke with-held. Thrice in her hand the missile reed she tries: And thrice her fault'ring hand its strength denies. At length her wrath prevails, she twangs the string, 420 And fends the whizzing arrow on the wing: Swift flies the shaft-as swiftly flies her pray'r That all its fury may be spent in air! She hopes, the fears, the follows with her eye, And marks the weapon as it cuts the sky. 425 The weapon, not unfaithful to her aim, Against the warrior's stubborn cors'let came: Harmless it fell; aside the hero turn'd: She deem'd her pow'r despis'd, her anger scorn'd: Again she bent her bow, but fail'd to wound, While love with furer darts her bosom found. And is he then impervious to the steel.

And is he then impervious to the iteel,
And fears he not (she cry'd) the stroke to feel?

Does tenfold adamant his limbs invest,
That adamant which guards his ruthless breast? 435
So well secured that safely he desies
The sword of battle, or the fair one's eyes?

What

226 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XX.

What further arts for wretched me remain?—
Attempt no more—for ev'ry art is vain!
Arm'd or difarm'd an equal fate I know,
Alike contemn'd, a lover or a foe!
Where now, alas! is ev'ry former boaft?—
Behold my warriors faint!—my hopes are loft!
Against his valour ev'ry strength must fail;
Nor courage can withstand, nor arms avail!

445
While thus she thought, her champions round she view'd

O'erthrown, or ta'en, or welt'ring in their blood.
What should she do?—alone, unhelp'd remain?
Already now she dreads the victor's chain:
Nor dares (the bow and jav'lin at her side)
In Pallas' or Diana's arms conside.
As when the fearful cygnet sees on high
'The strong-pounc'd eagle stooping from the sky,
'Trembling she cow'rs beneath th' impending fate;
So seem'd Armida, such her dang'rous state.

But Altamorus, who from shameful slight
Still held the Persaus, and maintain'd the sight,
Her peril view'd, and, careless of his fame,
His troops forsook, and to her rescue came.
With rapid sword he breaks amid the war,
And wheele around her, and defends the car:
While dire destruction rages thro' his bands,
O'erthrown by Godfrey and Rinaldo's hands.
This sees th' unhappy Prince, but sees in vain:
Armida succour'd now, he turn'd again,
But slew too late t' affist his routed train!

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 2

There all was loft; a gen'ral panic spread;
Dispers'd around the broken Persians sted.
In other parts the fainting Christians yield;
Two Roberts there in vain direct the field;
One scarce escap'd with life; his wounded breast
And bleeding front the hostile steel confess'd;
While sierce Adrastus one his pris'ner made:
Thus equal chance the dubious battle sway'd.

But Geoffe, now his hardy warriors warm'd,
Again to fight his ready bands he form'd;
Then bravely on the victor-forces flew:
They join, they thicken, and the war renew.
Each fide appears diffain'd with adverse gore;
Each fide the glorious figns of triumph bore.
Conquest and Fame on either part are seen,
And Mars and Fortune doubtful stand between.

While thus the combat rages on the plain Betwixt the Christian and the Pagan train; High on the tow'r the haughty Soldan Rood, From whence, intent, the distant strife he view'd. Struck with the fight, his breast with eavy swell'd, He burn'd to mingle in the fatal field. All arm'd befides, he fnatch'd with enger haste, And on his head his radiant helmer plac'd: 490 Rife! rife! (he faid) no longer flothful lie-Behold the time to conquer or to die! Then, whether Heav'n's high providence inspir'd His daring purpose, and his fury fir'd, That thus at once the Pagan reign might end, 495 And all its glories on that day descend: Or,

228 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XX.

Or, whether conscious of his death to come,
He selt an impulse now to meet his doom:
Sudden he bade the sounding gates unbar,
And issu'd forth with unexpected war;
Nor waits his following band, but singly goes;
Himself alone desies a thousand foes.
But soon the rest his martial rage partook,
Ev'n aged Aladine the fort forsook:
The base, the cautious catch at once the sires;
Not hope excites them, but despair inspires.

The first the Turk before his passage found, His valour tumbled breathless to the ground. So swift he thunder'd on the faithful train. That ere they view th' assault, their friends are slain. First of the Christians, struck with panic fear, The trembling Syriaus for their flight prepare. But still unrouted stood the Gascon band, Tho' nearer these the Soldan's rage sustain'd, And fell in heaps beneath his flaught'ring hand. 515. Not with such wrath the savage beast indu'd, Leaps o'er the fold, and dies the ground with blood: Not with fuch fury, thro' th' ethereal space, Voracious vultures rend the feather'd race. Thro' plated steel his strength resistless drives, While his keen faulchion drinks the warriors' lives! With Aladine the Pagans quit the tow'r, And furious on their late besiegers pour.

But Raymond now advanc'd with fearless haste, And saw where Salyman his squadron press'd; 525

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED, 229

Nor yet the hoary chief his steps forbore, Nor shunn'd that arm whose force he felt before. Again to combat he defies the foe. Again his front receives a dreadful blow: Again he falls; in vain declining age 530 With strength unequal would such pow'r engage. Behold a hundred fwords and shields display'd: And these defend the knight, and those invade. But thence with speed th' imperuous Soldan flies: (He deems him slain, or deems an easy prize) Descending, o'er the ruin'd works he goes To distant plains, where siercer battle glows: Far other scenes his barb'rous rage demands, Far other deaths must glut his cruel hands! Meanwhile around the late beleaguer'd tow'r, 540 New vigour still inspir'd the Pagan pow'r; The warmth their leader breath'd they still retain; And with the Christians still their fears remain. Those seek to finish what their chief begun; And these, retreating, seem the fight to shun. 545 In due array the hardy Gascons yield; The Syrians wide are scatter'd o'er the field. The tumult thickens near where Tancred lies. He hears the din of arms, the foldier's cries: Strait from the couch his wounded limbs he rears, 550 And lo! at once the mingled fcene appears: He sees on earth th' ill-fated Raymond laid, Some flowly yield, and fome in flight farvey'd. That courage true to ev'ry noble breaft, Nor lost by weakness, nor by pain suppress'd, 554

Now

230 JERUSALEM DELIVERED. B.XX.

Now swell'd the hero's soul; he grasp'd his shield,
Nor seem'd too faint the pond'rous orb to wield;
His right hand held unsheath'd the glitt'ring blade,
Nor other arms he sought, nor more delay'd;
But issuing thus—O! whither would you sly,
And leave your lord neglected here to die?
Shall then these Pagan rend his arms away,
And in their fanes suspend the glorious prey?
Go—seek your country—to his son reveal
That, where you sled, his noble father fall!

165
He faid; and churst against a thousand foes

Cleft thro' the head the dying monarch fell; Prone on his kingdom's foil refign'd his breath. And groaning bit the bloody dust in death. Now various passions move the Paran foce: Some 'gainst the spear their desp'rate breasts oppose; While some, with terror soiz'd, the fight forsake, And in the fort their second resuge take: But ent'ring, mix'd with these, the victor-train At once the conquest of the fortress gain. A hundred warriors, great in arms, he slew,
Yet from oblivion Fame has snatch'd but two.
O Edward and Gildippe! faithful pair!
Your hapless fate, your matchless deeds in war,
(If equal praise my Tuscan muse can give)
Consign'd to distant times shall ever live!
Some pitying lover, when the tale he hears,
Shall grace your fortune and my verse with tears.

Th' intrepid heroine spurr'd her steed, and slew To where the raging Turk the troops o'erthrew: 625 Two mighty strokes her valiant arm impell'd, One reach'd his side, one pierc'd his plated shield: The surious chief her well-known vest descry'd: Behold the strumpet with her mate (he cry'd) Hence to thy semale tasks! the distaff wield, 630 Nor dare with spear and sword to brave the field.

He faid, and dreadful as the words he spoke, His thund'ring weapon thro' her cors'let broke: Deep in her breast the ruthless faulchion drove. Her gentle breast, the seat of truth and love! 635 Her languid hand foregoes the useless rein; Approaching death creeps cold in ev'ry vein. To fave his wife unhappy Edward flies! Too late he comes—his lov'd Gildippe dies! What should he do - distracting thoughts prevail, 640 Pity and wrath at once his heart affail: That, bids his arm a kind support bestow, This, prompte his vengeance on the barb'rous foe. While with his left he feeks to hold the fair, . : His better hand provokes th' unequal war: 645 But

But vain his efforts to support his bride, Or reach the murd'rous chief by whom she dy'd. The fword the Pagan thro' his arm impell'd, That with a fruitless grasp his consort held. As when an axe the flately elm invades. 650 Or florms uproot it from its native shades, It falls -- and with it falls the mantling vine. Whose curling folds its ample waste entwine: So Edward funk beneath the Pagan steel; So, with her Edward, fair Gildippe fell. 655 They strive to speak, their words are lost in fighs, And on their lips th' imperfect accent dies. Each other still with mournful looks they view. And, close embracing, take the last adieu: Till losing both the chearful beams of light, Their gentle souls together take their flight !

Soon spreading Fame the dire event declares,
And soon the tidings to Rinaldo bears:
Compassion, grief, and wrath at once conspire,
And all his gen'rous thoughts to vengeance fire: 665
But first Adrastus, in the Soldan's fight,
His passage cross'd, and dar'd him to the fight.

Then thus the King—By ev'ry fign display'd,
Thou sure art he for whom my search is made.
Each buckler have I long explor'd in vain,
And oft have call'd thee thro' th' embattled plain.
Now shall my former vows be fully paid,
And justice sated with thy sorfeit head:
Come!—let us here our mutual valour show,
Armida's champion I, and thou her soe!

Boaftful he spoke: then whirl'd his flashing steel; Swift on the Christian's head the tempest fell: In vain—the temper'd casque the force withstood; But oft the warrior in the faddle bow'd : Rinaldo's faulchion then Adragus found; 680 And in his fide impress'd a mortal wound; Prone falls the giant-King, no more a name! One fatal blow concludes his life and fame! With horror feiz'd the gazing Pugans flood, While fear and wonder froze their curdling blood. 684 Ev'n Soliman furpriz'd the firoke heheld, His alter'd looks his troubled thoughts reveal'd: He fees his doom, and (wond'rous to relate!) Suspended fands to meet approaching fats. But Heav'n's high will, for ever uncontroul'd. Unnerves the mighty, and confounds the bold! As oft the fick in dreams attempt to fly, What time the fainting limbs their foced deny; In vain their lips a vocal found effay. Nor cries nor voice can find their wanted way. 695 So strove the Soldan now th' affault to dare. He rouz'd his foul to meet the threaten'd war : In vain-no more the thirst of fame prevail'd. His spirits droop'd, his wonted vigour fail'd; He fcorn'd to yield or fly; yet, unresolv'd, A thousand thoughts his way'ring mind revolv'd.

While thus he paus'd, the conqu'ring chief drew nigh, Furious he rush'd, tremendous to the eye!

He seem'd to move with more than mortal course,

And look'd a match for more than mortal force. 705

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED. 2

The Pagan carce refifts, yet ev'n in death
Preserves his same, and nobly yields his breath;
Nor shuns the sword, but 'midst his ruins great,
Without a groan receives the stroke of sate!
Thus he, who, when subdu'd by stronger soes,
From ev'ry sall, like old Antons rose
With force renew'd, now reach'd his destin'd hour,
And press as length the earth to rise no more.

Then Fame from man to man the tidings bears;
A doubtful face no longer Fortune wears;
No longer then the war's event suspends,
But joins the Christians and their arms befriends.
Soon from the fight recede the regal hand,
The pride, the strength of all the Eastern land;
Once call'd immortal; now the name is left,
And ruin triumphs o'er an empty boas!
Th' assonish'd bearer with the standard sled.
Him Emissions stopp'd, and sternly said.

Art thou not he, selected from the train.

Our Monarch's glorious hanner to sustain?

725

Was it for this (O! scandal to the brave!)

That to thy hand th' important charge I gave?

And canst thou, Rimedan, thy chief survey,

Yet basely leave him and desert the day?

What dost thou seek? thy safety?—here it lies—730

With me return—death waits for him who slies.

Here let him bravely fight who hopes to live;

Here honour's deeds alone can safety give.

He heard, and infant to the field return'd; Difdain and shame his conscious bosom burn'd.

No less the rest th' intrepid chief retain'd, These urg'd by threats, and those by force constrain'd. Who dares to fly from yonder fwords, (he cries) Who dares to tremble, by this weapon dies! Thus rang'd again his routed files he view'd. 740 The war rekindled, and his hopes renew'd: While Tisaphernes with refiftless might Maintain'd the combat, and forbade the flight. Brave deeds that day renown'd the warrior's hand; His fingle force dispers'd the Norman band: 745 By him were chac'd the Flemings from the plain, And Gernier, Gerrard and Rogero flain. When acts like these had grac'd his last of days. And crown'd his short but glorious life with praise, As careless what succeeding sate might yield, He fought the greatest perils of the field: He faw Rinaldo, well the youth he knew, Tho' all his arms were dy'd to sanguine hue. Lo! there the terror of the plain (he cries) May Heav'n assist my daring enterprize! 755 So shall Armida her revenge obtain: O! Maton! let my sword this conquest gain, And his proud arms shall hang devoted in thy fane. Thus pray'd the knight; his words are lost in air,

No Macon hears his unavailing pray'r.

As the bold lion, eager to engage,
With lashing tail provokes his native rage:
So fares the furious warrior; love inspires,
Swells all his soul, and rouzes all his fires.

He bears aloft his shield; he spurs his steed: 765 The Latian Hero rash'd with equal speed. At once they meet; at once, on either hand In deep suspense the gazing armies stand, Such skill, such courage either champion shows, So swift their weapons, and so fierce their blows; 770 Each fide awhile forget their wonted rage, And drop their arms to fee the chiefs engage. In vain the Pagan strikes; secur'd from harms, The Christian combats in ethereal arms; 775

From him more fatal ev'ry stroke descends; The foe from wounds no temper'd steel defends; His shield is rent away, his helm is hew'd, And the plain blushes with a stream of blood,

The fair Enchantress, who the fight survey'd. Beheld how fast her champion's strength decay'd. He foon, forgetful of his former fame, 795 Spread ev'ry fail to join the flying dame: So Tilaphernes (but his foe withflood) Had from the field Armida's flight purfu'd: His fair-one vanish'd from his longing eyes, The fun feem'd blotted from the chearful faies: Fierce at Rinaldo then, in wild defpair. He rais'd aloft his vengeful blade in air. Not with such weight, to frame the forky brand, The pond'rous hammer falls from Brontes' hand. Full on his front the thund'ring stroke he feat: 80s Beneath the force the stagg'ring warrior beat; But, foon recov'ring, whirl'd his beaming sword: The thirsty point the Pagan's bosom gor'd; A furious passage thro' his cuirass made, Till at his back appear'd the rocking blade: Rie The steel, drawn forth, a double vent supply'd; The foul came floating in a purple tide.

Rinaldo paufing, can around his view,

To mark what friends to aid, what foes pursue.

Wide o'er the field he fees the Pagant sy;
On earth their broken arms and enfigus lie.

And now his thoughts recall th' unhappy fair,
Who furious fied abandon'd to despair.

Her woeful state might well his pity claim,
Her love neglected, and her rain'd fame!

820

For still in mind his tender'd faith he bore,
Her champion plighted when he left her shore.

Then, where her rapid courfer's track he view'd,
Th' impatient knight the stying dame pursa'd.

Meanwhile Armida chanc'd a vale to find 82 F That seem'd for dire despair and death design'd: Well-pleas'd herself she saw by fate convey'd To end her woes in such a grateful shade. There, 'lighting from her steed, she laid afide Her bow, her quiver, all her martial pride. 830 Unfaithful arms! (she cries) essay'd in vain, Return'd unbath'd from such a sanguine plain: Here bury'd lie, and prove the field no more, Since you so ill aveng'd the wrongs I bore. If vainly thus at other hearts you fly, 83¢ Dare you a female's tender bosom try? Here—enter mine, that naked meets the blow; Here raise your trophies, here your triumphs show! Love knows how well this breast admits the dart: Love that so deep has pierc'd my tender heart! 840 Unblest Armida! what is now thy fate, When this alone can cure thy wretched flate? The weapon's point must heal the wound of Love. And friendly Death my heart's physician prove. Fond Love. farewell! --- but come, thou fell Difdain! For ever partner with my ghost remain; 816 Together let us rife from realms below, To haunt th' ungrateful author of my woe: To bring dire visions to his fearful fight. And fill with horror ev'ry fleepless night! 85 6 She ceas'd: and, fix'd her mournful life to close,

The sharpest arrow from her quiver chose: When lo! Rinalds came and saw the fair So near the dreadful period of despair:

Already

Already now her frantic hand she rear'd, And death already in her looks appear'd: He rush'd behind her, and restrain'd the dart; The fatal point just bent against her heart.

Armida turn'd, and strait the knight beheld, (Unheard he came, and fudden stood reveal'd) 860 Surpriz'd she sees, and, shricking with affright, From his lov'd face averts her angry fight: She faints! she finks! --- as falls a tender flow'r, Whose feeble stem supports the head no more: His arms he threw around her lovely waift, 860 Her weight supported, and her zone unbrac'd; While, gently bending o'er the fair distress'd, His forrows bath'd her face and tender breaft. As wet with pearly drops of morning dews, The drooping rose her wonted grace renews: 870. So the, recov'ring foon, her vifage rears, All moist and trickling with her lover's tears. And thrice she rais'd her eyes the youth to view. Thrice from his face her fight averse withdrew. Oft from the strict embrace in vain she strove. With languid hand, his stronger arm to move: The pitying warrior still his grasp retain'd, And closer to his breast the damsel strain'd. At length, as thus in dear restraint she lay, Her words with gushing torrents found their way: 880 Yet still on earth she bent her steadfast look. Nor dar'd to meet his glance while thus she spoke.

O cruel! when thou left'ft me first to mourn!

And O! as cruel now in thy return!

Why

855

B. XX. JERUSALEM DELIVERED.

Why wouldst thou then thy fruitless cares employ 88c To fave a life thy perjuries destroy? Sav. to what future wrongs, what future shame, What woes unknown is doom'd Armida's name? Full well thy wily purpose I descry-But she can little dare, who dares not die. 890 One triumph still to grace thy pomp remains; A hapless Princess bound in captive chains: At first betray'd, then made by force thy prize: From acts like these thy mighty glories rife! Once life and happiness 'twas thine to give; 895 Now death alone my fuff'rings can relieve! But not from thee this bleffing I demand: All gifts are hateful from Rinaldo's hand! Yet, cruel as thou art, myself can find Some friendly way t'elude the ills design'd: 009 If to a helpless wretch in bondage ty'd, Are pois'nous drugs and piercing steel deny'd: Yet (thanks to Heav'n!) a path remains to death: Thou shalt not long detain this hated breath: Cease then thy soothing arts, thy feints give o'er, And move my foul with flatt'ring hopes no more. cos

Thus monrnful she; while love and anger drew
Fast from her beauteous eyes the briny dew.
He, touch'd with pity, melts with equal woe,
And, mix'd with hers, his kindly forrows flow.
At length with tender words he thus reply'd:

Armida! lay thy doubts, thy fears aside:
Live—not to suffer shame, to empire live;
In me thy champion, not thy soe receive.

O! would to Heav'n! the rays of truth as well Might from thy mind the Pagan mift dispel, 920 As I shall raise thee to so high a state, No eastern dame shall match thy glorious face.

He spoke; and speaking, sought her breast to move With fighs and tears, the eloquence of love! *Till, like the melting flakes of mountain-flow. 925 Where shines the sun, or tepid breezes blow; Her anger, late so fierce, dissolves away, And gentle passions bear a milder fway.

Ah me! I yibid! (the soften'd Fair replies) Still on thy faith my easy heart relies! Tis thine at will to guide my future way, And, what thou bid'ft, Armida most obey!

Thus they. Meanwhile th' Egyptian Chief beheld His regal standard cast upon the field, And Rimedon all breathless press the plain. 935 By one fierce stroke from mighty Godfrey flain, Or kill'd, or routed, all his troops appear, Yet, to the last, he scorns ignoble fear; And feeks, what now his hopes alone demand, A death illustrious from a noble hand.

Thus he: At once they rush to meet the fight:
At once, on either side, their swords alight.

The Pagen's steel the Christian's buckler cleaves;
His hand, disarm'd, the sudden wound receives.
From Godfrey next descends a mightier blow.
Full on the cheek of his unwary she:
Half back he sell, and while to rise he strove,
Deep in his grain the Frank his faulchion drove.

Now Emirages dead, but few remain

Of all the numbers of th' Experien train:

While Godfrey these from place to place pursu'd,

Brave Attamorus on the sield he view'd,

Who 'anidst his foes th' unequal fight maintain'd,

Alone, on stoot, with hossile blood distain'd:

With bysken sword and shield the King appears,

And close surrounded with a hundred spears.

Then to his wariors pious Godfrey cry'd: Forbear my friends! and lay your arms afide: And thou, O Chief! no more contest the field; Forego thy weapons, and to Godfrey yield.

He faid; and he, who 'till that fatal hour, Ne'er bow'd his lofty foul to human pow'r, Soon as the great, the glorious name he heard, (A found from Lybia to the pole rever'd) At once refign'd his fword to Godfrey's hands: I yield! (he cry'd) nor less thy worth demands.

Thy triumph gain'd o'er Altamorus' name, Is crown'd no less with riches than with fame. My kingdom with its gold, my pious wife With jewels, shall redeem my forseit life.

With jewels, thall redeem my tortest life.

Heav'n has not giv'n me (thus the Chief replies)

A mind to covet gold, or jewels prize:

Still keep whate'er is thine from India's shore,

And still in peace enjoy thy Persian store:

No price for life, no ransom I demand,

I war, but traffic not in Afra's land.

He ceas'd; and with his guards the Monarch plac'd, Then from the field the scatter'd remnants chac'd: 986 These to the trench in vain their slight pursue;
Insatiate Death o'ertakes the trembling crew:
Gigantic slaughter stalks on ev'ry side,
And swells from tent to tent the dreadful tide:
Helms, cress, and radiant shields are purpled o'er,
And costly trappings drop with human gore!

Thus conquer'd Godfrey; and as yet the day
Gave from the western waves the parting ray:
Swift to the walls the glorious victor rode,

705
The domes where Christ had made his blest abode:
In sanguine vest, with all his princely train,
The Chief of Chiefs then sought the sacred fane;
There o'er the hallow'd tomb his arms display'd,
And there to Heav'n his vow'd devotion paid.
